

THE RECORD

HON. J. C. BLACKBURN is returned to the U. S. Senate without opposition, which is a very great compliment to the Senator.

ALREADY some of the State papers have commenced giving the Legislature advice. They would better wait and see if it needs it.

THE Legislature is now getting straightened out to business, and it won't be long before the Governor's veto pen will commence its work.

WHAT'S the matter at Frankfort, that Senator Joe Blackburn's slouch hat was not stylish enough for him to wear while mingling with the Kentucky solons?

AND the Legislature proposes investigating the official acts of Judge Jackson, of Louisville. Already has Governor Buckner's message commenced bringing forth fruit.

THERE is at least one man who is not pleased with the Governor's message. That man is Judge Jackson of Louisville. When the Governor dropped the Judge there was but little of him left.

IN this issue we announce H. P. Stephens as a candidate for County Attorney. Mr. Stephens has been a member of the Boone county bar for several years, and if elected he will make a good officer.

THE familiar faces of several of the candidates were not noticed in Burlington last Monday, but those who were here were very active and with the assistance of their friends were doing some active work with the small crowd in town.

THE indications now are that the Constitutional Convention, if called—and it surely will be—will bring together the ablest body of men that has assembled in Kentucky since the last Constitutional Convention. The best men are being brought out.

THE fight for the Ohio Senatorship waxed warm, with Brice appearing in the lead. Brice being a millionaire is the principal objection urged against him. The U. S. Senate is now an aggregation of millionaires, and the Democrats can and should reduce the number of money kings in that body.

IN another column we publish a poem by Gen. W. O. Butler, descriptive of the battle of New Orleans. The poem was written shortly after the battle and was published for the first time in the Carrollton Democrat on January 8, 1876. Mrs. Annie Graves, of Florence, is the owner of a copy which she kindly furnished us for the present occasion. The copy of the poem was presented Mrs. Graves by Gen. Butler.

THE RECORDER is opposed to a first and second choice vote at the primary election on the grounds that it is a good scheme for creating trouble in the party. The claim that a nomination reached by that plan is bound to be a majority nomination is erroneous, and as a plurality vote is good enough for electing officers, it is surely not objectionable when their nominations are made there by. Let candidates be nominated by a plan so simple that all the voters can understand it. After the first-choice votes are disposed of and the second choice votes are resorted to for a nomination a field for some very nice manipulations is thrown open, and the opportunity might be improved. To avoid complications stick to the plurality nomination.

A MAN with a hobby in regard to some particular branch of State affairs is not a suitable person for a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. That convention should be composed of men acquainted with the history of the State and its present necessities. Delegates with but a single measure in which they are interested will be of no earthly account to the convention. In fact they will be a drawback. In that convention Kentucky ought to assemble her very best statesmanship. Framing a constitution for a great State like Kentucky, where there are so many and such varied interests, is a business that demands a talent that is not commanded by every one who aspires to political recognition. The convention which framed the present Constitution of Kentucky, was famed for the ability of its members, and the one to come will be no less distinguished if this people will determine that they shall send to it the best men they can.

Gen. Benjamin Harrison deserves more thanks from the Democrats than from his own party. The measure of Gen. Harrison has been taken; a snuffy, commonplace Hoosier is visible, but nothing more. As brilliant as a blue-book, as inspiring as fire-drill, as commanding as an old cow. Gen. Harrison toddlers along his narrow path of politics with no more majesty than Baby McKee, his most trusted adviser, displays from the dizzy heights of one Cheap John Wanzamaker's velocipede."—Ingalls, of Kansas.

SOME of Hon. Will Cox's friends are taking his defeat for Speaker of the House quite hard. Their discomfiture is a great deal in excess of that of Mr. Cox. The Bowling Green Times, his home paper, is in a terrible rage and is saying a great many ugly things about the Members from Southern Kentucky, who supported Hon. Harry Myers, who is threatening Hon. John Young Brown with annihilation when he enters the canvass for the Democratic nomination for Governor, because it imagines it has traced some of the elements that resulted in Myers' success to Mr. Brown and his friends. If the Times really desires Brown's defeat and expects to aid in bringing it about, it will have to change its tactics.

Some of the county of the opinion prevails that the Democratic Executive Committee will throw the doors open at the primary election and allow the Republicans to vote. There is no precedent of that kind, and the Committee has not intimated anything of the sort, for it has had no meeting for the consideration of an order under which the nomination is made. The County Democratic Executive Committee is the machine through which party organization is kept up, and there is no existing ground for believing that it will take any action that is calculated to lead to disorganization. We believe that the members of that committee have too much party loyalty to entertain any such idea. If both parties are to vote the primary is unnecessary, and the candidates may as well run on till August.

Gov. Buckner's message is a well written and a comprehensive document. It treats nearly every question of importance to the State with marked ability and without flourish. It says any thing needs correcting, he points it out and says what should be done. The message shows that the Governor is thoroughly alive to the wants and necessities of the State, and that he is perfectly capable of recommending to the Legislature measures, which, if adopted, will increase the State's prosperity and eradicate the lawlessness that has prevailed in some sections to the disgrace of the entire Commonwealth.

In the last three years the cost of juries in this State has increased from $120,215.95 to $361,244.59. The blame for this very large increase the Governor lays at the doors of the Circuit Judges and the Commonwealth's Attorneys of the State, as he does also the increase in the cost of witnesses. He charges these officers with being derelict in their duty in the interest of the public.

In the last ten years the cost to the State of keeping harmless, incurable idiots, has increased five hundred per cent, the amount paid out last year for that purpose being $100,021.88. The Governor is of the opinion that this is another item in which the State is badly imposed upon, and to remedy this evil he suggests to the Legislature that the cost of maintaining these idiots should be paid by two counties in which they reside.

Having reviewed the Commonwealth system, the Governor concluded by saying: "Entire dependence on the State nervously labor of it. It is suggested that a certain percentage of the sum allotted by the State to each county be required to be added to the county levy to supplement the aid given by the State."

In every case of lawlessness on an extensive scale, and which has been investigated by the Governor, he says the cause is directly traceable to the neglect of civil officers. It is to this that the Executive attributes the Harlan and Perry county troubles, and believing that it would redress the public interest the repeal of the acts organizing these counties is recommended. On the question of lobbyists the Governor is very clear, and should any of that class of individuals appear in Frankfort this winter they will have the pleasure of knowing that they are not to be especially welcomed by the Governor. If the General Assembly has as little patience with the lobbyist as the Governor has, that gentleman's vocation is gone from Frankfort this winter.

When the message reaches Judge Jackson, of Louisville, it gets racy. It seems that the Judge has delegated to himself, to a certain extent, the prerogatives of both the Executive and Legislative branches of the State Government. He has remitted fines and imprisonment at will, and thus his assumed authority has on more than one occasion clashed with that of the Executive. Judge Jackson has been regarded, for a long time, as one of the ablest jurists of the State, but Governor Buckner does not consider that Judge Jackson's legal ability clothes him with authority to take part in running so many different branches of the State's business under one commission. It will not be surprising if the Judge is satisfied to confine his ability to the duties of the office of Circuit Judge before he hears the last of the message.

(Pleasant's Letter.)

The Scientific American recently reported that botanists had discovered within a radius of sixty miles of Nashville, Tennessee, that is the Shittim wood of which Noah's Ark was constructed. The attention of the botanists of the country and they have nearly all examined the wood with the result that they agree that these trees grow nowhere else on the globe. They have decided also that this is the wood from which the ark was made, according to ancient descriptions. The tree is medium sized, with very dark, smooth bark, and the wood a bright gold color. In early spring the tree is laden with long white blossoms, resembling great ostrich plumes. This discovery awakens curious speculations. As the botanists agree that the trees grow nowhere else on the earth it follows that Noah's Ark must have been built at Nashville or that the wood was cut and conveyed to Asia, which latter supposition is unreasonable. As the Ark was built somewhere in the vicinity of the Garden of Eden it naturally suggests itself that, if Tennessee was the center of the botanical area of low moral temperature which produced the Flood and made the Ark a necessity, then the Garden of Eden was not far away. What more likely than that Eden was the Bluegrass region? Every body knows that it is girt around by four rivers and that it was the most beautiful prospect of old Daniel Boone's eyes "ever rested upon" when he first saw it. "Then it has been known ever since it was settled as 'God's Country,' which is to say the least, significant. There has been an idea that this name originated in the idea of the Lexington people that they were better than anybody else and who considered themselves 'God's chosen'; but it may have been the original fact lingering in tradition. There seems little doubt that Adam and Eve were placed originally somewhere between Lexington and Maysville, and when they were driven out of the gates they fled through Pineville and Cumberland Gap and emerged upon eternal misery and gloom in Tennessee. How long it took Tennessee to get so tough that it had to be washed out there is no means of telling. But that the Ark was built at Nashville and landed, after much wobbling around since Ararat, there is not much doubt. Ararat, there is not much doubt. Ararat, there is not much doubt. Ararat, there is not much doubt.

The Recorder has made arrangements with the National Democrat by which the two papers will be furnished to one address for $2.25 cash. Those in arrears to this paper and desiring to take advantage of this proposition will be required to pay up the arrearage and the $2.25 in addition. Those who have renewed their subscription to this paper for 1890 will be allowed the benefit of this order if they send us 75 cents. The National Democrat is published at Washington, D. C., and furnishes a vast amount of the most interesting reading matter every week. This is one of the most liberal offers ever made to the people in this part of the country—two of the best papers published for only $2.25. Just think of it.

FROM EXCHANGES.
One-third of the fools in the country think they can beat a lawyer in expounding the law. One-half think they can beat the doctor in healing the sick. Two-thirds of them think they can put the minister in a hole in preaching the gospel, and all of them think they can beat the editor in running a newspaper.—Lyon Co. Gazette.

There seems to be a notion all over the country, growing in favor of a change in the jury system. It is the law in every State, so far as is known to us, that a verdict must be unanimously agreed to. The idea is so to change the law as to make a majority verdict legal. As a rule majority verdicts govern as it is; for there is scarcely a jury of the same opinion when first they retire. The minority is talked to and argued with, until, if possible, it is changed to the opinion of the majority. So, in effect, the majority governs. Why not let it govern first as last?—Maysville Democrat.

"Speaking about warm Christmas weather," said Dr. J. C. Beck, "I have taken the trouble to look the matter up in history, and find that in the winter of A. D. 1172, trees were covered with leaves; there was no winter at all in 1229; the vine and fruit trees were full of blossoms in the winter season of 1421, and brought forth cherries in May; in the winter of 1638, all the public gardens were enameled with flowers; the year 1672 was like that of 1172; the years 1607, 1612 and 1617, were remarkable for their mild temperature, and in 1559, it neither snowed nor froze, while the winters of 1791, 1807, 1822, 1869 and 1877 were as extraordinary as the present winter.—Cincinnati Post.

We want the use of the word Commonwealth in connection with the courts, abolished. It is an unwieldy word, three times as long as it should be, and does not convey any more meaning than the plain, short, easy word, State. Let the matter be so arranged, that instead of saying the Commonwealth cases, or the Commonwealth's Attorney, we can say the State cases, the State against Brown, or the State's Attorney. We can see no reason why the change should not be made, and many reasons why it should. Let off seven useless letters and two useless syllables. Life is too short to be wrestling with such a long word when a shorter one will do so much better. Let off, lo!—Richmond Clinician.

A party of relatives and friends, numbering about seventy-five, assembled at the hospitable residence of Mr. Augustus Haven, West Fourth Street, Covington, to witness the marriage of his estimable and gifted daughter, Miss Mary Irvin Haven to Mr. James M. Scoville, of Pittsburg, Pa., on the 2d of January at 12 o'clock, high noon. The house was tastefully and artistically decorated, the music delightful and abundant, and the service perfect. Rev. Mr. Noel, pastor of the Madison Avenue church, performed the ceremony, which was beautiful and impressive, being that of the Episcopal church. A most happy conception was that of a gift from Mr. Noel to the bride, of a containing the marriage ceremony, printed on beautiful, heavy, tinted paper with blank pages on which each guest registered their name. A white satin ribbon was suspended from the top of it, lovely boys, which, in after years, will be referred to with pleasure by them as a reminder to them of friends who were there to witness the festive occasion.

The bride was attired in a very becoming traveling costume of heliotrope cloth and velvet with bonnet to match, and carried a superb cluster of white-orchids tied with white satin ribbon emblematic of the character of her own fair self. The groom wore an elegant suit of black, and was tall and stately, looking only too proud of the prize he had won, that of "a perfect woman, nobly planned."

The banquet was indeed superb, and enjoyed by all. The bride's table was a noticeable feature, being so artistic in its appointments, at which twelve guests were seated. Miss Fannie Kendall was the fortunate lady who found the ring in the bride's cake, and was warmly congratulated on being the next bride. The groom and Mrs. Scoville left on the six p. m. train for Pittsburg, their future home, amid a shower of rice—the "old shoe" not forgotten. Mrs. Scoville carries with her the congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends both in Union and Richmond, where she is well known. It was noticed that among the many choice gifts brought by the life-long friends were many beautiful paintings executed by the giver, upon which much time had been spent, and the rare volume of books covers a compliment to the intelligence of one who has been so highly appreciated by her friends.

NOTICE.
Florence, Ky., Jan. 1, 1890. I have learned that the character of Mr. Bruce Anderson has been called in connection with an affair in which I was concerned. This is to certify that Mr. Anderson was the victim of a mistake which I most heartily regret. There was no search made of his home and I sincerely hope the communication will put a stop to all the slanderous reports about him. C. W. MYERS, Successor to Toole & Myers. A gentleman reached here from Illinois last week, and about the first inquiry he made was: "How many candidates have you for county officers? The first man I met when I reached Florence, introduced himself as a candidate and solicited my support. I told him I was sorry I could not support him, but he looked disappointed, but appeared relieved when I told him I lived in another State."

Last Saturday as a gentleman was going to Petersburg he came upon a crowd of men equipped with pitchforks and seemingly somewhat excited. Upon inquiry he was informed that their dogs had run a fox under a hay stack near by, and having agreed to put the fox into the barrel, and according to the owner had consented that they might take the stack down to catch the fox. Our reporter went on to Petersburg, and returned in time, as he thought, to see the fox. When the fox was put into the barrel, the crowd of men commenced scattering in every direction pursued by the hounds. Several rabbits were captured, but no signs of a fox were ever discovered. The failure of the fox to materialize precipitated the discussion as to whose dog was guilty of perpetrating such a serious joke. This could not be settled, and lots were then cast to determine who should haul the fox home Monday morning. Two of the young men drew the lucky straw, when the crowd disbanded, leaving the last scene to be enacted with the assistance of a team Monday morning, which proved not to be propitious weather for hauling bags.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Spring hanties have put in their appearance at Hanna House. Ed Tanner and Joe Southern have returned from the South. Eleven cases of measles at Charley Garretts. Charley is at the head of the class. Josey Die died Monday morning from pneumonia following La Grippe. It is with sorrow that we report the death of Leonard Rouse's four months old son. This sad event occurred last Friday at 8 p. m. About 40 of the people in this part of the county are on the sick list. There are numerous cases of measles.

RABBIT HASH.
Mud, corn and potatoes plentiful, money scarce.
B. G. Calvert is very poorly at this writing—pneumonia.
The La Grippe has made its appearance in our neighborhood.
Miss Nettie Barbour's school at Maple Hill, commenced last Monday, after a vacation of three weeks.
C. C. Ryle is disappointed about 50 head of hogs from the landing last Thursday night, that averaged 315.
Mrs. Josie Platt returned to her home in Louisville last Sunday, after a visit of several weeks among friends and relatives.
The candidates have been blocked off from this place by the mud, but they had better not stop, for some of the voters might stop.

The measles are still spreading, one case at Capt. Jack Huey's, several cases at Mrs. Passon's and most every family.

Col. Joe Reed left for his home in Burlington last week, after several weeks visit here. He has kept the neighborhood in a stir.

The widow of the late John Bailey died last Wednesday sudden. She had just finished her breakfast and was sitting by the fire and fell. The funeral was held in the M. E. Church yard.

LEG BONE.
Farmers are busy stripping tobacco. A good deal of sickness in this community.

"Infantus" or the "grippe" is prevailing in this country. Napoleon Bristow's new dwelling house is nearly completed.

Miss Myrtle Neal, who has been ill with diphtheria is convalescing. She is now under the supervision of Prof. Collins, is in a flourishing condition.

Mrs. A. J. Utz, who has been confined to her bed for several days, is much better.

John Riley, son of Lafe Riley, hopes he will soon be up.

Miss Annie Huey in company with her friend, Miss Threlkeld, has returned to school at Georgetown.

J. D. Violette, of Williamson, and Miss Susan Violette, of Gallatin Co., were the guests of their sister, Mrs. Wallace Garrison last week.

Mrs. Wallace Garrison, who has been under the treatment of Dr. Reamy at his private hospital in Illinois, Cincinnati, has returned home much improved.

Mr. Nicholas Talbot and granddaughter, Miss Lottie Williams, have called on their father, Mrs. Mattie and Bessie, who are at Carrolville, Ind.

Bad Adams, our congenial "ladies-man" has declined the idea of going west. He says his heart failed him when he thought of the "girl he would leave behind him."

PETERSBURG.
One of the most pleasant as well as unique and much talked of parties, given during the holidays occurred at the residence of Mrs. Bush on New Year's eve. The elaborate and beautiful young ladies of Petersburg (and they are legion) had been making preparation for weeks; while the guests, not to be outdone, had provided the most elegant costumes ever exhibited in the town. The occasion referred to, was a Cotillion Party.

Besides those who participated, quite a number came in to see the costumes. Among those from a distance were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hagan, Mrs. Brecker, Miss Stephenson, Mr. Smith and Dave Snyder. Owing to the fact that the ladies did not represent any special character or initiate the dress of any special date, but simply made it a point to look odd and odd, I deem it best to describe their costumes under the general term of "costumes of an odd kind."

One of the costumes, with hair dropped over the ear, with long-waisted, unfrilled dresses with jewelry of the golden kind, the girls of Pete having long hair passed off very well for costumes of an odd kind.

Another costume consisted of a pink coat, with white stockings, and white shoes, with stockings to match, buckle shoes and cocked hat.

Mr. Tomlin—Represented a Spanish Count, with a white shirt, no vest, red handkerchief for tie, brilliant scarf about the waist.

At 10 o'clock a splendid rag was spread. There was little music and no games as every one was to full of fun to permit the music to wait. As the old year merged into the new, a happier, brighter, purer crowd of young people was never seen by the writer.

TICKET-OF-LEAVE MEN.
[Courier Journal]
Two years ago the Legislature passed what is known as the Debarment bill, providing, under certain conditions, for the parole of prisoners, though nominally retaining them under police surveillance.

Each has been said in behalf of the measure, but the opposition in Illinois, we learn from the Cincinnati Enquirer, has given rise to very general dissatisfaction, and reading the report sent from Frankfort yesterday of the men in custody is inclined to think that this dissatisfaction will extend to Kentucky.

On the evening of January 7, the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund considered thirteen applications for parole of prisoners, and four cases were successful.

Three of these four prisoners had killed their men. Tom Stringer, of Laurel county, sentenced for two years for manslaughter, received into the penitentiary last June, is released in January. It is claimed in behalf of the prisoner that his brother was engaged in a difficulty; that Stringer went to his rescue with a pistol in his hand, when a negro turned upon him and he shot him dead. The story part of the case is that in a county like Laurel, where a man should have been convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

The second case is that of Charles Brumback, of Clark county, sentenced to seven years for manslaughter, and who has served scarcely four years of the sentence. It is claimed in behalf of Brumback that he was drinking heavily, got into a quarrel, which resulted in a shooting affray "and the death of Webb."

The third case is that of Robert Richardson, of Madison county, sentenced for life, who has served 10 years. The attorney for Richardson claims it, also, a "clear case of self-defense," and the sentence was due to undue excitement in the county when the case was tried; but it is strange that, with the "facts" presented, the attorney could not get the jury to acquit him. Richardson, in spite of the attorney, received a life sentence.

The fourth case is that of John Jones of Boyd county sentenced for 4 years for striking and wounding a man with a fist. He is claimed to be a well thought it was a sad case.

In view of all the complaints of lawlessness coming from every section of this State, reading over the daily reports of murders and manslaugher, and considering the obstacles that at ways impede the course of justice, these cases, one can not but believe that we have stretched mercy beyond the point of safety, when we have opened opportunity for the release of even the few who manage to commit crimes flagrant enough to secure an entrance into the penitentiary.

Three of these four men now set free have taken human life, and they have not yet got the justice they deserve for a jury of their countrymen. They voted of crime and sentenced to the penitentiary for 17 years, one is released after four years. One sentenced for two years serves but six months; one sentenced for life serves 10 years.

We call attention to these cases, not for any individual purpose, but to reflect upon the action of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. We do it simply that the practical application of the Debarment law may be fully understood by the people of Kentucky. The Debarment act went into operation a little more than one year ago, and in that time forty-four prisoners, whose names

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRAT

Every Democrat Should Read It, Every Seeker After Political Truth Should Read It.

CLUB RATES.

We will send the NATIONAL DEMOCRAT and the Boone County RECORDER to any address for $2.50 per year in advance.

This investigation of the ballot-box forgery is in progress at Washington, and so far it has proved a very tame affair.

Our Commonwealth should be careful how it receives the passage of a general advertising law for this State. The first thing it knows some fellow will accuse it of being prompted by a selfish motive.

It was only a few weeks since it was announced that O. B. Hallam, of Owen county, would be relieved of his position at Washington, but the last reports are to the effect that he will remain for a while at least.

A Voice from Utzinger.

In as much as there is a diversity of opinion as to how the County Executive Committee should rule for the primary election, we suggest that the candidates assemble on the county seat on the morning of the first Monday in February, and express their desire as to voters being the privilege of expressing a first and second choice, and report to the committee at its meeting at 1 o'clock, p. m.

We believe the committee to be composed of men who are worthy of the position in which they are placed. We believe they will carefully consider suggestions as to their duty and will use their best efforts so to rule as to give to each candidate a fair and impartial chance for nomination.

The majority of expressions here are favorable to a first and second choice. As there are so many good men for the same office, let them vote for two of them. If their local candidate don't win, they want to pull for another more remote but just as good.

How would this kind of ruling do? The voters may have the privilege of expressing a first and second choice where there are more than two candidates for the same office, and in counting the vote the candidate receiving the lowest number of first choice votes shall be dropped, and the second choice votes of those voting for him, who expressed a second choice, shall be counted as first choice for the candidate for whom they were cast.

Continue this process until the final count, when the candidate receiving the greater number of votes is declared the nominee.

We think this ruling would be fair to all. That it would give a fuller expression from the people than the one choice plan, and that the vote can be counted without difficulty and dissatisfaction.

We cherish the hope that the conduct of our numerous candidates will be courteous and respectful, that no bad feeling will exist after the election, and especially that the old Court House question may be allowed to sleep the sleep of death. An old row should not be agitated until the body is purified.

We want our best men as delegates to the State Constitutional Convention. We believe that Fountain Ridgell stands at the head of the legal profession in this county. That he is capable and true—to his locality—true to his county, and true to the grand old Commonwealth of Kentucky.

While other counties may have in their body their Buckner, their Knott, their Beckam, and other gifted men, we must have either our Ridgell, our Lanning, or our Scott. Our local candidate declines.

A VOICE.

A Voice from Bellevue.

As much is being said concerning the manner of voting at primary elections, and taking it for granted, as some have, that we are to have one in the future, and being "one of the boys," and desiring of harmony, peace and success in the party, I beg a short space.

In the first place let the list be drawn. After some serious thought on the first and second vote, we have concluded that the second vote is not best, for several reasons. A large number of voters will vote further than first vote. Hence you see we do not get the expression of the party.

Not more than one third of the voters can count or understand the counting of the second vote. I know this is placing rather a low estimate on the mathematical attainments of the voters of Boone; nevertheless it is lamentably true.

Hence, you see, we have thought beyond the comprehension of the masses, and you are going to hear the cry of manipulation and witness dissatisfaction. Furthermore, we do not see that the second vote arrives any nearer the expression of the majority than the first.

It is possible, and at the same time probable, that the candidate receiving the most votes by the second choice plan, may be defeated. As an illustration we will take the candidates for the judgeship, as there are only two candidates.

The designated by the letters A, B and C, as our friend over the stream says, suppose 2,000 votes be cast. We will assume that A gets 900, B, 552, and C, 548. We will assume further that those voters all vote for a second choice. According to the second choice plan C is dropped, and his vote is counted elsewhere. But let us not drop him until we examine the second vote of those voting first for B, for instance. We find 472 of B's first choice votes go to C and 80 to A as a second choice, making C's vote 1,020 and A's, 980, or a majority for C of 40 and a plurality of 20. Now is it not plain to be seen that the man who has the majority's vote may be dropped because he only lacked 5 of the first choice.

We do not wish to be considered as dictatorial. We pen these thoughts for those who wish to see the party united, and the best material in ranks filling official positions.

"What?" cried Miss Maroon.

The stout man looked her at her for a minute or two, then he plunged his hand deep down into his coat pocket and extracted there a slip of paper from a newspaper.

"I'll tell you down here in black and white, plain enough," said he.

Ex-Speaker Carlisle's Protest to the Tariff Commission.

Ex-Speaker Carlisle's protest to the Tariff Commission is a rare and radiant, not to say ridiculous thing. We are told, in the first place, that the imposition of a protective duty does not really raise the price of the home product to the consumer.

REMARKABLE LOGIC.

The Army of Tennessee Forth in England.

Professional logic is a rare and radiant, not to say ridiculous thing. We are told, in the first place, that the imposition of a protective duty does not really raise the price of the home product to the consumer.

AN UNKNOWN LAND.

A Strange Country said to Exist North of Alaska.

Alaska Geo. R. Leavitt, of the whaling ship, has recently arrived from Alaska, where he has been for the last five years, and brings the first news of a hitherto unknown land north of Alaska.

CATARH.

Medical Science, Certain and Abundant.

But few people are aware of the fact that the disease of Catarh is a common one, and that it is a disease of the eye.

True Economy.

It is to be seen that the true economy is not to be seen in the fact that the disease of Catarh is a common one, and that it is a disease of the eye.

ALL A MISTAKE.

How the Black-Eyed Woman Stole a March on Miss Maroon.

"I dare say all my relatives will think it very silly of me," said Miss Maroon.

"But I really think it is a mistake," said Miss Maroon.

THE DAIRY.
—Colonel Curtis says: "The future dairyman must make a pound of butter from twenty pounds of milk."
—No man who understands the dairy business ever sells his best cows at any price. The better the dairymen the

—The Jersey Bulletin concludes that a Jersey cow which does not make a pound of butter from less than twenty pounds of milk is not a fair representative of the breed, provided she is properly fed and cared for.

—In reply to inquiries the Rural New Yorker has obtained expressions from various experts to the effect that there is as much difference in samples of cream as in the cows and the milk from which the samples come.

—Milk is an animal secretion. The secretary action of the milk glands in pends upon the nervous system, any derangement of which interferes with milk secretion. Hence the importance of treating the cow kindly, as ill-treatment disturbs the nervous system, and both lessens the flow of milk and reduces its quality.—Hoard's Dairyman.

—One can not learn too much about dairying. There are many details, and it is very easy to make a mistake. The best dairymen succeed only by giving attention and study.

Each individual animal requires particular management, and success depends upon a faithful observance of every requirement.

—This is a good suggestion from an English exchange: By all means, let us have linseed cake made from clean seed, free from injurious and non-feeding weed seeds, also in a fresh wholesome condition, but do not put an unreasonable value upon the actual percentage of oil, and let the general character of the cake and its composition, as shown by a full analysis, regulate the market value.

WINTER DAIRYING.

Taking All Things Into Consideration,

There is a growing demand for fresh winter-made butter. Our systems demand richer food in cold weather than in warm, in order to maintain the normal temperature of the body, and many persons are able to assimilate heat or fat-producing food in the form of butter who can not take in any other. What the city consumer wants to know is that he is getting pure, honest, bona fide butter, and when a certain dairy farm supplies him during winter with a nice, fresh article, he is pretty sure to order it sent on through summer. A city man likes regularity; he not only wants his butter to come punctually every week, but he even wants it the same day of the week, and he likes to see it precisely the same color, and have it seasoned exactly the same way.

There is no other article of every day consumption that is capable of taking as many different flavors as butter, and when one has learned to like a certain flavor he is loth to accept any other. When the dairymen cultivate special

Taking all things into consideration, butter can be made as profitably, and with as little trouble, in winter as in summer, the price realized in cold weather being greater, and when convenient and comfortable houses are provided for man and beast the work is not necessarily more unpleasant even in the most severe weather. In fact, those experienced in the business declare that they would rather make butter in winter than in summer, that it is easier to ripen the cream properly and to make the butter of good uniform quality.

As a rule the same cows will give richer milk in winter than in summer, provided always that they are furnished with the foods requisite to make the butter from. Winter-raised calves also make finer milch cows, as they take more readily to all kinds of food. This places the food consumed more under the control of the feeder, and by feeling their dependence upon him, the calves acquire a docility that lasts them all their lives. And after having passed the first six months of their lives under the careful guardianship of the herdsman, the fall calves meet the spring grass at an age when they are able to eat it as an all food, and thus they have a twelve months' growth without that break which spring calves have when weaned from milk in the fall and put upon dry food.

The spring calf has plenty of grass in the pasture when it is too young to use it, and is obliged to subsist upon dry food in winter, when it first becomes of age to gather its own living in the pasture. Another benefit derived from winter dairying is that it keeps the herdsman in almost constant contact with his stock, and when his cows are yielding a daily income they are sure to be well provided for, and will come through a hard winter in good condition for spring grass.—H. C. Dudley, Ia.

CONVERTED TO ENSLAGE.
A New England Story With a Moral for Dairymen Everywhere.

A neighbor who doesn't keep cows had been buying his supply of butter from another neighbor. The buyer had convinced himself that he possessed very keen discernment and had formed a prejudice against ensilage, believing not only that it spoiled butter, but that he detected a bad flavor at once in butter manufactured from this root. On meeting the son of his butter-making friend one day, he gave orders to be informed as soon as the silo was opened, and he would procure his butter elsewhere. The boy reported the order to his father, who quietly forbade any such proceeding. After a while the silo was opened and the cows fed judiciously for four weeks. Then one evening the dairyman called upon his customer in a friendly way, and in the course of conversation the consumer repeated the request to be informed when the silo was to "open. The dairyman remarked: "Very well, I suppose you have found the butter all right so far." "O, yes," was the immediate response. "So far it is all right." "Ha, ha!" laughed the farmer. "I have been giving my cows all the ensilage they would eat for a month." "There," said the wife of the buyer, "I told you that our butter had been much improved during the last four weeks." The result was a complete conversion of the neighbor who supposed he so disliked ensilage.

products. The moral of this is, that a cow's ration be judiciously balanced, the milk, cream or butter will be above suspicion. It is natural for the cow to give a good product, but she must be fed good food regularly and in sensible quantities and proportions.—St. M. Homestead.

The two leading candidates for jailer in Grant county received the same number of votes at the recent primary election, and to decide the matter the Democratic Executive Committee of the county has called a delegate convention to meet on the tenth of next month to make the nomination.

The Elizabethtown News says the Kentucky Legislature is demonstrating every week that it is the wisest and ablest that has met for many years, and if it will just carry out Gov. Buckner's suggestions all will be well, it will be referred to by future generations as the "Model Legislature."

The only joke in which Mr. Carle was ever known to indulge, was the other day when a member proposed to offer a resolution for the printing of 10,000 copies of somebody's text-book of general parliamentary law, when Mr. Carle said, "Why would not 10,000 of Speaker Reid's photographs answer all purposes?"

The first man wounded in the rebellion has been found. His name is John S. Swearer, of Baltimore. He says that he was a bricklayer at work on Fort Sumner when it was bombarded, and that he dropped his tool and worked at the gun, and was wounded by the fragments of a shell. John draws a pension of four dollars a month, but wants more and is asking an increase.

His Wood-Forker ballot-box investigation is concluded. On several occasions during the investigation there were lively scenes, and at times the proceedings were so wild that the Wood-Forker came out of the investigation in a more damaged condition than when he went in.

The investigation has done this: It has widened the "bloody" line in the Republican party.

Henry Lassing, our young friend, has named a new week's card, and that he will make it so interesting for the guilty party that he will never forget that the signing of an other person's name without authority is a very grave offense in this country. If the fellow who was so handy with his pen, will refer to section 7, on page 420, General Statutes, he will discover that such offenses are punishable by confinement in the penitentiary from two to ten years.

We hear reports from several sections that planters are preparing for the new crop. The winter months have been unusually fine, and the prospects of good weather this year so vague that there may be some who will attempt to sow beds earlier than the early dates of previous years, but this is a hazardous undertaking, and may result in the loss of the plants and much labor, just at a time when it will be the most disappointing. We would advise planters not to be influenced to depart from the usual early period by the mild weather now prevailing, for it is possibly to get weather in the latter part of this month and next month that will render their too early preparations good for nothing, and if not actually destroying the plants prevent them from germinating or from attaining any good over later sown beds. The latter part of March or the first part of April is early enough to sow sections of the Leaf Tobacco belt, especially in the Ohio Valley to burn and sow beds.—Exchange.

CATCHING LOBSTERS.

The little town of R. on the coast of Oregon, is celebrated for its lobster catching. The lobster is a very valuable article, and is much sought after for its meat and its shell. The lobster is caught by means of traps, and is then boiled and served as a delicacy.

LOCAL NEWS.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Public:

We have the pleasure in extending to our friends throughout the county and especially the community in and adjoining that in which we are situated for the kindness and patronage they have bestowed upon us in the past in the separate business relations we have enjoyed, and now that we are associated together, we assure you it will only double our efforts and desire to please you in selling you goods we carry or filling orders for goods we do not carry. Bear in mind, our present situation gives us the advantage of a transportation which is cheaper by half than can be had in an inland town, and we intend our friends and customers to have the benefit of their part of the savings.

In conclusion permit us to add, that our intention is to deal fairly and honestly with all, to do the best we can to have all satisfied—to extend to all that courtesy to which man by man is entitled. When we fall in the discharge of these duties we will no longer consider ourselves entitled to the public patronage. Asking you to come to see us real soon. We remain Your Friends,

PIPER & COWEN,

At high noon Saturday there was a strong force of candidates in town, but as soon as they reached the inner man there was an exodus for Gunpowder, where they had been invited to show their pleasing countenances and make many a p. m.

THE RALLY.

A Big Crowd at Gunpowder last Saturday.

Candidates were Numerous and their Speeches Interesting.

Last Saturday afternoon was set apart as the candidates "half-day" at this place, and the weather being very pleasant, about 200 people, many of whom were ladies, assembled to hear the gentlemen say their speeches.

John L. House was chosen chairman, and called the house to order. He proceeded to read the programme, which allowed the candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention one hour, and the candidates for other offices twenty minutes.

Hon. H. L. Loomer, the only candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, was present, and after some introductory remarks, he spoke of the progress our State is making in the race for wealth. He then proceeded to tell why the constitution ought to be revised, speaking of the dishonesty in elections, the bribery that is carried on by our officials, and the petty evasions which he pronounced the worst of all gambling. He says our State Officers that as soon as they are elected their pockets are filled with free-passes presented by the different transportation companies, which means nothing but bribery. That our legislators work for a wage a day, and that they spend a good part of their time in Louisville, Cincinnati, and from there they travel to the capital, not leaving a quorum at the capital to do business. He claimed for the sons of America the distinction of being the most educated and most progressive people on globe. In conclusion he said he felt that he would serve the people to the very best of his ability.

The next speaker was Judge Baker. He said he is a candidate for re-election, that it takes a long time to become posted in the duties of an office, and that he thought the people ought to re-elect him. He said he had acquired a belief as a prohibitionist and a tax collector, which he did not intend to change. He was a true Democrat and had never cast any vote. Mr. Stephens followed Judge Baker, and said he thought that any man who had been Squire or given the office any thought, ought to be competent to do as Judge of the county court, which he was satisfied that he could fill the office to the satisfaction of the people; that he is also a Democrat and wants to vote for George Jackson.

Mr. Grubbs said, on all important questions, hear the people. If elected he would faithfully discharge the duties of the office of County Judge, and that he was as good a Democrat as was in the house.

County Superintendent Ryke said he had tried to faithfully discharge the duties of his office, that he had built and was now being used for the people who abused him, but he was not the people who abused him, in the face with a clear conscience, and hoped he would be re-elected.

Mr. Loomer said that he was a friend of education, that he knew the quality of the man, but gives to him force just as a grindstone gives to an edge tool. That if elected he would hold the Institute himself and that he knew that he was qualified for the office of Superintendent.

Mr. Tolin said that he had served the county quite a while as Attorney, that he had saved the people all the expense he could, such as the unnecessary building of a new court house, exceptions of two or three had filed all the calls upon him which were about 140 in number. He hoped that the people would give him the office again.

Mr. Stephens said he knew that he would be elected County Attorney if the married ladies would talk to their husbands, and the single ladies, to their sweethearts for him.

Mr. Bond said he knows he is qualified to discharge the office of County Attorney, and that he wanted the people to vote for him, and said to the ladies, "If he could gather all the sweets he would bind them into a bouquet and lay them at their feet."

C. L. Crisler, candidate for jailer, said he asked for the lowest office in the business, and if they would give it to him, the next time he would run for Congress, and John G. Carlisle would be nowhere.

Mr. Cowen's remarks in answer to Crisler were well timed.

J. H. Crisler gave the crowd a regular hand-shaking and looked like he was sorry to leave. So we were.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

ANNUAL SPRING SALE.

I propose to inaugurate an Annual Spring Sale to take place at my shop in the town of McVie, Boone county, Kentucky, and to continue them every year so long as I can find sale for the work I can do through the leisure of winter months. The first sale will take place on SATURDAY, MARCH 22nd, 1880, at which time I will sell to the highest and best bidder, Harrow, Swivel and Double Trees, Farm Gears, Fine Grind Buggies, and a great variety of Buggies, surreys, Buck-Boards, Road Cars, Railed and Spring Wagons. In doing this work, I have employed none but skilled workmen, and it has all been done under my own supervision. All the Farming Implements are made of the best material and will give good satisfaction. All my Buggy work was up to my choice and standard, honest, substantial and fancy work is guaranteed. I have made a specialty of my repair work, and purchasers will not only find it substantial, but that it looks as well as new. Desiring to make this Annual Sale a success, I shall be my endeavor to do good work and satisfy everybody both in quality and price.

Terms—Three months credit will be given on all sums over $10, purchasers giving a negotiable note with good security; sums under $10 cash.

Sale will begin at 10 o'clock a. m. J. S. MORRISON.

Judge Gordon's fine Jersey cow which was bitten by a mad dog four weeks ago, went mad and had to be killed.

W. T. Montgomery said his crop of about 8,000 pounds of tobacco at 10c. all round. The prices paid in the county range from 10 to 12c. The New says, John T. Epperson cut a tree in the woods near town last week which was about two feet in diameter, and in the heart of which was a lock of long, coarse hair which had been put in an eagle's nest and fastened with a wooden pin when the tree was a sapling, for the purpose, we suppose, of curing autism.

DEARBORN CO., IND.

The wheat crop is reported to be very promising in this part of the State.

A jury of our neighbors tried a case, Saturday last, in Justice Weimer's court, had the temerity to applaud the jury for the court. The same jury were by the same case sent back to their room with a vigorous suggestion that they amend their verdict if they did not want to become guests of the county. The verdict came in in proper time.

Geo. Tibbets, well out duck hunting on the overworked blain bluff lands, Saturday, with Sam Shine and a comrade, desired to be landed from the bank on a part of a stalk field, that was just out of water, and told his comrade to row back for him when they desired to return home. They did so, but failed to make Tibbets hear them, and came home, supposing he had come away in another boat. Tibbets waited long and anxiously, but failed to attract attention of any one, and realizing his dangerous position, waded through deep water to a small tree, as the land he was on was rapidly being taken away by the back water from the tree. After gaining a position on the tree he fired several shots and called loudly for help, but failed to attract the attention of any one. All the cold night he remained in this perilous condition almost frozen. He was finally signified by parties and rescued from his watery tomb.—Press.

PIPER & CROPPER.

IN MEMORIAM.

GRAVES—Died at his home in Butler county, Ohio, Jan'y, 28th, John Leathers Graves, nearly 83 years old.

His death so long looked for by himself, was unexpected by his family and friends. He was calm, peaceful and without suffering. As the tired child lays himself down and goes to sleep, so the tired old man laid himself down for his last repose.

Graves was born in Kenton Co., at the family homestead, near Ellettsburg, his own home in later years, adjoining that of his father, late in Boone Co., so that for most of his life he was a son of Boone, and known to all her people as an energetic, upright and honorable man. In whatever business engaged, he commanded the respect and esteem of his fellows.

He moved to Ohio about twenty years ago. He was a member of the Baptist Church, of which he was a worthy member, and his life was deeply imbued with the doctrines of the Bible, as taught by that sect.

"A poor sinner saved by grace," was the great faith upon which his soul rested from the time he was a child, and in life, his hope in death, and now, his realization in eternity.

He was the eldest of eleven children of Major Bartlett and Elizabeth Leathers Graves, and one of fourteen children of his father, who was twice married.

It will be interesting to the near friends of the family, to recall once more, the names of this numerous family. They were Bartlett and Graves, Henry, of Mo; Mrs. Wm. Grant, of Petersburg; John L. Mrs. Benj. Dulaney, Milton W. Mrs. George Winn, Mrs. Nathaniel Winn, Joseph A. Mrs. Blake Bush, Mrs. Dr. James Graves, William, Thomas and Benjamin. It is not straining the point to say that a more correct, virtuous and honorable family has never been brought up in this State. There was not an exception among the four.

But they are gone all gone! Milton W. alone remaining. How lonely must the old man of 89 years feel, with the remembrance of his childhood and youth and now this only brother of his old age—has passed over the river before him? How longingly must he cast his eyes toward the other shore, hoping perchance to catch a glimpse of the slippery forms of those he loved so well.

Mr. Graves was twice married. First to Marie Graves, sister of Mr. Johnson Graves, of North Bend. His last wife was Mrs. L. L. of Ohio. Six children survive him—five daughters and one son. So ends a long and useful life.

Kirby Sanyoules for the following: About two weeks ago he was walking in the track of the Southern near the depot a large ball of fire rolled before him. To say he was scared, well, to the victors belong the spoils—if so, when does our share of the plunder come in, is the general idea of the present incumbents, but in the mad rush for office they overlook so many of the small fry, that it is not surprising that it is with our local affairs.

We will take the offices of County Judge and Clerk as an example, he arrives at a prominent party's house (so they think) gets the ballot box and takes him around, gets introduced to six or seven men of the above parties who arrives and begins to think, well, I've the county by the tail with a down pat, when up pops 13 or 15 head tall payers (when they get it) and these wild-eyed fellows knock into pi, all the little schemes set by so and so. Candidates, I have to your superior knowledge in making your own mistakes, but don't overlook the great unthought of.

To the Voters of Boone County.

I saw in last week's paper that I had withdrawn from the race for Assessor. I will say to you, I have not, nor I do not intend to withdraw. This is not the first time I have corrected such errors, but this one is as mean, low, principled thing as any man could do. It is false from first to last, and as base a forgery as was ever perpetrated upon any man. The man that did this knew very well that he was stating a falsehood and forgery. I cannot think for a moment that it was one of my opponents, for I regard them as honorable gentlemen, and I think they would not approve of such conduct from anyone to help them through the race. I conceived this canard for false and high principles; not to do or say anything that would injure anyone, and I claim this from the people of the county that I have given up the race with the best of feelings and least idea of withdrawing from the race.

A gentleman who has some inside information, says that another railroad from Covington to Louisville, will be built, and that it may not miss Burlington far. We hope that he is correct, but suggest that it is too soon to commence booming real estate on account of the railroad outlook.

Geo. C. Voshell, of Dearborn county, Indiana, was in town one day last week, looking healthy and hearty, notwithstanding the report that he was very sick at his home in Indiana. George says the air over his way is freighted with Democracy, and some of the recent converts to its ranks were heretofore staunch Republicans.

Judge Baker and County Attorney Tolt, went to Wm. Bailey's, in East Bend, last Wednesday, and held an inquest of lunacy on Mrs. Elmina Hodge, who was adjudged a lunatic, and ordered conveyed to the asylum at Anchorage, she being so dangerous and uncontrollable as to render it unsafe to leave her in charge of a committee in this county.

Harry and Charlie Voshell, who were arrested for the trouble with the Green at Flatburg, came in last Thursday, the day set for their examining trial, and waived examination, and each gave bond in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance at Clatsop Court. Green's condition had greatly improved, and his attending physician, Dr. J. M. Grant, entertained hopes of his ultimate recovery.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Wm. Riddell, of Hebron, was in town Sunday.

Dr. J. M. Grant of Petersburg, was in town Thursday.

Miss Maud Kirkpatrick was at home a day or two last week. She was on her way from Indianapolis to Hopkinsville, this State, where she has charge of a large military establishment.

Benjamin S. Hill, who is handling tobacco at Brackett Station on the River and Crescent, in Kenton county, was in Burlington a day or two last week. Ben has many friends in this part of the county who are always glad to see him.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

I learned from parties in Aurora that they are trying to get the president of the B. & O. Road to use their line on the Indiana side to Warsaw, Ky., then build a bridge across the Ohio. They say there is an old railroad bed in good condition. It will be used. It was built in 1861-2. Twenty miles this side of Louisville they could use the narrow gauge road. If they would do this I think the people of Petersburg would help give the right of way for the railroad to come through this place to Covington. They could build a bridge at Anderson, and then there would be no trouble with the high water. We need a railroad, and I think many would locate here as we are not bothered with the high water like Aurora and Lawrenceburg. V. D. Petersburg, Mich. 4, 1890.

Engineers are at work surveying the route for the proposed railroad from Covington to Louisville. We are informed that the route now being surveyed crosses the Lexington place near the residence of William Carpenter just above the town of Florence, thence on toward Union, passing near the residence of Dr. Lassing. The appearance of the surveyors is producing a great deal of talk and the people along the route now being run are delighted with the prospects of having a railroad across the section of the county. It certainly will be a great help to them, and as to the Big Bone neighborhood—well to it the advantage will be incalculable.

At the last meeting of the North Kentucky Agricultural and Breeders' Association, the reports of those who had been collecting receipts for the capital stock showed that over $6,000 in stock had been taken, and the following had pledged themselves for the following amounts: Orin Perdue, $400; J. E. Bristol, $400; Sam Flood, Jr., $400; O. P. Hoke, $400; O. Hughes, $400; H. A. Hicks, $400; Greenville Bedinger, $750; and John S. Hoggins, $400. The understanding is that shares may be sold by stockholders, and that each share is to entitle the holder to a complimentary ticket to all the exhibitions of the associations.

Mrs. John H. Smith and Oscar Gaines are two farmers who push business instead of allowing it to push them, and they are among the very few who succeeded in filling their lot with stock. They have a winter pen at both ends can deprive them of their lot-room the following summer.

Mr. George M. Bedinger, of Erlanger, has sold his Woodside farm to a syndicate for $34,000. When Mr. Bedinger bought the same farm for $17,000 from Cal. Milt. Hamilton several years ago, it was considered that it was a very large price for it. We are glad Mr. Bedinger sold so well.

In cases of Fever and Ague, the blood is so affected, though not so dangerously poisoned by the effluvia from the malarious swamp as it could be by the deadliest poison. Dr. J. H. McCallister's Fever and Ague Cure will eradicate this poison from the system in a short time.

The water may be high and threatening in the Ohio, but prices are low and inviting at Frank Dorman & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ind.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Squire Stephens was working in his home precinct last week.

Ed Stephens and Will Howe will start a steam laundry if they meet with sufficient encouragement.

Hon. J. W. Lassing very aptly says in the present Legislature our Legislature on wheels. Says the members spend most of their time riding about on free passes.

It is understood that Saturday will be candidate day at Bullittville. We hope every candidate will so arrange his canvass that he may be present.

We extend a cordial invitation to the people of Hebron, Uzaline, Francesville, etc., to meet with us.

The other day as one of our young men, noted for his fondness of the gentler sex as well as for politeness, was passing a farmyard where the good housewife had hung her weekly washing—lo gallantly lifted his hat with "Good evening, ma'am!"

CONSTANCE.

The river is approaching its normal condition again.

Pneumonia has prevailed to an alarming extent in this county.

Cap. Kottmeyer recently purchased a fine trotting mare, which he can be seen exercising every fine afternoon.

W. A. Crigler, of Bromley, has donated a lot to the Christian denomination, and a handsome church edifice will be erected thereon.

The recent high water greatly inconvenienced the traveling public in this section. The Upfinger bus could get no more than a few feet from the river.

Henry Volz, who works in the rolling mill across the river, was caught in the machinery a few days ago, but fortunately escaped with slight wounds.

Dr. Murat and his father-in-law were riding the other day, broke, dumping them. The Doctor received a few scratches.

A. Williamson, of Newport, will occupy the pulpit in the Christian church here every Sunday in the month, except the one, on which day Elder Butts will preach for the congregation.

UNION.

Not long since your correspondent took a ramble and the elms, with the following results:

Found Walton thriving, prosperous and full of business. Only for the pleasant faces of H. G. Blanton, Tom Curley, John McHaffon, Wood Stammers, Edwards & Co.

Edwards & Co. have failed to recognize the quiet village of a few years back. New Bank Building Association, and elegant residences, nice Churches and Schools speak well for the public spirit of citizens. Long may they live.

Boards the last line for Verona. First thing of interest to catch my eye was a flatboat pulled by four men, coming up Main street (Venice like) and when it landed was made. Deputy Sheriff Roberts came ashore with a very important secret in his possession that he found near Big Bone. He said this was the only means of transportation for Dr. F. H. McCallister had just now. Dr. F. H. McCallister had just now. Dr. F. H. McCallister had just now.

It had improved. Tobacco all striped and many crops sold at fair figures. Merchants seemed to be doing a good safe business, with collections about the place. Found an educational institute of Verona located after by two of Union's fair daughters. Intended to call on them but saw Henry Lassing coming in from the sale and I told him to go on my street. I bought 600 pounds of tobacco from the Big Bone. I had a long pole like a surveyor's rod, for a walking cane. Dr. Adams, John White, and, in fact, all the citizens of the Bone, took me for an R. L. surveyor, and of course, I was treated like a king. I had a postcard and Wood Miller is P. M. They need a blacksmith shop very badly, as there are only six in the place.

After drinking several times of the delicious Big Bone beer, I had a good dinner and talking railroad for the minutes. I left for Normansville. After a chat with J. W. Kennedy and his general clerk, Geo. Johnson, about railroad, politics, etc., for forty minutes, I started for the next and better city of Florence. Here I found Bluff Adams and Jim Allen, hustling everything from a hoghead of tobacco to a paper of pins. They have bought 100,000 lbs. of the wool to this date and hope to be sold 50 cents a pound. They are the steamboat agents, and keep the government light, wharf, etc. In fact, they have lost about all the territory covered. This is such an important place that a run has been authorized for the place, but has its interests protected for action on short notice in defense of its interests on land or sea.

I met Cy Crisler and Mr. Cowen, candidates for the Union, and they are unusually large size and labeled in large letters on top. We had the curiosity to lift the matter to the bottom, and learned that its destination was the penitentiary at Frankfort, and that its contents were books, magazines and papers, all valuable. Among them were the Farmers' Magazines for the last ten years, and files for the same length of time, of the best religious and literary paper published. All these, after being read by the family, had been carefully laid aside, and are now sent for the use and benefit of the convicts, in the hope, not only to afford them enjoyment and instruction, but to give some of them a chance to improve their lives. These donors had first corresponded with those in charge of the convicts, and learned that such a gift would be most acceptable and well-laid care of. We would love to give their names, but they are not known to me. I mention the fact as a suggestion to others that it is a far better way to dispose of really valuable periodicals as they accumulate, than to let them rot in the shelves of a library. Some we have had better be burned before they are read, so foul and demoralizing are they to all who read them.

One day last week the "Solemn Deed" added a large new dinner bell to the establishment on Pike at.

On account of the rapid increase of his business, we hear that Bert Parsons contemplates adding a steam engine to his laundry.

On account of the rank growth here wheat is making, Mike Koker bought 40 head of calves and turned on his fields to check the growth.

H. C. Griffith and family have moved to Clark county, Ky., where Mr. Griffith has the contract of erecting a number of buildings this season.

The new growers are now cutting their crop, which is the largest one grown in this vicinity for several years. Some of the rods are leaning out.

During the last two weeks Bellevue has had 11 cases of measles, mostly children. Some of them were quite sick, but all are now recovering.

The new firm which has purchased the late Farmers' Store here, are creating quite a stir. We see that they are receiving a liberal share of the trade.

A large number of our tobacco growers are shipping their crops to the Louisville market this season. They claim they get better prices there than at Cincinnati.

Moving is now in order and we see families passing through here nearly every day. We hope those who are moving will receive in the exchange both profit and pleasure.

Our new P. M. has been in the progressive line, and has overhauled his store room, and with the assistance of Maj. Huntin, added a coat of paint to his room and touched it up with colors which greatly improved the view.

Bellevue is again feeling the need of more residences. We have calls for several houses at present, and every house in the place is occupied. Several houses are now present at good prices to responsible parties, church edifice will be erected thereon.

Do none of our enterprising capitalists see the advantage offered?

While our neighbors are talking railroads, the citizens of our little city are not so much encouraged over the prospect of a railroad being built down the river on the Indiana side, with a station opposite our town, when, with a good ferry land here, we will be but a mile from a shipping point. We will have in their power for its success, and that they no doubt will do.

Everything else the taxable value of the railroad would be of great benefit to the county, and the county could give the road a bonus to secure it, and then make it a wise business speculation.

Col. Landrum means business evidently as he has left no stone unturned to get the attention of the railroad people directed to this route. When the time comes our people should do every thing in their power for its success, and that they no doubt will do.

THE PLANNING SCHOOL IN THE

LOCAL NEWS.

Depositions for Circuit Court are being taken.

No winter, eh? What have we been having the past week, pray?

Day after tomorrow is the 21st, the day it is said spring should commence.

Where two or three are gathered together the candidates are discussed.

But few plant beds have been sown to date. Plenty of time yet for that work.

The candidates had a cool reception at Bullittville last Saturday—that is by the elements.

Mr. Alfred Cason, one of our fruit men, thinks that that crop will be small this season.

The primary hipodrome is billed for Hebron to night and for McVine Saturday afternoon.

The low, soft, sweet notes of the dove are now heard in the chorus of spring's feathered songsters.

For all headaches, female troubles, neuralgia pain in the head take Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm.

Notice—The clerk of the primary election will be paid for their services. J. M. Lasing, Clin. Dem. Ex. Com.

Two weeks and two days is the primary election, during which time there will be any amount of business done.

This office has commenced printing invitations to the Democratic Convention for April 25th. The first order was for 2,000.

Notice—If you want your house painted or papered, you can save money by calling on Chas. E. Clure, Hebron, Ky.

Last week we wanted a neat set of bills for Tige, owned by C. L. Voshell. Tige can be found at Mr. V. Stable near Plattburg.

The present campaign has precipitated a rigid examination of the political books of the county as far back as the close of the war.

Clarence Kirkpatrick, who has been engaged for a year as telegrapher at Boalsville, Indiana, is visiting his relatives at this place.

Wood and Frank Maxwell sold their crop of tobacco, 7,285 lbs., last week to Mr. Lerch, of Bellevue, for $9.75 per hundred all round.

A large flock of wild ducks passed over town a few evenings since, going west. Very few have been killed in this section this spring.

John McConnell, of East Bend, was in town last Thursday, to make final settlement as administrator of the estate of S. S. Moore, deceased.

Some are estimating that 2,000 votes will be cast at the primary election, and that one at a primary would be unprecedented in this county.

Croupy suffocations, night coughs and all the common affections of the throat and lungs quickly relieved by Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm.

Thos. Cowan has had considerable sickness in his family in the last month. First he and his little boy were sick, and last week his wife had an attack of pneumonia.

In our Rabbit Hash communication is an analysis of the political situation in this precinct. Note it and see how it conforms to the final result there. It is not from our "regulars."

The internal arrangements of the Deposit Bank were somewhat changed last Friday by W. J. & R. C. Rice. The counter and desks were too close to the grate and they had to be moved.

If your kidneys are inactive, you will feel cold and weak, and melancholy in the most cheerful society, and melancholy in the most cheerful society. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm, will set you right again. $1 per bottle.

There have been some changes made in the officers appointed to hold the primary election at Bullittville. At Bullittville, J. O. Huey and Henry Newton have been substituted for L. S. Beeson and F. A. Hall and Wash Watts for John S. Gaines.

The elegant and palatial steamer "Primary," is now being repaired and refurnished for an early excursion up Salt River. Her agent, "Vox Populi," will have a long roller of excursionists on the evening of April 25th, and on the 26th will steam to the several landings to receive the passengers.

Next Saturday is the first of J. S. Morrison's annual spring sales, which it is to be hoped will be well attended, and his enterprise given a substantial recognition. It is intended to have the candidates for the Democratic office there, and ample provisions will be made that they may grate for the entertainment of the crowd.

Not till one day last week did we know that our attorney friend Charles Fick, of Covington, had a military record, but such is the case. When Kirby Smith menaced Covington and Cincinnati, Charles was a student at Oxford, Ohio. Excitement swept over Ohio, and among those who determined to do as we did our friend Fick, who, disabled drunk and fat, organized a company of students under his command, and marching to the front. He reported at Cincinnati, and shortly thereafter his army was bivouaced at North Bend, Ohio, being put in possession of the railroad, canal and the Ohio river, which he prevented the Rebels from carrying off. Capt. Fick and his army of students were the position assigned them, and most valiantly dispatched. His campaign, chicken and pie, which the people of the surrounding country sent to them in quantities. Capt. Fick's military air long since gave way to that of the more peaceable profession, a legal counselor in the ranks of which he is distinguished.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Not a candidate this week.

Spencer Smith and family were visiting here Sunday.

The general health of the neighborhood has greatly improved.

Charles Thompson is improving and anxious to go to business again.

Services were held at the Presbyterian church Sunday, by Rev. Tullard.

Mr. Ad Huey has been sick, but is much better and hopes to be out in a few days.

Malcolm Rachal is a mound builder but when it comes to building shelves in a store, "he is an artist."

Mrs. J. A. Huey, after visiting Lexington, Princeton and Warsaw for three weeks, will return home the 19th.

Charley Clegg says that the loveliest and most beautiful scenery in Boone is between Union and Mrs. Conley's place.

Mr. J. A. Huey, who is employed in a regular line, is the father of his mother who died at the age of 90, on the 12th, in Covington.

H. A. Hicks has the 12-year-old in a regular line, is the father of his mother who died at the age of 90, on the 12th, in Covington.

Several cases of pneumonia in town. I would inform you that winter so long delayed is now upon us in a regular line.

The Baptists are holding a protracted meeting at their church. Preaching twice a day, attendance good.

Judging from the quantity of household goods being hauled into Florence, one would suppose that the town was increasing in population.

The railroad men are fairly up on us, and we begin to hope it may result in something. We hope no farmer will give up his prospects of a regular line of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane have been suffering with the grippe for ten days past. Uncle Moses thought he had a good grip.

The songs of the merry and festive loiterer were echoed from hill top to hill top during last week, and now joy, gladness and merriment have succeeded gloom, sadness and despair with the loiterer's song. This with the firm belief that a railroad is coming to "see us," has raised Union stock fifteen points on change.

And that is, who has, and admires principles and does not vote them, abuses his right to say the least of it.

The question is sometimes asked if there is a lie in the candidates. There is. There is always a greater or less lie. Every man who offers himself for election places his official record before us, and (except in case of long tenure) we should decide almost solely on the record. If we elect to the man as an officer, if we think he has been arbitrary or has abused his power, it is his duty then to vote against him, and for a candidate representing a contrary opinion. If, however, we endorse the officer, if we think his course governed by judicious and sound principles, it is our duty, in the face of all considerations, to vote accordingly. In short, vote your sentiments—not be turned aside by shadowy pretenses. Is not this rigid and reasonable?

Several cases of pneumonia in town. I would inform you that winter so long delayed is now upon us in a regular line.

Judging from the quantity of household goods being hauled into Florence, one would suppose that the town was increasing in population.

The railroad men are fairly up on us, and we begin to hope it may result in something. We hope no farmer will give up his prospects of a regular line of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane have been suffering with the grippe for ten days past. Uncle Moses thought he had a good grip.

The songs of the merry and festive loiterer were echoed from hill top to hill top during last week, and now joy, gladness and merriment have succeeded gloom, sadness and despair with the loiterer's song. This with the firm belief that a railroad is coming to "see us," has raised Union stock fifteen points on change.

Medicine

It is a well known fact that the human body is composed of many different parts, each of which has its own special function to perform. If any one of these parts becomes diseased or injured, the whole body is affected. It is therefore of the utmost importance that we should take care of our health, and prevent disease from taking root in our system.

	Population.	Sheep.
1850.....	22,944,261	21,748,925

1870.....	38,558,371	28,477,975
1880.....	50,150,793	35,192,000

The current census will show a greater disparity between population and number of sheep than in 1880. In 1840 there were 2,000 sheep than people in the United States. In 1890 there are, it is estimated, 100,000 more people than sheep in the United States.

FRANKFORT, April 14.—SENATE.—Bill introduced in the Senate for chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 83

The largest amount of pension paid to any Indiana soldier, was paid to William Bohley, at Linton, Ind., one day last week. Amount received was $13,877.80, which was back pay from the time he received injuries in the army, which resulted in his total blindness.

The Republican party in Ohio has been put on record by its State Senators as opposed to ballot reform, regardless of the declarations made in their platform on that subject. Ballot reform will come, but not without surmounting all the obstacles that it is possible for the g. o. p. to throw in its way.

The result of the recent election in Rhode Island is a stunner to the Republicans, and they have been making diligent search for an excuse, but thus far they have failed to find one, while, on the other hand the Democrats are rejoicing and can point out, without hesitating, the causes of their victory.

Commissioner RICH estimates there are now 148,920 veterans who will be entitled to receive a pension of $3 a month under the Morrill Service Pension Bill, and in 1892 this number will be increased 14,819. This bill provides a pension for every man who has reached the age of 62, and who was ninety days in the army.

The withdrawal of James T. Willis from the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, will no doubt, give W. W. Longmire, of Harrison county, a solid delegation from this county. Mr. Longmire was raised near Erlanger, Kenton county, and was, at one time, a citizen of Burlington, being engaged in merchandising.

The Western Recorder, Baptist, and the Christian Observer, Presbyterian, are printed on the same press. Last week the pressman got his plates mixed, and printed the inside of the Recorder with the outside of the Observer. This made a Presbyterian outside with a good Baptist inside, and they don't always agree on every point. The result was a good deal of wonderment on the part of the subscribers to the two sided publication.—Louisville Post.

Captain James T. Willis, on account of his poor health, has withdrawn from the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. His many friends will be sorely disappointed. He certainly had a good showing in the race, and had his health permitted him to make the canvass he would most likely have won the prize.—Williamstown Courier.

We are sorry that Capt. Willis is in such poor health, and likewise sorry that he will not be the next Clerk of the Court of Appeals. He had many warm friends in this county who have patiently awaited an opportunity to express their appreciation of his sterling worth, and his withdrawal will be regretted by many.

The "boundary line between the United States and Canada is not imaginary," as most people suppose. The fact is the line is distinctly marked from Lake Michigan to Alaska by cairns, iron pillars, earth mounds and timber clearings. There are 285 of these marks between the Lake of the Woods and the base of the Rocky mountains. The British placed one post every two miles and the United States one between each British post. The posts are cast iron and cast on their faces are "Convention of London, October 20, 1818." Where the line crosses lakes, mountains of stone have been built, projecting eight feet above high-water mark. In forests the line is defined by felling trees for a space a rod wide.

Frank G. Carpenter, the newspaper correspondent, in a letter from Washington on the "Orators in the Senate," says:

"Joe Blackburn is a great speaker. Beautiful flowers sprout spontaneously from the end of his tongue and he is one of the most popular men with the galleries. He is one of the readiest men in the Senate, and though his speeches are sometimes light they are always listened to. One of his strongest points is the State of Kentucky, which he says has the prettiest girls, the best whiskey and the fastest horses under heaven, and about which he can reel off poetical effusions by the yard. Blackburn can make a speech with as little preparation, perhaps, as any other man in the Senate, and there are a number of Senators who have the reputation of making great impromptu speeches who never rise to their feet without days of preparation. The fastest speaker in the Senate is Beck. He whips his shirt collar as he talks, and spouts out the dictionary at the rate of 225 words per minute. He speaks without manuscript and thinks on his feet. It seems to rest him to talk, and that big, brown, grizzly-gray head of his is packed full of facts and figures, which he hurries at the opposite side of the chamber in a sort of sledge hammer way."

The Farmers' Latest Move.

Of the Farmers' Alliance, a Missouri farmer says, "I am in a section where it is in full operation. It has come up like one of the cyclones such as swept Louisville. Six months ago there was not a member in my county. To day they have an enrollment of over one-half the voters of the county and three-fourths of the voters of the district. They mean business, I tell you, and I know they have reasons to come together for common action. I am a director of a bank and take occasion to observe the loans we make. I have found time and again that loans have been made to farmers on mortgages to pay their taxes. The farmers believe that the railroads and corporations and the wealthy men of the country are not paying their share of the taxes when the land will not produce enough to pay taxes on it. They are mighty near right, too. There is something wrong about it. The Farmers' Alliance has a long head leadership. They select the best men among themselves as leaders in each county, and farmers are pretty hard-headed and level-headed as a general rule. It is entirely different from the labor movement. In the latter the association members were men who get their living by day's wages. They were subject to temptation. A leader could be bought if the price was large enough. You will find the farmer combination too strong for that. Money temptation will not reach them. Then too, they know their power. There are 7,000,000 men in the United States, according to the census of 1880, engaged in farming. There are only 14,000,000 engaged in all pursuits. The farmers are half the entire voting population. They can revolutionize the entire Government—executive, legislative and judicial. They will capture Congress this fall as sure as fate. The chances are that the labor interests will be allied with them in their movement. If they stand together they can carry nearly every State in the Union. They are banded together for political action to secure greater favor to themselves as a class in legislation and they have the votes to get it."

They have a law in New York requiring candidates to report, under oath the money they spent in elections, and to whom it was paid.

A beggar of Philadelphia has amassed a fortune of $200,000, by his profession. He plays his trade in Washington, Chicago, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

After being in court nine years at Harrodsburg, the celebrated case of John B. Thompson, executor of John B. Thompson's estate, against the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., has been settled by the insurance company paying $14,000 to the defendant. The original policy was $10,000 which the company refused to pay, alleging that Davies had committed suicide.

The Glasgow Times says: "Over $100,000 have been brought into this county, during the past few months, by the various departments of the oil-developments now going on here."

Falmouth is getting up a boom, and some of her people are throwing cold water on the enterprise, which prompts the Guide to say, "Some people were perhaps born croaking and can't help it. This is why they object to everything done for the advancement of the town."

Brother Sarle of the Milton Free Press, is the best gardener in this latitude. In his last week's issue he enlightens his readers thusly: "New crop of cabbage at Sarle's."

If you can get up a worse mix of relationship than the following, you can beat the Georgetown News: "James Price married a sister of J. W. Middleton, and Middleton married a daughter of Price. This makes Middleton's own sister his mother-in-law, and Middleton's wife a sister-in-law to her own father. Mr. Middleton's father-in-law his brother-in-law, and Middleton's wife a sister-in-law to her stepmother, and Middleton's children's own aunt their step-grand-mother, and Middleton a step brother-in-law to Price's children. What kin are and be Price's children to those of Middleton?"

The Flemingsburg Gazette wants pensioners: heard more rapidly and promptly: "There are 100 old soldiers in Fleming county who need and deserve a pension. Hurry up the clerks and give them what's due them."

The Western Argus, published at Frankfort, is not in love with the Australian ballot system of voting, and of the primary election held under it in Franklin county it has this to say:

"The Democratic party must get a better system than the bastard Australian system. There was more money expended in the election last Saturday than usual."

According to the Democrat everybody in Gallatin county was engaged last week. It says:

"During the past week the farmers have been getting their land ready for their crops, merchants have had a good trade, and doctors all they could do attending to cases of measles."

Gov. Buckner is solid with the Newport people. The Journal says: "Had the Newport voters the power they would nominate and elect Governor Buckner President of the United States."

Owen is a very large county, and it is well that it is there are many men within its borders like the following of which the News speaks: "Capt. A. M. Keightley, of Lushy, Mills, is the father of twenty-two living children all grown, and 18 of them married; his youngest marrying only a few days ago. His grand children, not too numerous to mention, but some of these days there will be a rounding up and there will be a count. Capt. is still hale and hearty, and will likely live to see his other four children married."

The Indianapolis News is a Republican sheet, but it calls a spade a spade all the same. It is entirely different from the labor movement. In the latter the association members were men who get their living by day's wages. They were subject to temptation. A leader could be bought if the price was large enough. You will find the farmer combination too strong for that. Money temptation will not reach them. Then too, they know their power. There are 7,000,000 men in the United States, according to the census of 1880, engaged in farming. There are only 14,000,000 engaged in all pursuits. The farmers are half the entire voting population. They can revolutionize the entire Government—executive, legislative and judicial. They will capture Congress this fall as sure as fate. The chances are that the labor interests will be allied with them in their movement. If they stand together they can carry nearly every State in the Union. They are banded together for political action to secure greater favor to themselves as a class in legislation and they have the votes to get it."

The following from the Cloverport News shows how a railroad will build up a town: "The crying need for dwelling houses in Cloverport is so great that we wonder more of our citizens do not hasten to build them. We know of a number that will be built at once, and many more are needed."

It is the same all over the land, and seems to be a disease over which writers nor physicians have no control. The Franklin Favorite says: "The folly of loving has been ascribed by writers of all ages in verse and prose, but young people go right along hugging and squeezing and kissing each other, and getting married as if nothing had ever been said in sport of the tender passion."

The Glasgow Times says: "Over $100,000 have been brought into this county, during the past few months, by the various departments of the oil-developments now going on here."

JOHN Q. DAVIS, RISING SUN, INDIANA.

The Winchester Democrat says: The rains are almost rendering the farmers frantic, and it seems in many cases that he will lose the reward of his last year's labor. Especially is this true in regard to the hemp crop. Not more than one-fourth of it has been broken out, and what promised last fall to be a splendid crop will be almost a total loss. That unbroken will lose at least 50 per cent. both in weight and quality. Many crops had been sold at a good price, but the quality will be but little better than low, the percent of merchantable hemp being very small indeed. The price of corn is also advancing, in view of the lateness of the season and the consequent uncertainty in regard to the crop of the present year. In this connection let us advise our farmer friends to be very careful in the selection of their seed corn, as from present indications there will be little time to replant. Much corn that looks good will be found unfit, as it was full of sap when gathered last fall, and the damp winter has not been favorable to the development of the germ.

Hogs of 200 pounds weight are selling in Shelby county at $3.50 to $3.65. In Shelby county F. R. Wright sold to Will Harris 47 ewes at $4.50 per head with the lambs thrown in.

SENATOR QUAY is the Boss-General of the Republican party with Speaker Reed as his Aid-de-camp.

When the Reed rules are forced upon the United States Senate, the Democrats will be severely bound hand and foot.

It now looks like it will be some time before Rising Sun will be a railroad town. The building of the road by which it expected to profit, has been postponed indefinitely.

According to recent official returns the length of the telegraph lines on the globe is at present about 600,000 miles or twenty times its circumference at the equator.

The Williamson Courier has been enlarged to a seven column, eight page paper, in order to meet the demands upon it for space. Bros. Westover & Points have a good thing in their paper.

J. W. GABRIEL has again launched his Enterprise upon the sea of journalism, this time at Georgetown. This gives the Belle of the Bluegrass three papers, and she extends to each a liberal patronage.

Is don't look well in a town that is doing all it can to convince the world that it has a boom, to be employing display type to deny it. If you have a boom say so and stay with it, and make out of it all you can.

They are having a hot time over the recent Democratic primary election in Covington. The Executive Committee started out to hold it under the law governing primary elections in Kentucky, but its procedure was so fraught with irregularities that it is contended that the whole thing is a nullity. The Democratic party ought to have men at the helm that can provide for the holding of a primary according to law in Kentucky county.

The diamond thief got in his work in Cincinnati again the other day, Michie Bros. on Fourth street being the victims to the tune of about $2,000. Pretending that he wanted to make a purchase, the thief was examining a tray full of the sparklers, when the clerk's attention was attracted by something. Of this the thief took advantage, grabbed the tray and made his escape although hotly pursued for some distance, while one of his pals was captured.

The sudden death of Senator James B. Beck last Saturday in the depot in Washington City, was a shock to the entire country, and especially to Kentucky whose people loved to do him honor. Senator Beck was a remarkable man, and his honesty of purpose and powerful logic had won for him the admiration of his political opponents who willingly acknowledged his great ability. His untiring efforts had rendered indispensable the ties that bound to him the affections of the people of the great State he had so long and honorably represented in the national council. Notwithstanding he was born in Scotland, Mr. Beck was a typical Kentuckian and was a ceaseless laborer in her interest, but none the less a man of broad views, comprehending ever principle of government and advocating those that redound to the welfare of the entire country, while also legislation found in him an aggressive and powerful foe.

Kentucky mourns the loss of her great, adopted son, and the nation mourns in tears with those of Kentucky.

FROM EXCHANGES.

SPRING BUTLER is in no immediate danger of being sent to the Poor House. An exchange says: Gen. Benjamin F. Butler is worth $5,000,000 and lives in a palace at Lowell, Massachusetts. He makes $100,000 a year, but would take the Presidency of the United States at the regular rates.

The Bourbon county people are on their good behavior since the recent hanging there, as the following from the Kentucky-Citizen proves:

The Grand Jury came into court and the County Attorney's speech amounted to the fact that they had investigated all the matters brought before them, and had no indictments to return.

The tobacco raisers in the State of Owen no longer have any fears of a scarcity of plants this season. The New says:

The tobacco plants are coming on finer than was ever before known and the prospects for a heavy crop in Owen were never more promising.

The Owen county Republicans are somewhat out of humor with Collector Scott, of Louisville, because of their notion, he has not given Owen a fair deal in the distribution of Revenue appointments. They held a convention in Owen a few days ago to nominate a ticket for county officers, in which they made a complete failure, but when the matter of the Collector's appointments came up for consideration they were equal to the emergency, as shown by the following from the New:

Collector Scott was unmercifully scolded and the representatives of the 800 Republican votes in Owen were loud in their applause. Mr. Geo. S. Low made the speech of the day, and his criticisms on Scott's course were stinging and it is useless to say otherwise, than that his rebuke met with the solid support of the convention. So far as Owen county is concerned, they are "dead against" Scott.

The veracity of the Gallatin Democrat is not to be questioned notwithstanding it tells the following:

A remarkable formation of nature was shown us last Saturday at the Lindell Hotel. It was a hut which had grown into the exact shape of a human being, with arms, legs, etc.

The three men who got the pens, no doubt would take issue with the Madisonville Hustler on the following statement:

Circuit court adjourned last Saturday after being in session for three weeks. There were no cases of importance on the docket. Three men were sentenced to the penitentiary for one year each and one for 14 years.

The old fellow knew how to do the work:

Seven of the supposed to be wisest and sharpest lawyers in the country have made bills, passed away, and the wills have been probated by him and other lawyers. An ignorant Missouri farmer wrote his will in four lines on a plate and it stood three lawsuits and ten lawyers—EX.

If Mr. Raiser had not expressed a willingness to support his state's position with his cash, there might be some who would be inclined to doubt him. The Emancipationist says:

Will Raiser, near here, has a turkey hen that lays a hard shell egg every day and a soft shell egg every day. He says, also, that he has a hawk that lays two eggs in every twenty-four hours. Mr. Raiser says if it is necessary he will swear to the correctness of this statement.

The Frankfort Capital has been a quiet observer of the workings of the Legislature, and near the close of the session it discovers that the machine is being run at such a high rate of speed that it fears hot boxes may result. It gives this example of the dangerous rate of speed acquired: The House passed 128 bills last Saturday in three hours, or an average of one bill every one and a half minutes. Towards the close of the session, not even the titles were reported. The public business should never be permitted to take, but it occurs to us that the machinery which is run too fast is liable to cause hot boxes and consequent damage.

The bill calling the Constitutional Convention had passed both Houses before the following peculiar paragraph appeared in the Argus, published at the seat of government:

The bill calling the Constitution Convention had not passed the House the House yesterday. It only needs the signature of the Governor to make it a law.

Ly Lawrenceburgh Register knows whereof it speaks, Indiana will not be in line for President Harrison in 1892, and it does not seem that the President of Indiana last month to assist the Republicans to carry the Township elections. It says:

United States Treasurer Hutton came out to Indiana to help carry the Township Trustees for the Republicans. He went back to Washington a good deal wiser than he came, but notwithstanding the threw the Democrats gave the Republicans, Mr. Hutton had the check to state in an interview that Mr. Harrison could carry Indiana for President in 1892. Of course that statement is taken by the country to mean that Mr. Harrison although considerably disfigured, is still in the ring. Harrison can never carry Indiana again, and don't you get it.

The United States Supreme Court has rendered an opinion adverse to the constitutionality of State laws providing for the seizure of liquor brought into the State in original packages, holding that such laws are an interference with interstate commerce. The court holds that after the liquor becomes the property of the importer, the State may, under its police powers, regulate or prohibit its sale, but it has no power, in the absence of express Congressional authority, to prohibit the transportation of the article from another State and its delivery to the importer. The case in which the opinion was delivered was an appeal from the Supreme Court of Iowa, the decision of which was reversed. The decision was awaited with much interest by both sides of the liquor question.

The charter for the Covington and Louisville railroad was passed by the House last Saturday, but not until the Louisville members discovered that its defeat meant sure death to the Park Bill for which Louisville was clamoring. It took hard work and good generalship on the part of the charter's friends to successfully engineer it through. The Louisville and Nashville system did everything possible to prevent the granting of the charter and its success is a splendid victory of the people over a powerful corporation. It is to be hoped that the road will now be built as speedily as possible. If built the road is sure to run through this county and will be of very great benefit to those sections traversed, and it is to be hoped the land owners along the route will not discourage the project. It seems to be pretty well understood as to the route the road will take through Boone, and we congratulate our neighbors on their good luck.

The Republican tariff bill presented in the House, accompanied by special reports from the majority and minority of the Ways and Means Committee, according to the majority, contemplates a reduction in the revenues of $70,000,000, while the minority contend the reduction would be very slight. It needs only a superficial glance from any one familiar with the tariff to show that the bill is a most remarkable, shaming, insincere juggle yet proposed to the American people. It is a monster of greed and trickery. Many a highway robber would repudiate it, for there are highway robbers who would scorn to lie. And this bill is both a robber and a lie. It is, furthermore, a downright theft. Wherever it pretends to lighten taxes with one hand it increases them with the other. Its purpose is that of a sneaking pick-pocket, not of the bold bandit. Nothing more contemptible could be conceived than its effort to scheme a deceive the farmer. It will never become a law. It can not pass the present Congress, owned as that body is, by the tariff bosses.—EX.

HEARD a member of the General Assembly tell the following joke on Governor Buckner, the other day: The Governor had vetoed a bill giving numerous reasons therefor. The bill was returned to the House in which it originated, where the veto was promptly sustained. In a few days a member desired the passage of the same bill for his county, although he was aware of the bill's fate when passed upon by the Governor only a short time before. Going to the Governor he laid before him the provisions of the bill he desired, and they proceeded to discuss them, the Governor failing to discover any of the objectionable features which, only a few days previous, he had so vividly set out in his message. An exact copy of the vetoed bill, except as to names, was introduced, passed by both Houses and signed by the Governor without his ever discovering the trick. This is certainly considerably of a joke on the Governor, and equally as sustained the veto. There is one thing evident: The bills passed receive a much more careful investigation by the Executive than by the Legislative department.

The last issue of the Farmer's Review contained information somewhat discouraging as to the wheat crop, although in some sections the winter wheat is reported as improving in appearance, while the general average of condition shows a decline in all the States covered by the report, except Michigan. In Illinois the condition is twenty-five per cent. below the average at this season last year, and in thirty-four counties an average of twenty-five per cent. of the winter wheat will be plowed under. The Indiana crop is thirty-two per cent. below its average at this season last year, and in twenty-four counties an average of twenty-nine per cent. will be plowed. In Ohio the condition of the crop is ten per cent. below that of the first of May last year, and in eighteen counties an average of fourteen per cent. will be plowed. In Missouri it is sixteen per cent. below that of one year ago, and in some sections an average of eighteen per cent. will be turned over. Kentucky's crop is thirteen per cent. lower than at this season last year. Kansas reports an average of twenty-one per cent. lower than at this season last year, and fifteen per cent. of the acreage will be plowed. In Michigan the condition has been improving, but is yet seventeen per cent. below that of the corresponding season last year, and in five counties an average of thirteen per cent. will be plowed. The average condition in Wisconsin is seventeen per cent. below that of last season, while a large percent of the acreage will be plowed. The summary is as follows: Illinois, 74 per cent.; Indiana, 64 per cent.; Ohio, 85; Kentucky, 86; Missouri, 84; Kansas, 91; Michigan, 77; Wisconsin, 76.

This county is emphatically in favor of Hon. John G. Carlisle as the successor of Hon. James B. Beck in the United States Senate, and in the event that Mr. Carlisle is elected Senator it looks very much like Boone will favor some man from the country portion of the district as his successor, and where can a better man be found than A. G. DeJarnette, of Williamson?

The strawberry vines are in bloom. They are doing their level best to make connection with the meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Winchester next month. We would like to know what the prospects are for the blue grass cream crop about that time. Mr. CLEVELAND called at the White House one day last week.

WEDNESDAY, - MAY 14, 1890.

RIDDELL & HALL, Proprietors.

V. B. Young, of Montgomery county, Ky., is a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court in the Third District, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Your support is solicited.

We are authorized to announce J. H. Barker, of Paris, as a candidate for Superior Court Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

EMINENT statesmanship and valuable party services are the considerations that entitle Hon. John G. Carlisle to the office of United States Senator from this State. The Democratic party throughout the entire country recognizes him as one of its most gifted and reliable leaders, and his counsel is constantly sought on all great measures that come before the country.

Undisputed merit elevated Carlisle to the exalted position he occupies in the estimation of the great men of this day and age, and it would certainly be most ungrateful in his native State to call a halt in his career so brilliant, and that at a time when his genius is demanded in the highest legislative body in the government, for the duties of which his acknowledged abilities and political integrity declare him especially qualified.

The defeat of Carlisle for United States Senator would be no ordinary defeat. It would not simply be a denial of his political ambitions, but would, to a considerable extent, serve as a political handicap to him in the future. We do not believe that Kentucky desires to say to her gifted son, through her representatives at Frankfort, that so far as she is concerned he is now at his political zenith. The country is not expecting such a pronouncement, and should it come it can truthfully be said that the ways of Kentucky politicians are past finding out.

The assertion that Mr. Carlisle's services are needed more in the House of Representatives than in the Senate, is only a subterfuge, and is urged, principally by those who are prompted by selfish motives, and are already laying the wire for combinations in the future with certain sections from which they expect to reap their reward in the event that they or their friends should ever seek political preferment. Carlisle is the only man in Kentucky who can fill the lamented Beck's seat in the Senate, and the entire country will be disappointed if his mantle does not descend to her greatest statesman.

The Democratic caucus to nominate a Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator met Monday evening, but no ballot was had. Governor Buckner has withdrawn from the race. Carlisle, McCreary, Knott and Lindsay are the contending men, and their positions as to strength are in the order they are named, with Carlisle's friends claiming he is gathering strength.

In this issue we announce Val P. Young, of Montgomery county as a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court from this district. He is said to be a fine lawyer, and thoroughly qualified and equipped for the position to which he aspires.

Two of the candidates for Judge of the Superior Court from this district, have visited this county during the past week, but the contest for United States Senator has so absorbed the people that but little attention is given any of the minor contests. This will be the case until Mr. Beck's successor is chosen.

It would not look well in the Kentucky Legislature to defeat her ablest son and one of the greatest men in the Democratic party in the entire country, when he asks for a merited and well earned promotion.

It Kentucky can retain her boom—and there is no valid reason why she should not—she will soon be one of the wealthiest States. Her possibilities can not be estimated.

With the national reputation Mr. Carlisle has, it is strange that his native State should hesitate to grant him request when he asks to be sent to the United States Senate.

SCIENTIFIC tests have disclosed the death-dealing impurities which lurk in Cincinnati's milk and water supplies. Her whiskey stands the test most admirably.

We are glad to hear that W. W. Longmoores' canvass for Clerk of the Court of Appeals has loomed up so favorably in the past month.

The Barren county oil wells are one of the feminine gender. The Zima, in speaking of one calls it she and her.

A very lively cyclone made a tour of Ohio one day last week and destroyed much property.

The tariff debate is under way in Congress.

The Index is the name of a new paper started at LaGrange, Oldham county. It is well edited, typographically handsome, and well stocked with the news of its section. Z. O. King is editor and proprietor. Success to him.

In this issue we announce J. H. Barker, of Paris, Bourbon county, as a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court, from this the third district. Mr. Barker was in town Monday, looking after his interest. He is a man of good appearance and comes well recommended by those among whom he lives.

In the proper column will be found the announcement of L. W. Robertson, of Mayeville, Mason county, as a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court from this the third district. Mr. Robertson spent one day last week in Burlington, forming acquaintances and presenting his claims for the judgeship. His stable manners are calculated to make friends for him wherever he makes his appearance.

The primary conventions for selecting delegates to the State convention which meets in Louisville on the 28th inst., to nominate the Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, will be held throughout the State next Saturday. The convention for this county is called to meet in the Court House, and it is hoped that every voting precinct in the county will be well represented. The office to be filled is a good one, and each candidate wants his friends to turn out next Saturday.

The taking of the census begins on June 2d. In cities or towns of 10,000 or more inhabitants the work must be finished in two weeks from the time it begins. In the country each voting precinct is a census district, and one man will do the work of that district. In the cities the enumerators will be paid per capita, and in the country, by the day. Every question asked by the enumerator must be answered. You will give your name, age, sex, birth place, nationality, color, business, married or unmarried.

A FEW weeks ago J. A. Hill, corresponding secretary of Oak Grove Lodge, No. 22, Farmers' Alliance, near Stubenville, Ohio, wrote to Ex-President Cleveland, inclosing a copy of the declaration of purposes of the Alliance, and asking Mr. Cleveland's views thereon. After examining the declaration Mr. Cleveland answered that he could see nothing in it that can not be endorsed by any man who loves his country, and believes that the object of our government should be the freedom, prosperity and happiness of all our people, and who believes that justice and fairness to all are necessary conditions to its useful administrations. The Ex-President sees in the Farmers' Alliance the nurturing of the principles enunciated in his great first message.

The colored Republicans are demanding political recognition in Franklin county, this State. They captured the Republican county convention there the other day, and showed a very decided disposition to ascertain what had become of their portion of the pie, in the distribution of which they had been overlooked. Of the convention in which they made things so lively, the Argus says:

The Republican convention was called to meet at the court-house last Monday to nominate a county ticket. The colored Republicans were on hand in full force and captured the convention and elected a Chairman in the person of Ed Lane. The Chairman of the Republican County Committee attempted to adjourn the meeting, but the colored voters then proceeded to make a demand for recognition and for offices. They appointed a committee to confer with the white Republicans and to try and bring them to terms. If this cannot be done a full colored ticket will be nominated. It looks like the bottom rail of the Republican party in Franklin county is about to get on top.

The recent Democratic primary election in Louisville, according to the press of that city, was the most corrupt election ever held in this State. Money flowed freely, and the purchasable voter was furnished the opportunity of his life, and it seems that that element took advantage of it. Such conduct as this, the farmers of Louisville primarily does incalculable injury to the party and is degrading to the community in which they occur. It is such corruption as that complained of in Louisville that brings a party into disrepute, and drives the better elements from the polls and allows the offices to become the property of those who are able to buy them outright. It is evident that primary elections should be governed by a law no less rigid than that which governs the general elections, and until this is done the primary election will continue to be a promoter of corruption. The Legislature would do a good thing for Kentucky if it were to pass a general law controlling primary elections and requiring them to be held under it.

FROM EXCHANGES;

The Gallatin Democrat has discovered a field in which it thinks considerable good work can be performed. It says:

We have been in Warsaw about eighteen months and in that time only one church has had a protracted meeting. What is the matter? Is there no material here? Yes, verily; the harvest in Warsaw is great, and a few reviving revivals by the different churches might produce a wonderful change in the moral atmosphere of our town.

The Glasgow Times thinks that Governor Buckner would fit a Senatorial chair about as well as he fits that of Chief Magistrate of State. It says this on that subject:

As a Governor, his administration has been characterized by fairness, ability and a fearless discharge of duty. As a Senator, he would bring to bear the same high qualities upon his new position. Could the matter be left to the decision of the people, Gov. Buckner would undoubtedly succeed Senator Beck.

If there is to be a Congressional election in this district, will the rural districts find the over-abundance of talent in such a snarl as to make it an easy prey, and coming down like a wolf on the political fold, devour the plan? That is a possibility, with Gray and Gaunt and Applegate, and several others, to marshal the agricultural hosts—that is, if they can agree among themselves.—Commonwealth.

While the Covington and Newport aspirants are devouring each other, in case Carlisle is elected to the U. S. Senate, the country portion of the district will agree upon and nominate the candidate without any trouble. There is no kind of question but what the country portion of the district can furnish the best material for Mr. Carlisle's successor.

The Philadelphia Telegraph, a dyes-in-the-wool Republican paper, can see no good results likely to follow the actions of the Republican Congress, and it discourses as follows:

It is to be hoped that President Harrison is giving serious attention to this important matter (the Federal election bills) and will not wait for the adoption of some unwise measure, but will exert a conservative influence in the direction of national peace as well as really honest and fair elections. The adoption of either the Lodge or the Floor bill, as it stands, and its approval by the President, would be followed by scenes which no patriotic citizen can contemplate with serenity. Partnership in the present Congress seems to be running mad.

As exchange says Somerset has hit upon this novel plan of starting its boom:

Every package or letter that leaves the office has stamped on it in red ink, "Keep your eye on Somerset."

The Commonwealth is shooting pretty close to the mark when it serves this notice:

People who leave Major A. G. DeJarnette, of Williamstown, out of their Congressional calculations, may find themselves mistaken.

Every three months Uncle Sam gladdens the hearts of the multitudes in and about Aurora. The Spectator says:

Pension money to the amount of $7,500 is paid through our banks and about all of it is put in circulation here every three months.

The average Crittenden county man will carry his twist of long green again next year. The Press speaks thus flatteringly of the prospects for a tobacco crop this year:

Tobacco plants are flourishing. Farmers report that they are much larger than usual at this season of the year.

In Breathitt county the people live in fear of a corn famine, an occurrence unknown in the past in this State. The Leader says:

Unless the railroad is finished to our county line shortly, we will, in all probability, have a serious corn famine in Breathitt this summer. Corn is now selling here at from $1 to $1.25 per bushel, and is hard to get at that. There has been so much railroading and hauling here this winter, and it has taken so much to feed the teams, that there is not corn enough left to feed the stock and furnish bread for the people.

The bugs are raiding the tobacco beds in Gallatin county, as testifies the Independent:

The farmers generally report the insects working disastrously on the tobacco beds, consuming the plants as fast as they appear. The indications are by no means favorable for a full supply of plants, and with the delayed season and the condition of the ground, it appears as if the crop will be a short one.

If the following, from an exchange is true, and the effort should prove successful, what a gnashing of teeth there will be:

An effort is being made at Washington to have the five Kentucky revenue districts consolidated into two, with headquarters at Lexington and Louisville. The Commissioner and President are said to favor the scheme.

The Legislature had to extend its session indefinitely, in order to elect a United States Senator.

V. B. YOUNG, of Montgomery county, is a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court in the Third District, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Your support is solicited.

We are authorized to announce J. H. BERRY, of Paris, as a candidate for Superior Court Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

J. W. HENDERSON, of Mayfield, is a candidate for Superior Court Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

We are authorized to announce JAS. O'HARA, of Covington, as a candidate to succeed Hon. John C. Carlisle as a member of the House of Representatives in Congress, subject to the will of the Democracy of the 6th district.

Mr. Beck's estate it is said is worth $300,000. He will leave date 1886.

There are no new developments in regard to the Covington and Lexington railroad.

When a Republican tariff bill is so iniquitous that Congressional Butterworth, of Cincinnati, opposes it in a speech before the House, it is certainly a terror.

So far as heard from W. W. Longmoor is one of the strong men in the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, the vote standing, Longmoor, 132; Madden, 163; Adams, 104; Martin, 85; Poor, 54; Van Zant, 34.

World like to know how the Covington correspondent of the Enquirer obtained information that warrants his statement that the Congressional Convention will be held in that city. The announcement is premature.

When it comes to the country portion of this Congressional District, it will be discovered that O'Hara will be the most formidable candidate the city of Covington can present—so say some who propose to know whereof they speak.

The attendance upon the county convention last Saturday was very small. There was a misunderstanding as to the hour for holding the convention, and several came in after it had adjourned, but its action was just what they desired.

The Democrats of this county have been in politics on an extensive scale this year. First came the canvass for county offices; then they were called upon to express a choice for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and two more canvasses are pending.

The Probationists have nominated a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals: Mr. Josephine K. Henry, wife of Prof. Henry, of Versailles, is their chosen standard bearer for that office. Kentucky gallantry will scarcely drive the candidates of the other two parties from the field.

Who shall succeed Mr. Carlisle in the Lower House of Congress is the question that is now agitating this Sixth Congressional District. There is a multitude of honorable and able gentlemen who have their Congressional lightning rods up, and there will be no trouble to find a man that will accept the nomination.

The Farmers' Alliance is gaining strength more rapidly than any organization introduced in this country during this century. The harmony band together under its declarations, hoping to find relief from abuses forced upon them for the benefit of a favored few. The indications are very favorable for the Alliance making itself felt in the near future.

The race for Superior Judge from this district is beginning to manifest some life in this county. Two of the candidates—Robertson and Brent—have been in the county and many have expressed themselves for the one or the other of these gentlemen, while there are others who are standing aloof, expecting to see the other aspirant before expressing themselves.

The ninth ballot in the caucus resulted in the nomination of Hon. John C. Carlisle as Senator Beck's successor, and at noon last Saturday he was duly elected United States Senator. The canvass throughout was conducted on principle fully in accord with the high character of the gentlemen who aspired to the position. The last ballot stood, Carlisle, 72; Lindsay, 43. It is not speaking in the least disparagingly of either of his opponents when it is said that in the election of Mr. Carlisle Kentucky did herself honor.

If you don't think that there is an abundance of Congressional talent in this district, just cast your eye over the following array of names that have been mentioned in connection with the Congressional honors that await some gentleman in the district:

For Campbell county Newport steps to the front with Al Berry, Wm. Nelson, C. J. Helm and Geo. Washington (not Uncle Sam's father, mind, you).

Kenton follows with almost an unlimited number of aspirants, of whom we are able to call to mind the following: Lieutenant Governor Bryan, Judge O'Hara, Judge Perkins, Judge Cleary, C. G. Wallace, Theodore Hallam, Harvey Myers, J. P. Tarvin, D. A. Glen, Wm. Gubel, F. P. Helm, F. A. Pragne, Elijah Green, and others.

Grant is the next in number, and has her DeJarnette, Gray and Dickerson.

Carroll county has her Gaunt: Trimble, her McCain; Gallatin her McDannell and Perry; Pendleton, her Applegate, and Boone, her Conner, Higgins and Terrill.

Now, what the rural voters seem to want to ascertain is who is the strongest among those named from the county, and upon him they appear ready to unite. It is claimed that the city Democracy have stood together against the country brethren on all occasions; that they owned the country in the appointment of the Revenue Collector when the party had that office to dispose of; that they now have the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the Lower House of the General Assembly, and have had the Representative in Congress since a time when the minds of many of the voters ran not to the contrary, and to round the matter up nicely, they have captured the United States Senator, of which we are exceedingly glad. The country has all along stood up bravely for the candidates from the city, and it will do so again if the candidate to whom the honors go live there, but it is plainly to be seen that the country intends to use every honorable means to bring about the nomination of a rural candidate, for which the work of laying the wires commenced several days since. How successful the country can consolidate its forces remains to be seen, and it may be that it has too many candidates to be successful in bringing about a concert of action.

FROM EXCHANGES.

Riding over the railroads of this State, with free passes, being the exclusive privilege of the K. P. A., we are not surprised at the Capital giving the members of the General Assembly the following sarcastic cut, on account of their usurpation in that direction:

The House has concurred in the Senate resolution indefinitely extending the session. This may or may not mean a great deal, but it occurs to us that those members of the General Assembly who desire to attend the Democratic State Convention in Louisville, May 28, will be enabled to use their present tickets over the railroads. As a matter of fact, no man can say when the sine die adjournment will be had.

Gov. BECKNER's candidacy for delegate to the Constitutional Convention is receiving much favorable comment throughout the State. The Murray Ledger says:

The candidacy of Gov. Beckner for delegate to the Constitutional Convention is favorably spoken of throughout the entire State and some papers rise and remark that it would be a grand and glorious occurrence if every county in this State had such men to elect to this important position as Gov. Simon Bolivar Beckner.

The editor of the Capital gives this as his observation at Mr. Beck's funeral:

At Lexington on the day of Mr. Beck's funeral we did not hear three minutes of conversation relative to that distinguished man, but probably five hundred men, more or less, who would be his successful successor. As the coffin containing his remains, was borne from the church to the hearse, two men stood by and discussed the merits of one of the candidates, nor did they cease when the mourning relatives and friends of the dead man, with tearful eyes, passed by to take their places in carriages and follow him to his last resting place. Good-bye to us, all, we are poor, miserable creatures.

The following is the way a certain editor notifies his subscribers of their delinquency:

Lives of poor men oft remind us howe'er bold don't stand a chance; more we work more we leave behind us bigger patches on our pants. On our pants one new and glossy new are patches of different hue; all because subscribers linger and won't pay up what is due. Then let all be up and doing; send in your mites be it so small; or when the snows of winter strike us we will have no pants at all.

We have all along cherished a desire to attend the press convention at Winchester next month, but as it will probably be the next meeting of the editors of the Climax and Journal at which there will, in all probability, be a heavy flow of gore, and being averse to witnessing an editorial carnage, we have about abandoned our intention of attending the convention. The following from the Stanford Journal is the cause of our fears:

The Richmond Climax mentions "that old fellow Walton down at Stanford" for the presidency of the Kentucky Press Association. We have no ambition in that line whatever and at the next meeting we shall turn over the office of secretary, with which we have been honored for two terms, with a decided feeling of relief. A high private in the rear ranks is thereafter our position in the K. P. A. Only that and nothing more. And we are not going to have any elongated son-of-a-gun calling us "old" either. An apology or the acceptance of a challenge is now your alternative, Col. Tipton. There is no money business about this. You must retract, fight or be killed on sight.

Yorke Cook wont bother the owls in his neighborhood again soon. The Interior Journal gives this account of his recent adventure:

A son of S. R. Cook, we are told, had a pretty tough experience this week. He saw an owl fly into a hollow stump, which was about 20 feet high, and climbed up, we suppose, to put salt on the bird's tale. In doing so he fell into the hollow in such a way that he was unable to get out and it was not until two days had passed and search had been made nearly everywhere that he was found. His little dog was seated by the stump and acted in such a way as to cause an examination, when the boy was found wedged tight in his new prison, too weak to halloo. He was soon extricated, and has since fully recovered from his terrible experience.

PAYETTE COUNTY, this State, can boast of the longevity of her citizens as well as of the number and value of her fine horses.

Howard Sheffer, of Fayette county, who is approaching, if he does not exceed, eighty years of age, says there are between eighty and one hundred persons in Lexington and Fayette county who are eighty years and over.

In the last issue of Belford's Magazine to be found the following remarks by Dr. Higbee, in regard to Kentuckians and their admiration for the horse. He says:

Were heaven an interminable boulevard, and the transportation of horses assured, no Kentuckian would miss it, though convinced that it lay through a prohibition district. Other men own horses, drive them, admire their beauty, glory in their speed, but none, outside of an Arabian legend is a horse the object of so much affectionate solicitude, so nearly a part of its owner's being as in Kentucky. A Kentuckian may be consoled without his title. He may exist without an imposing pedigree. A bold flight of imagination may even picture him without his morning frock, but without a horse he is impossible.

The vote on the McKinley tariff bill is set for today in the Lower House of Congress. Mr. Carlisle will not resign his seat in the House until the vote is taken, when he will at once go to the Senate, where he will give McKinley's bill another ventilation if it gets there. Carlisle will at once be recognized as a leader on the Democratic side of the Senate.

In this issue we announce James O'Hara, of Covington, as a candidate for Congress. He is well and favorably known throughout the district, and is one of the soundest and ablest attorneys in the State. Judge O'Hara is a good student and if elected to Congress he will make an honest and faithful representative. His Democracy is of the Jeffersonian stripe.

In his speech at Frankfort after Carlisle's nomination as Senator, Mr. McCrory eulogized him as follows:

"I believe that Providence watches over great nations, selects men for great exigencies and puts them in the proper places. I can but believe that Providence took up John C. Carlisle, made him a Representative, a jurist, prepared him for a seat in Congress, elevated him to Speaker of the House of National Representatives, and has now placed him at a seat in the greatest deliberative body in the world. I believe that Providence has in store yet higher honors for John C. Carlisle."

[Washington Star.] It is Senator Carlisle, and Kentucky's Senatorial tradition is unbroken from 1806, when Clay entered the Senate, and began his marvelous career, to 1890, when Beck was Senatorial at the same instance he departed from the mortal scene, that State nearly always had at least one powerful intellect in the United States Senate. It is Senator Carlisle in some respects the equal of any of his eminent predecessors—to Clay in luminous exposition of economic principles; to Rowan, in legal acumen; to Crittenden, in the ability to present a subject in popular form, and the power to make concessions in non-essentials, in order to accomplish a worthy object. Cool, clear, calm, strong, fair and just. He will represent not merely Kentucky Democracy in the Council of the States, but the people of the United States as well. Missed in the House by his party, he will carry to the Senate his experience, his sagacity, his candor and his breadth and elevation of views.

It is not yet known when the special election for Congressman will be held, but that does not interfere with the hustling for the position.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Democrats of Boone County are hereby notified that a Mass Convention will be held in the Court-house in Burlington next Monday at 8 o'clock p. m., to appoint delegates to attend the District Convention which meets in Lexington on the 11th day of June to nominate a Democratic candidate for Superior Judge for the past year.

J. M. LAMSON, Chairman.
County Ex. Committee.

The wheat harvest is drawing near. Mrs. Ryle's school closed last Friday.

The Sheriff has proclaimed the tax proclamation. Read it.

Local news is abundant, and "frankness" the entire country.

A. M. Acra has metamorphosed the old building near his store into a warehouse.

Next Monday is the regular June term of the County and Quarterly Courts.

Settling out the tobacco crop will progress from now on as the season will permit.

Mr. Cad Williams and wife of Lexington, Ky., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Stephens.

R. O. Powers, a prosperous young farmer of the Verona neighborhood, was in town Monday.

Thanks to the Tontine Jockey Club for a ticket to its spring meeting which began last Saturday.

Some of the farmers commenced plowing last week. Mr. R. F. reported the corn came up splendidly.

Last Thursday and Friday Old Spot convinced the natives that he had not lost his old time summer vigor.

For sick headache, female troubles, neuralgia, pains in the head take Dr. J. H. McLean's Ter Wine Lung Balm.

The north end of the county was visited by a very heavy rain last Friday night, and plowed ground was badly torn up.

Those interested in the public schools should bear in mind that the annual election of trustees will be held on the 7th day of next month.

A typographical error made us last week that the O. C. Utz farm in Fayette county contains 107, when it should have been 307 acres.

Miss Louie Ryle's funeral was preached at Sand Run yesterday. She was a most exemplary young lady, and to know her was to admire her.

Croupy suffocations, night coughs and all the common affections of the throat and lungs quickly relieved by Dr. J. H. McLean's Ter Wine Lung Balm.

Berkshire, Blyth, Cropper and Westday "set-on" down on Gumpower one day last week. They hooked a large number of the small fry, but no leviathan did either of them land.

Mrs. Julia A. wife of the late Ben. Sherill, formerly of this place, but now of Mt. Sterling, Ky., has been granted a pension on account of her son Ben. W., who was killed in the late war.

The sale of the furniture of the late O. C. Utz, at Union last Saturday, was largely attended. There was a lively competition in the bidding, and good prices were paid for the articles sold.

Two young girls belonging to Oscar Giesentempel jumped a picket fence made of tobacco stalks. The entrance of one went over and the animal had to be killed, while its companion in misfortune was badly injured.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which cause burns, cuts, sprains and bruises, for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Ointment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

Joe Reed is the boss painter. We wish to say to all who wish painting done in the latest and best style, call on him and learn his prices. He does the best work at the best prices. All plain work very cheap. Paper hanging, ceilings whitened, at very low prices. Decorating in all the latest styles. All work warranted.

The will of the late Thomas Year, as read by the County Clerk, was the will of the county which was made by the testator anterior to the death of his first wife, and a portion of the heirs claim that it is revoked by his second marriage. Some very nice legal questions are involved, and it will be an interesting fight when it begins.

The leaders of the Gaines Bros. log wagon were taken off at the sawmill one day last week, and one of them became frightened and commenced kicking and running with the double tree, while the other horse reluctantly followed until it was killed by the mate, which ran about half a mile out the Florence pike, when it discovered it was making a fool of itself and stopped.

Mrs. Noah Barlow, of the Gumpower neighborhood, who has been an intense but patient sufferer with cancer for a long time, was taken by the pain last Friday, the 23d inst. The good woman's friends and family are grieved by her death, but at the same time they recognize that there was no other relief for her. Every thing possible was done to relieve her suffering, but death alone could bring the peaceful rest. The husband and family have the sympathy of all. The funeral was preached on the 23d inst. by Rev. Lewis at the Baptist Lutheran church, of which she had been an earnest member for the last twenty-two years. Many friends followed the departed to her last resting place, and mingled their tears of sorrow with those of the devoted husband and loving children. Her family has the comforting assurance that she awaits a happy reunion in the bright beyond. Mr. Barlow and children tender their thanks to those who were so kind to them in their affliction.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Ben Ryle lost his dog—business is improving.

Full attendance at the evening Sunday-school—Zoo next Saturday you know.

State Auditor L. C. Norman and family are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Chambers.

Rev. Tadlock filled his regular appointment Sunday at 11 a. m. Text—Matthew 5:10.

A "brass band" will be organized in the near future, also a base ball club, to be played around the grove Saturday. Look be merciful to us.

Larry Judge after being advised as to "thought" correctly, placed several articles aside at the appraiser's prices—some parties thinking they would bring more, had them sold to the highest bidder, they brought less money and so a cheap "kicker" was in order.

The rain on Friday evening made it possible for every body to be at the sale Saturday, (except some few that had tobacco plants large enough to set.) The goods brought fair prices and were readily sold. Earnest and observing friends of Mr. and Mrs. U. H. Middle creek twists, but they soon analyzed Clore.

A section of the amphitheater gave way and precipitated its occupants to the ground, the only person injured being a female and peasant woman.

At the close of the first inning the betting was 1 to 1 in favor of Bellevue, but when Fowler commenced singing in his double crutch with a zigzag attachment, their backs began to hedge.

Several balls were knocked over the left field fence, but Presser, the Bellevue left fielder, had located an angle hole in one of the planks, and went through it in time to capture two of them.

Only one decision of the umpire was appealed by a show of other grounds, upon glasses, canes, umbrellas and cushions. The last seen of the umpire he was scaling the right field fence, when umpire No. 2 was called.

Cashier Revill; W. T. German, proprietor of Pleasant Hill Stock Farm; R. H. Riddell, president of the Boone County Deposit Bank; Mayor J. W. Watts, of Buellville; W. F. Sullivan, president of the Gumpower Mill Co.; R. H. Sanford, census enumerator and Z. K. Smith, candidate for Superintendent of Public Instructions in this county, occupied seats in the grand stand.

Several ladies watched the game from the grand stand.

It takes much time and labor to put ground to no use, as the case of the one that used last Saturday.

The pitchers were well supported, having for Burlington, and took for Bellevue did the supporting act.

The bleeding-board crowd was very hilarious, and one time threatened to throw a policeman over the fence.

The park presented a beautiful appearance, the grass being closely mown and the ground as smooth as a floor.

It was sometime before the Burlington team got on to Brady's Middle creek twists, but they soon analyzed Clore.

The Democrats of Boone County are hereby notified that a Mass Convention will be held in the Court-house in Burlington next Monday at 8 o'clock p. m., to appoint delegates to attend the District Convention which meets in Lexington on the 11th day of June to nominate a Democratic candidate for Superior Judge for the past year.

J. M. LAMSON, Chairman.
County Ex. Committee.

The wheat harvest is drawing near. Mrs. Ryle's school closed last Friday.

The Sheriff has proclaimed the tax proclamation. Read it.

Local news is abundant, and "frankness" the entire country.

A. M. Acra has metamorphosed the old building near his store into a warehouse.

Next Monday is the regular June term of the County and Quarterly Courts.

Settling out the tobacco crop will progress from now on as the season will permit.

Mr. Cad Williams and wife of Lexington, Ky., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Stephens.

R. O. Powers, a prosperous young farmer of the Verona neighborhood, was in town Monday.

Thanks to the Tontine Jockey Club for a ticket to its spring meeting which began last Saturday.

Some of the farmers commenced plowing last week. Mr. R. F. reported the corn came up splendidly.

Last Thursday and Friday Old Spot convinced the natives that he had not lost his old time summer vigor.

For sick headache, female troubles, neuralgia, pains in the head take Dr. J. H. McLean's Ter Wine Lung Balm.

The north end of the county was visited by a very heavy rain last Friday night, and plowed ground was badly torn up.

Those interested in the public schools should bear in mind that the annual election of trustees will be held on the 7th day of next month.

A typographical error made us last week that the O. C. Utz farm in Fayette county contains 107, when it should have been 307 acres.

Miss Louie Ryle's funeral was preached at Sand Run yesterday. She was a most exemplary young lady, and to know her was to admire her.

Croupy suffocations, night coughs and all the common affections of the throat and lungs quickly relieved by Dr. J. H. McLean's Ter Wine Lung Balm.

Berkshire, Blyth, Cropper and Westday "set-on" down on Gumpower one day last week. They hooked a large number of the small fry, but no leviathan did either of them land.

Mrs. Julia A. wife of the late Ben. Sherill, formerly of this place, but now of Mt. Sterling, Ky., has been granted a pension on account of her son Ben. W., who was killed in the late war.

The sale of the furniture of the late O. C. Utz, at Union last Saturday, was largely attended. There was a lively competition in the bidding, and good prices were paid for the articles sold.

Two young girls belonging to Oscar Giesentempel jumped a picket fence made of tobacco stalks. The entrance of one went over and the animal had to be killed, while its companion in misfortune was badly injured.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which cause burns, cuts, sprains and bruises, for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Ointment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

Joe Reed is the boss painter. We wish to say to all who wish painting done in the latest and best style, call on him and learn his prices. He does the best work at the best prices. All plain work very cheap. Paper hanging, ceilings whitened, at very low prices. Decorating in all the latest styles. All work warranted.

The will of the late Thomas Year, as read by the County Clerk, was the will of the county which was made by the testator anterior to the death of his first wife, and a portion of the heirs claim that it is revoked by his second marriage. Some very nice legal questions are involved, and it will be an interesting fight when it begins.

The leaders of the Gaines Bros. log wagon were taken off at the sawmill one day last week, and one of them became frightened and commenced kicking and running with the double tree, while the other horse reluctantly followed until it was killed by the mate, which ran about half a mile out the Florence pike, when it discovered it was making a fool of itself and stopped.

Mrs. Noah Barlow, of the Gumpower neighborhood, who has been an intense but patient sufferer with cancer for a long time, was taken by the pain last Friday, the 23d inst. The good woman's friends and family are grieved by her death, but at the same time they recognize that there was no other relief for her. Every thing possible was done to relieve her suffering, but death alone could bring the peaceful rest. The husband and family have the sympathy of all. The funeral was preached on the 23d inst. by Rev. Lewis at the Baptist Lutheran church, of which she had been an earnest member for the last twenty-two years. Many friends followed the departed to her last resting place, and mingled their tears of sorrow with those of the devoted husband and loving children. Her family has the comforting assurance that she awaits a happy reunion in the bright beyond. Mr. Barlow and children tender their thanks to those who were so kind to them in their affliction.

We are authorized to announce J. H. BENT, of Paris, as a candidate for Superior Court Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

L. W. ROBERTSON, of Mayville, is a candidate for Superior Court Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

We are authorized to announce JAS. O'HARA, of Covington, as a candidate to succeed Hon. John G. Carlisle as a member of the House of Representatives in Congress. Subject to the will of the Democracy of the 6th District.

We are authorized to announce A. G. DEJARNETTE, of Grant county, as a candidate to succeed Hon. John G. Carlisle as a member of the House of Representatives in Congress. Subject to the will of the Democracy of the 6th District.

We are authorized to announce W. W. DICKERSON, of Grant county, as a candidate to succeed Hon. John G. Carlisle as a member of the House of Representatives in Congress. Subject to the will of the Democracy of the 6th District.

A GREAT many funny things occur in a mass meeting.

THERE are more colored than white people in Georgetown. Of the 2,721 inhabitants, 1,561 are negroes.

AND sure enough the country gets the Congressional convention, and no better place than Carrollton could have been selected.

MR. REED is now being discussed as a Presidential quantity. When Reed is made President despotism will be at once inaugurated.

THE State will now only pay $55 towards the support of the pauper idiots who are in charge of committees. Hereafter it has paid $70 per annum.

THE Campbell county grand jury has indicted J. L. Stewart, county superintendent of public schools for failure to pay over to teachers their money.

THERE are 46 counties in this Superior Court District, and in the convention there will be 301 delegates. The convention meets in Lexington on the 11th inst.

THE House tariff bill is being closely scrutinized by the Senate committee, and the indications are that it will be badly disfigured before it gets out of hands of the committee.

MONDAY delegates were appointed to the Superior Court convention and next Saturday delegates will be appointed to the Congressional convention, after which a rest will be taken.

W. E. VEE commenced running off the Burlington road district, last Saturday. So far it is found to include James E. Smith, Thomas House and L. E. Clore, the line passes through Mr. Clore's residence. The work is not yet completed.

GOV. BUCKNER told the Legislature that it would bankrupt the State Treasury if it reduced the rate of taxation five cents, on the $100 worth of taxable property, but the Legislature passed the bill, thereby telling the Governor that he didn't know what he was talking about. This made the issue between the Executive and Legislative departments sharp and well defined, and time will determine which was the better informed on the subject.

THE contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress has about narrowed down to the following candidates: McCain, of Trimble; Gaunt, of Carroll; Perry, of Gallatin; Conner, Hoggins and Terrill, of Boone; DeJarnette and Dickerson, of Grant; O'Hara and Hallam, of Covington; Berry and a half dozen or so more of Campbell county. It is very evident that this Congressional district will never have any trouble to find some one who is willing to accept the responsibility of representing it in the Congress of the United States.

BALTIMORE has an uncommonly sensible colored citizen in the person of Isaac Myers. "The solution of the negro problem is in the hands of the colored people. It is the negro duty to think and act for himself. The time has come when he shall not be subservient to any politician nor should the color of his skin designate his politics. He should stand side by side with the white man, vote for principle, and if he cannot do that his race is a failure," were declarations he made in his speech opening the emancipation celebration in Boone, and they were applauded heartily.

The Congressional District Committee met in Covington last Monday and fixed next Saturday as the day and 1 o'clock p. m. as the hour for selecting delegates to the district convention which was called to meet in Carrollton on the 9th inst., at 12 m. to nominate a Democratic candidate for Congress in this district. The official call will be found in another column in this issue.

MR. CARLISLE was given Senator Beck's place on the Senate Finance Committee, an honor seldom accorded a new member, and thus he at once goes to the front in that ablest of all legislative bodies, and those who, through jealousy, predicted that he would fall into obscurity in the United States Senate, discover that the brilliancy of his intellect is recognized in the highest legislative body known to man.

QUITE a good crowd in town last Monday, and the following candidates were industriously mingling with the yeomanry: For Congress—Gaunt, DeJarnette and Dickerson, and Robertson, for Superior Judge. When the bell rang to call the mass meeting together to select delegates to the convention to nominate a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court, the spacious court room was soon filled with the unexcited old Boone. There was a contest between the Robertson and Brent men for the instructions, and at one o'clock the proceedings were spirited, and several short speeches were made. It was finally decided not to instruct the delegates, but the Brent men claim that a majority of the delegates appointed are for him, and were somewhat elated over the outcome. At the conclusion of the mass meeting the candidates for Congress addressed the crowd, and each speaker was greeted with round after round of applause. The day was very warm making the court room uncomfortable on that account, but the crowd patiently stayed with the boys till each had made his appeal. Monday was a political field day in Boone, one that afforded considerable enjoyment for the people.

THE Democrats of this district should not be unmindful of their duty to the party on the 21st of this month. They should turn out in full force and give the Democratic nominee for Congress an old time majority, and now is the time for them to make up their minds to do the handsome thing by the man the convention will select to succeed Mr. Carlisle. The multiplicity of candidates is bound to be followed by numerous disappointments, but this should not be allowed to create any apathy on the part of the rank and file. It has not been many years since apathy on the part of the Democratic voters in this Congressional district came near paralyzing it in their defeat.

THE approaching election coming at an unusual time of the year, will be conducive of the same result, again, it is feared, and the Republicans, who are ever on the alert, will not be slow to detect any indications of indifference on the part of the Democrats previous to the election, and they will be swift to take advantage of it. It takes votes to elect a candidate, and a party nominee is entitled to his party's entire strength.

THE last issue of the Carrollton Democrat contains a long article advocating the claims of the lower end of the district to the Democratic candidate for Congress. No one can question the party fidelity of the Democracy in that portion of the district. The Democrat makes some very good points in favor of its section. It says:

When Hogan, in opposition to the Democratic organization, threatened defeat by his independent action, what counties did more than Carroll and Trimble—aye what counties did as much to grasp a Democratic victory from impending defeat?

And had it not been for the action of these two counties at the critical moment in the Drexlin Hall convention of fourteen years ago, the champion of National Democracy and tariff reform might never have been given a passage ground.

When four years ago the "Labor party" arrayed itself in unlooked for opposition against the friend of the laboring classes, and when its candidates, Thoburn, Carver and Covington by more than two thousand majority, it was the outlying counties that saved Carlisle from a humiliating defeat, and none contributed more to this result than the counties in the lower end, whose Democracy have never wavered in the day of battle and who never ruled nor been sought slumbering in their tents.

THE State Convention to nominate a Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals was quite a while in making a choice, but when it did name the man, it showed that its work was not in vain. Mr. Longmore's victory is the greater on account of the distinguished gentlemen who were his opponents. It was a clean contest—a race from "head to end"—and the result was not the offering of any kind of combination or sell-out. There is no cloud on Mr. Longmore's title to the nomination.

THE Chicago people are going ahead with their arrangements for the World's fair. An exchange says: The Chicago Tower Company was incorporated Monday with a capital stock of $2,000,000. The tower is to be 1,500 feet high, 480 feet square at the base, and will contain among other things, a hotel of 4,000 rooms.

ACCORDING to the Lawrenceburg Register the Indiana voter will get no more free rides to the elections. It says:

The fellows who have heretofore waited for the wagon to haul them to the polls will have to walk. Under the new law, the Attorney-General of the State has given the opinion that when a candidate hires a carriage, wagon or conveyance, he uses one, or knows that one is used to pick up voters, is "inducing" voters and is punishable under the act passed March 9, 1889, by a fine of $500.

The "blocks of five" are not prohibited from marching to the polls.

THERE were very few Republicans in the last General Assembly of 51st State, and they could not dwell together in unity. The Argus says:

Representatives Farmer and Bentley, two Republican Representatives, had a set-to in the rotunda of the State House last Friday. It was a regular rough and tumble, in which Farmer, it is said, fought entirely with his feet.

Geo. F. HENRY, of Falmouth, is not only a doctor and editor, but a farmer as well, and here is a pointer he gives his agricultural readers on the cultivation of pumpkins:

"Do you wish to grow pumpkins? If you do, try a row all around your fields, next to the fence. By this method you can utilize more of your land without breaking down your corn in turning your teams at the ends of the rows; your pumpkins will mature more fruit, and they will be handy to feed to stock in adjoining pastures, or to be hauled to any desired place for feeding purposes. It also obviates the necessity of carrying the heavy articles through the standing corn in order to feed or haul the pumpkins in. If one row all around is not sufficient, plant more."

GLAD to hear that the Pendleton county Democracy is growing more and more harmonious. Of the recent primary election held there the Democrat says:

There is probably less dissension here with the result of the primary held last Saturday than any ever held in the county. No personal animosities were indulged in by the candidates, and everyone so far as we have heard, is now willing and anxious to get to work for the nominees.

THE Republicans of Fleming county have been all year trying to nominate a ticket for county officers to be voted for at the August election, but they have succeeded in putting up candidates for jailer and assessor, but they are still at work on the ticket. The Gazette says: Monday the Republican advisory

 For Jailer—
C. L. CRISLER.
 For Coroner—
JOHN WHITSON.
 Delegate to Constitutional Con.—
L. W. LASSING.
 For Clerk of Court of Appeals,
W. W. LONGMOOR.

Vote early next Saturday morning.

Don't forget to go to the election next Saturday and vote.

Next Saturday this district will elect a Congressman. Democrats, do duty.

The Chicago Tribune says: "Mr. Butterworth did not vote as he shot off his mouth."

Mr. REARDEN, of Pendleton, is the Republican candidate for Congress in this district.

It will not be long until a convention is called to nominate a candidate for Congress to be voted for at the regular election in November.

Don't let there be any Carlisle-Thomas business next Saturday. A Democrat elected by thirteen thousand majority lost his seat under the Reid rules the other day.

If another mass meeting is called in this county to select delegates to a convention to nominate a Judge of the Superior Court, we predict there will be some fun at the meeting.

The State and District Democratic conventions in Kentucky so far this year are noted for the devotion of the delegates to the candidates for whom they have a preference. Hence the long fights for the nominations that have been made.

Crop reports show wheat in nearly all the Western States is badly damaged. The yield may be much below last year, and, in consequence of the short crop and the inadequate supply in Europe, there are favorable prospects for higher prices.

It is getting too warm for great men to labor, and in a few days Congress and all the higher courts will adjourn, and the men who hold the country up by their caudle appendage will have their baggage checked for the fashionable summer resorts, where they will spend the heated term.

The Constitutional Convention is the occasion of the next general assembling of Kentucky wisdom. It may get through in time for the delegates to take their Christmas eggnog at home. But on their way through with their business by that time you would better not bet two to one.

The manner in which the census is being taken is severely criticized. There is no way of knowing how the enumerators are doing their work, so far as accuracy is concerned, as they are not allowed to communicate with any one on the subject. It is a secret service business. Why should it be thus?

Several States will hold their elections before November of this year. Alabama and Kentucky vote on August 4th, Arkansas on September 1st, Vermont, on September 2nd, Maine, on September 3rd, and Georgia, on October 1st. One or more State officers will be elected in each State, and Vermont and Maine will choose Congressmen in addition.

The country won the prize in the Carrollton convention. As soon as it was known that there was an irreconcilable split in the Kentucky county delegation, the rural delegations took course and went in to win, and win they did. The fight grew the more heated toward each other because the Kentucky county factions all of which were in the benefit of the county.

The Republicans, at least some of them, are kicking about the manner in which their candidate for Congress in this district was nominated, to wit: By their district Executive Committee. But what is the use of kicking? Mr. Speaker Reed set the example, and the g. o. p. takes great delight in endorsing him every time a few of its members meet in convention. Take your own medicine like men, and praise the man from whom all such blessings flow.

ASSISTANT Postmaster-General Whitfield has made a new departure and put a stop to the practice of compromising for actual damages with professional star route mail contractors. He has enforced the law against one W. A. Stoddard, who has about 100 of such contracts which have been thrown upon the Government's hands. One case involves about $50,000 damages and imprisonment, and Stoddard is in a bad fix as well as the whole fraternity of professional bidders.

SOLEN EARLY, of Petersburg, has accepted the call and become a candidate for County Commissioner in this district composed of the Burlington, Bellevue, Petersburg and Taylorport Magisterial Districts. Mr. Early is a man of excellent business qualifications, and one whose purposes are at all times above question, and if he is elected the district will have secured the services of an honest, capable and efficient gentleman—one in whom there is no pretension but an abundance of business.

THE Louisville postoffice is a source of annoyance every four years. Mrs. Thompson the present incumbent has heretofore been very successful in securing her appointment by both Democratic and Republican administrations, notwithstanding she has always met strong opposition. She is now having a hard fight for a reappointment, and the President is in favor of reappointing her, while the Postmaster-General is inclined to give the office to a man. The jury is hung, and Mrs. Thompson still holds the fort.

WHILE in Carrollton last week we were shown a letter from a gentleman who is interesting himself in the proposed new railroad from Covington to Louisville. He is not working in the interest of any of the great systems, but proposes to make it a local road. The proposition seems to meet with favor, and some move looking to the location of the route may develop at any time. If it is determined to build the road on account of the local advantages afforded, there is yet some question as to what route it will take through this county.

In another column will be found the officers of election appointed for this county, and upon whom devolves the duty of holding the election next Saturday. They are expected to be careful in the discharge of their duty to avoid any irregularities or mistakes. An officer of elections has a very grave responsibility resting on him, and a careless and negligent official might deprive the voters of their choice of candidates, and create much trouble for the public. Post yourselves before you enter upon the discharge of your duties—in other words, "be sure you are right and then go ahead."

The district convention which met in Lexington on the 11th inst. to nominate a Democratic candidate for Judge of the Superior Court, after a three days session and the taking of one hundred and twenty-five ballots, adjourned last Friday without day. This refers the matter back to the people, and another convention or a primary election will be called to settle the matter. Since the dead-lock we have heard O. B. Hallam suggested as a very good man with whom to solve the problem that proved itself too much for the convention. Mr. Hallam is a man of very fine legal attainments and would make an able judge.

The nomination of Mr. Robertson in the Superior Court Convention at Lexington last week, was by E. L. Worthington, of Mason county. The nomination was seconded by Mr. S. W. Tolin, of this county, of which the Lexington Leader says:

"Judge Robertson's nomination was seconded by Mr. Tolin, of Boone county, in a good speech."

The Transcript of the same city, says of the speech seconding Mr. Robertson's nomination:

"Mr. Tolin, of Boone county, seconded the nomination in a brief speech of much power."

Two of Boone's sons made their marks last week as orators. We are glad to see our home talent so prominent as it was in the two great district conventions of last week.

The Carrollton Convention named Hon. W. W. Dickerson, of Grant county, as the Democratic candidate to fill the vacancy occasioned in the Lower House of Congress by the resignation of Hon. John G. Carlisle. Mr. Dickerson is a young man of superior ability, and stands very high in this State both as a member of the bar and as an efficient and hard working member of the General Assembly. In this he has served both as a Representative and as a Senator. He has worked his way to distinction among men, and is now named to fill the place in the House of National Representatives, made vacant by the greatest of leaders, John G. Carlisle. Now, Democratic voters of this Congressional District, don't be unkindful of your duty next Saturday, but turn out and give your young standard-bearer a rousing vote. It is an unusual time of the year for elections, but no voter resides so far from the polls that it will require the loss of much time to go and deposit his ballot in favor of good government and against usurpations and frauds upon the ballot box.

A trip from Burlington to Warsaw, Gallatin county, and return in one day, by the way of Walton and Sparta, is little more of a journey than a person can enjoy. From Burlington to Walton in a buggy early in the morning is a pleasant drive, but when you are loaded into the mail wagon at Sparta for a nine miles drive across the country to Warsaw, the industry of Old Sol, on such a day as last Monday, is not conducive of comfort, and were it not for the accommodating driver, Joe Costello, the ride across Gallatin county would grow exceedingly tiresome. We know whereof we speak as it was only last Monday that we had the experience.

About an hour in the morning was spent in Walton. This town is claiming no boom, but is enjoying a healthy and substantial growth, evidences of which are perceptible on every hand as soon as you enter the incorporation. Numerous new and handsome residences have been constructed during the last few years, and several others are under way, while not a few of the older dwellings have been modernized and beautified. To make Walton a first class country town, it only needs the advantage of an increase in its manufactures.

While in Walton we met several of the prominent citizens, among them were Judge Stansifer, Cashier Green, Attorney Dyer, H. G. Blanton, Hon. John S. Higgins, Frank Smith and others. Smith had just returned from Georgetown, where he had been engaged for two or three weeks.

At Sparta, after waiting until all the trains going either north or south had passed, the start for the capital of Gallatin county was made, and at 12:30 a. m. the first half of our day's journey was concluded. Having dined sumptuously at the Walden House, the temple of justice was sought. Mr. Lindsey, the present Master Commissioner and Democratic nominee for County Judge, was found in his office, and is a most courteous gentleman, and bears a very striking resemblance to his cousin, our countryman, Dr. S. S. Scott. Shortly the crowd in Mr. Lindsey's office was augmented to quite a number, and J. W. Craig, the popular county and circuit clerk, and Dr. Gaines, were giving an interesting history of the Carrollton and Lexington conventions. These conventions are being generally discussed and occasionally caused wherever two or three are gathered together, but the indications are Mr. Dickerson will poll a very large vote next Saturday.

Warsaw does considerable trade, but when a railroad strikes it a new era of prosperity will be opened up to it and the adjacent country. The town has a goodly number of enterprising citizens who are ready to give substantial aid to any worthy object, and they are anxious to hear the whistle of the locomotive up and down the fertile valley in which their town nestles so cozily.

While in Warsaw a call was made at the office of each of the local fathers. Bro. Wallace was not in. He was down town hustling for items for his ever new paper, the Indy.

Bro. Lineback was in and very busy preparing copy for his spilly journal, the Democrat. Gallatin county gives both of her papers a liberal support.

At 8:30 p. m. the return trip was begun, and that picturesque road from Warsaw to Sparta traveled as speedily as possible, in order to escape a drenching rain storm which crowded closely upon us, and thanks are due "Joe" and his team of steppers for being landed safe and dry at the station.

A three hours wait for the train at Sparta added materially to the pleasures of the trip by delaying our arrival at Walton until 8:30 p. m. From there home the drive was made with nothing to cheer the weary traveler except the occasional flash of the lightning bug's lantern, or the approach to the localities which in the past were adopted by Judge Lynch as appropriate places for the arraignment of some miserable culprit.

Nowhere along the route after passing Florence do the crops look as well as they do from Burlington to Florence. In many fields the woods are very bad.

Too much politics this year.

The post-office department has received notice of an arrangement made by the Mexican Government for placing in all the post-offices of that country photographs for the use of the public. The cylinders are to be sent from one point to another in the mails at the same postage as first-class matter. The use of the machine is likely to be general, and it will be utilized by persons who are unable to write. The photographs are managed by a company who pay a certain proportion of the receipts to the Government.

[Western Argus.]

The Legislature just closed awarded valuable time during its session in special investigations that did the State no good, and resulted only in causing dissensions among the members. There was too much of this character of work, and it was very expensive to the taxpayers of the State.

The Lottery Investigation Committee, the Jackson and Lilly investigations, and the Mason, Ford & Co. investigations were all expensive. One short-hand typewriter received more than $1,000 and he was not overpaid for his work. There was nothing done for the good of the State. True the lottery laws were repealed, and with it a law enacted to prevent the publication of any lottery advertisement in any newspaper or other publication in the State, under heavy penalties; and it also prevents the circulation of any newspaper or periodical containing such advertising out of the State, and other States will take benefit.

The same Legislature enacted laws preventing pool selling on all race courses, and in many cities, which is the most demoralizing and low grade of gambling known to the law.

The only thing that the many investigations have developed is the demoralization and total want of discipline of the convicts.

The same might be said of the Assembly. The questions arising under investigation were carried into the bodies, and the members either defended or assailed some member of the State government, or someone connected therewith. Although it was an unfortunate state of affairs for the good of the State, and we hope the special investigation system will never be repeated.

Some people become too communitarian for their own good after a political defeat.

Some few weeks ago Milt Mays, col. of Owensboro, drew $15,000 in the Louisiana lottery, and another darkie, Anthony Hay, claims that he held a half interest in the ticket over which they went to law. Of the suit the Messenger says: "Judge Little has made an order that John G. Weir be appointed special receiver for the $7,500 of Louisiana lottery money in controversy between Milt Mays and Anthony Haynes. He is instructed in the order to lend the money to the banks for six months at the current rate of interest. This is the first order in a case that is destined to become a prominent one in the courts."

This State is out of funds, and Gov. Buckner has come to her relief with the necessary amount of money to continue the payment of claims against the treasury until the taxes are paid in.

Some people become too communitarian for their own good after a political defeat.

S. W. Tolin was the only Boone county delegate who attended the Superior Court Convention at Lexington on the 11th inst. Mr. Tolin seconded the nomination of L. W. Robertson, and cast Boone's 11 votes for him.

In cases of Fever and Ague, the blood is as effectually, though not so dangerously poisoned by the effluvia of the atmosphere as it could be by the deadliest poison. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure will eradicate this poison from the system—50c a bottle.

As Erasmus Randall, of Union, was returning from Lexington, one day last week, with a buggy which he had repaired, one of the axels broke throwing the horse down and Mr. R. out onto the pike bruising him considerably and smashing the vehicle so that it will have to be sent back to the shop.

In this issue is the advertisement of the Morgan Academy for the approaching academic year. This institution was organized by Prof. Henry Newton, who was one of the best educators in the State. His school has been pronounced the best in the State, and with the pupils convenient to the Morgan Academy he should have a very large school this fall and winter. A good school in which the higher branches are taught for now that Prof. Newton is earnestly laboring to build up just that kind of a school he is entitled to the cooperation of the entire county. Home institutions are entitled to home patronage, and if we want it they are doomed to failure. Mr. Newton gives you value received for the tuition paid, and asks the people who want to send their children to school to communicate with him on the subject before deciding where they will send them.

KENTUCKY COLLEGE.

Closing Exercises, Recitations, Music.

The closing exercises of the Kentucky College at Pewee Valley took place on Monday and Wednesday nights, June 2nd and 4th, in the college auditorium, before large and enthusiastic audiences. The young ladies, one and all, acquitted themselves with great credit to themselves, and with honor to the institution to which they belong.

On Wednesday evening the hall was thronged with people, and many went away because seats could not be found. The programme for the evening was an exceedingly choice and brilliant, and all the young ladies performed their several parts with admirable grace and good sense. Several of the young ladies performed in this part of the State, and it is with pleasure that we chronicle the fact that they acted their various parts well, and that their friends have reason to feel proud of their signal success.

On the first night a piano duet was well played by Miss Kathie Stevens, and Miss Mary Coleman. Miss Mary Coleman, of Alabama, was visiting Mrs. Coleman's father, Dr. Smith, of this place.

Bert Gaines, who has been attending college at Georgetown, returned home last week to spend the summer vacation.

Our young friend, Johnny Clend, went out of town in style last Saturday, having purchased a new car and set of harness.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Williams, who have been the guests of H. P. Stephens last week, for Oregon, where Mr. W. has been stationed by the railroad that has him employed.

SPONDER-WILLIAMS' FUNERAL.

A Boone County Belle Won by an Ohio Man.

At the Central Christian Church, Cincinnati, O., June 4th, 1890, at five o'clock, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends, Elmer H. Spooner, of Cincinnati, and Miss Virginia D. Williams, of Boone County, Kentucky, were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. J. A. Taylor, pastor of the church. For the occasion the church had been very handsomely decorated with ferns and pot plants.

The bride and groom were accompanied to the altar by E. D. Spooner, father of the groom, and Mrs. H. W. Smith, an aunt of the groom. Alex. and Charles Spooner, brothers of the groom, and Mr. Jesse Forbes, cousin of the bride, officiated as ushers.

The bride is a petite blond, and the daughter of Mr. C. C. Williams, an old resident of Boone County, Ky., while the groom is the son of the Strawn Machinery Co., Cincinnati. The bride's robe was made in exquisite taste of cream colored cloth trimmed in pink. The bride wore a crown of pink roses, while suspended from her arm hung a beautiful white orchid feather-fan. Mrs. Smith the bridesmaid, wore a similar dress to the bride.

The brides were well remembered with a quince array of beautiful presents from relatives and friends on both sides of the contracting parties. After the ceremony the newly married couple left on an extended tour to the eastern cities.

False as Fair.

Monday's Enquirer says: "Leader Collins, a young man from Rising Sun, Indiana, unshowered a large packet of wine at the desk at Central Station last night. Leader Collins was not only a drunkard, but he was also a thief. He was taken to the jail of the county, and is now being held for trial."

The venerable Crank, of Paris, was taking notes for their papers.

Boone's court-house is constructed on the same plan as that of Carroll, but it is a more commodious building.

Senators and Representatives were numerous, and each had a particular friend for whom he was out.

Carroll has a splendid school house, and it is a handsome testimonial to the progressive spirit of her people.

Several gentlemen with their congressional lightning rods up, made themselves quite conspicuous in the crowd.

Editor Gullion was very busy, but for all that he never lost an opportunity to do the representatives of the press a favor.

When Boone county cast 4 votes for O'Hara, 4 for Dickerson and 3 for Gault, it expressed the sentiment of her delegation.

Thos. L. Jones was nominated for congress at the last congressional convention held in Carroll before the one just passed.

Quite a delegation of Boone county Democrats were present as spectators, and each one considers himself well paid for his trip.

Mayor Baird's band of music was highly appreciated, and the band was on duty every night in the parlor at the Houston House.

It was generally conceded that the first and last nominating speech was made by the delegates. They were led by Leasing of Boone, and that of Trimble of the second day of the convention, and it was made to the convention.

When the time arrived for the dropping process to commence, the chairman and many of the delegates shed tears and unbuttoned their shirt collars. The heat in the room was oppressive.

Senator Connor and Representative Terrill, of this county, were both on the floor of the convention and took part in the proceedings, but neither remained till the convention named the winner.

At a time when the convention was in a high state of excitement Kenton county was called, when one of the delegates shouted: "Kenton county waits more time," to which Judge Menzies of the Pendleton delegation responded: "Time is money."

Kenton's delegations were led by men of note. Harvey Myers, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Hallam's contingent, and Lieutenant Gov. Bryan, lead Judge O'Hara's. They are both able and trusty leaders.

When Mr. Omer Kirtley, the Habits Hash delegate, arose and signified his intention of changing his vote from Grant to O'Hara, some thought the crisis had come, but in a few minutes the convention had resumed its usual serenity, and continued its coquetting.

Private Session.

Cy Brock will return to his home in Missouri this week.

Rankin Revell is now on duty in the Circuit Clerk's office.

Peter Hager and C. C. Craig, of Habits Hash, were in town last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall are visiting relatives at Loveland, O., this week.

Henry Immehorst, agent for The Marmet Coal Company, was in town last Thursday on business for his firm.

Mrs. Mary Coleman and little daughter, of Alabama, are visiting Mrs. Coleman's father, Dr. Smith, of this place.

Bert Gaines, who has been attending college at Georgetown, returned home last week to spend the summer vacation.

Our young friend, Johnny Clend, went out of town in style last Saturday, having purchased a new car and set of harness.

Boone's court-house is constructed on the same plan as that of Carroll, but it is a more commodious building.

Senators and Representatives were numerous, and each had a particular friend for whom he was out.

Carroll has a splendid school house, and it is a handsome testimonial to the progressive spirit of her people.

Several gentlemen with their congressional lightning rods up, made themselves quite conspicuous in the crowd.

Editor Gullion was very busy, but for all that he never lost an opportunity to do the representatives of the press a favor.

When Boone county cast 4 votes for O'Hara, 4 for Dickerson and 3 for Gault, it expressed the sentiment of her delegation.

Thos. L. Jones was nominated for congress at the last congressional convention held in Carroll before the one just passed.

Quite a delegation of Boone county Democrats were present as spectators, and each one considers himself well paid for his trip.

Mayor Baird's band of music was highly appreciated, and the band was on duty every night in the parlor at the Houston House.

It was generally conceded that the first and last nominating speech was made by the delegates. They were led by Leasing of Boone, and that of Trimble of the second day of the convention, and it was made to the convention.

When the time arrived for the dropping process to commence, the chairman and many of the delegates shed tears and unbuttoned their shirt collars. The heat in the room was oppressive.

Senator Connor and Representative Terrill, of this county, were both on the floor of the convention and took part in the proceedings, but neither remained till the convention named the winner.

At a time when the convention was in a high state of excitement Kenton county was called, when one of the delegates shouted: "Kenton county waits more time," to which Judge Menzies of the Pendleton delegation responded: "Time is money."

Kenton's delegations were led by men of note. Harvey Myers, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Hallam's contingent, and Lieutenant Gov. Bryan, lead Judge O'Hara's. They are both able and trusty leaders.

When Mr. Omer Kirtley, the Habits Hash delegate, arose and signified his intention of changing his vote from Grant to O'Hara, some thought the crisis had come, but in a few minutes the convention had resumed its usual serenity, and continued its coquetting.

SPONDER-WILLIAMS' FUNERAL.

A Boone County Belle Won by an Ohio Man.

At the Central Christian Church, Cincinnati, O., June 4th, 1890, at five o'clock, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends, Elmer H. Spooner, of Cincinnati, and Miss Virginia D. Williams, of Boone County, Kentucky, were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. J. A. Taylor, pastor of the church. For the occasion the church had been very handsomely decorated with ferns and pot plants.

The bride and groom were accompanied to the altar by E. D. Spooner, father of the groom, and Mrs. H. W. Smith, an aunt of the groom. Alex. and Charles Spooner, brothers of the groom, and Mr. Jesse Forbes, cousin of the bride, officiated as ushers.

The bride is a petite blond, and the daughter of Mr. C. C. Williams, an old resident of Boone County, Ky., while the groom is the son of the Strawn Machinery Co., Cincinnati. The bride's robe was made in exquisite taste of cream colored cloth trimmed in pink. The bride wore a crown of pink roses, while suspended from her arm hung a beautiful white orchid feather-fan. Mrs. Smith the bridesmaid, wore a similar dress to the bride.

The brides were well remembered with a quince array of beautiful presents from relatives and friends on both sides of the contracting parties. After the ceremony the newly married couple left on an extended tour to the eastern cities.

False as Fair.

Monday's Enquirer says: "Leader Collins, a young man from Rising Sun, Indiana, unshowered a large packet of wine at the desk at Central Station last night. Leader Collins was not only a drunkard, but he was also a thief. He was taken to the jail of the county, and is now being held for trial."

FIRST SENATOR.
WASHINGTON, June 18.—SENATE.—ANDERSON received on the anti-trust bill was granted. The bill was introduced to retitle General Banks and Major General. Mr. Daniel addressed the Senate on silver. Mr. Allison followed. A further discussion occurred, participated in by Mr. Tamm, Mr. Teller and Edmunds. Mr. Tamm's remarks were met with a cold. After executive session the Senate adjourned.

Two conference reports on public housing bills were presented. The sundry civil appropriation bill was considered in Committee on the Whole. Messrs. E. N. Morrill, of Kansas, and A. L. Pearson, of Pennsylvania, were appointed members of the third and fourth committees on the bill. On the report of Mr. Willard, of Ohio, an amendment was offered and voted on to make a specific appropriation for the purchase of land for a new building at County, vice J. W. Offner, of Connecticut; W. Jones, Redash, Whitley County, vice J. M. Wilson, resigned.

At Henderson, early the other morning, the body of John G. Katerjohn, a prominent druggist, was found by the railroad track. He had tried to leap from a train after it started.

... Pending action the House adjourned 10 p. m.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—SENATE.—AMENDMENT to the Silver Bill was voted on. The vote was to strike out the provision that the silver certificates issued for the purchase of silver "shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private." Rejected. The vote was on the amendment to strike out case of J. W. Lyons vs. the "bucket shop" firm of Hodges & Miller, of Louisville, that money lost in speculation in "futures" can be recovered under the statute directed against gambling. The effect of this decision upon bucket shops in Kentucky is practically to drive them out of business.

The first municipal election of Clay City was a hotly contested one, the issue being the sale of liquor. After a desperate struggle the dry ticket was elected as follows: Councilmen, M. A. Carley, M. M. Sowell, J. R. Eaton, F. M. Daniel and E. M. Wilson. The council elected E. M. Wilson major. Park

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has dissolved the injunction obtained by the Louisville and Nashville against the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville railroads, and this enables the latter line to build into Middleborough as was agreed to. The legislative appropriation bill was considered, and the salaries of its per diem committees and Senators were increased to $1,950 per annum. Pending action on the bill, the House adjourned.

The Indian appropriation bill was taken up. The silver bill, as amended in the Senate, was reported. A motion for the companion bill was agreed to.

As John Cox Warren's place, on Brush creek, fourteen miles from Greenbush, Colonel Brock Skags was killed by George Warren. Skags was a son of William Fed Warren, the father of George, had been engaged in a difficult fight with the Indians. Skags was trying to catch the old man Warren. When George interfered Colman George turned his attention away from the crowd to George. In an instant he was seen to weaken and abandon the fight. He walked a few steps and then bowed his head and died within five minutes, having been recalled to earth, one in the heart.

The residents of that vicinity are very much alarmed, as the slide is extending. Efforts have been made to check it, but no remedies have been successful.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—A Senate bill was agreed to for a report on the administrative service of the Senate. The bill to do so passed the Senate today after the House had agreed to a similar bill.

The Senate bill would require all applications from public lands to the endowment agricultural colleges be considered. Secretary of the Interior's calendar were passed, and the bill was referred to the Senate committee on a brief executive session. The Senate ad-house belonging to Fennia Tunning is being carried down with the slide, and her family were compelled to move out on the 20th. The house is almost wrecked, and the slide in some places is fifteen feet deep. It started some days ago, and was noticeable by the large cracks in the land. When it started, there was Dickerson's majority in county 715.

The politicians in this end of the State have had a picnic all this

In a dry June is necessary for a good crop year, what can we count on for 1890?

Another mass meeting called for next Saturday. Read the call for further information.

Hon. W. W. Dickerson will not be in Washington long before Congress will take a recess for the sum-

It now looks very much like the Republicans will be unable to agree

Congress.

Born parties polled a light vote

Saturday. Mr. Dickerson's majority is between 3,500 and 4,000.

It is now Congressman W. W.

Dickerson, of the Sixth District of Kentucky. The eyes of the entire county are now on Mr. Dickerson.

Or late the elements go on the rampage from one to three times a week, and the timid are getting so they are afraid to sleep with both eyes shut.

There is no longer any doubt about Governor Buckner being a member of the Constitutional Convention. He has been given the nomination.

It is predicted that the McComas anti-gerrymander bill, even if it passes a law, will not be of such

they anticipate.

This Kentucky Press Association is in session at Winchester this week. If the programme is fully carried out, the boys will have a delightful time.

There are now two candidates for Attorney-General in the field—

Hon. E. F. Settle and "Jack" Hendrick. They are both brilliant young men, and as such they have a reputation the State over.

NEXT Saturday the Democrats of this county are called to meet in mass convention at the Court House to select delegates to attend the second edition of the Superior Court

Convention to be held in Lexington on the 9th of next month.

Mr. BRENT has withdrawn from the contest for the nomination for Judge of the Superior Court from this district. His reasons for with-

The race for the Democratic nomination for Auditor of State is now assuming shape. Major Norman, the present incumbent, and James Blackburn, brother of Senator Joe Blackburn, are the only avowed candidates. They are both strong men, and there is no doubt but what one of these gentlemen will be nominated.

It is pretty well settled that Hon.
Theodore F. Hallam, of Covington, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress this fall. Mr. Hallam made friends at the Carrollton convention, but yet it is not likely that the party will give him the nomination.

The next full term as Representative from this district.
Much is being said in regard to the manner in which the census is being taken, and especially are the cities complaining. They claim that in some instances whole blocks have been skipped by the enumerators, and they are demanding a better service. As yet the country enumerators are not coming in for consequence. Some of them may be heard of later on.

The "bone-hunters," as he calls them, have annoyed President Harrison almost to death, and he has about concluded not to be a candidate for a re-nomination. The President is now in the second year of his term and he has failed to discover any pleasure in the position, while the denunciations of the rapacious "bone-hunters" are ringing in his ears from every quarter, and haunting his dreams.

The city of Covington has repealed its ordinance prohibiting pool rooms, and placed the licenses at one thousand dollars per annum, and applications for licenses have been made by several of the rooms.
While the pool room people are jubilarious over the action of the council, many of the citizens are indignant and at a loss to know why their local law makers should reverse themselves so suddenly.

Dr. FURNISH called our attention to the following paragraph, and thinks with us it is an honor so well bestowed on Dr. J. C. Terrill, that we are glad to make mention of it to his many friends in this county, all of whom will be pleased to know of his deserved success.
The faculty of the "Naviers" College, of Cincinnati, has conferred the degree of Master of Arts on Dr.
J. C. Terrill, 43 West Fifth Street, Covington. The honor is from a high source and worthily bestowed.

MAJOR BERRY, of Newport, will enter the Congressional district again this fall, if reports be true. It is claimed for him that he has renounced his Blair educational ideas, and has gotten himself in line with the Democratic party on all the issues before the country. We are glad to learn that Mr. Berry has at last returned to the path of political righteousness and virtue.
Mr. Berry is one of the ablest men in this Congressional District, and is always given liberally of his time and means for the advancement of the party.

SOME are criticizing Lieutenant Governor J. W. Bryan for the part he took in the Carrollton convention. It may be that he was entirely out of his place—that the dignity of the official position he holds denies him the right of mingling with his fellow men on such an occasion and advocating the cause of another. Notably among the discussors of the subject is one who we do not understand it. He was not in the convention claiming any special consideration because of his official position in the State
—he was there simply as a delegate, and recognized that every other delegate was entitled to the same rights that he claimed. His official position cannot disfranchise him—neither should it preclude him from doing what he could to assist a friend in the time of need. There was not one of the censors but who would have applauded Governor Bryan had his gallant efforts been made in behalf of his favorite candidate. Put the shoe on the other foot, gentlemen.

The reduction of the annual allowance for the support of harmless idiot and harmless and incurable lunatics, kept by counties in the several counties, out of considerable revenue that has heretofore found its way to various sections of the State. A great imposition has been practiced on the State for several years, and large amounts of money have been contributed for the support of persons not at all entitled, under the law, to the State's bounty. In some instances entire families, except the father and mother, have been placed on the lunatic or idiot pay-roll, and they depend largely upon that for their sustenance, and the law enacted by the last Legislature is aimed at this class, who will now find it more difficult to obtain the allowance since their county will be pay $20 of the $75 annual allowance. Before the State will pay any part of the $55, the committee of the idiot or lunatic is required to make affidavit that the county has paid him the $20 which the State says it shall do before it will pay any part of the remainder.

ional and county tickets in the CHALLENGE AND AFFEAL.

Union, Ky., May 29th, 1890.

Hon. L. W. Lanning, Candidate for Member from Boone County, Ky., State Constitutional Convention.
Dear Sir—I have had the honor of bringing to your consideration the principle of equal and uniform taxation throughout the State, with the view to your commending yourself to advocate and demand its adoption by the convention, and I respectfully request that you will now state whether you will do so or not, in order that there may be a clear understanding between yourself and those who have the right and who may desire to be heard by the convention on this important subject. Respectfully, ROBT. CHAMBERS.

The above was written by virtue of the following:
"Whereas citizenship is a trust from God, which may not safely or honorably be neglected, and
"Whereas the people of the State of Kentucky have decided to revise and amend their Constitution, and
"Whereas the object of that Constitution is to establish justice and secure to all the blessings of liberty;
"Therefore, We, the undersigned citizens of Boone Co., Ky., declare it is our desire and will
"That every thing concerning slavery, and everything contrary to the general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government," as set forth in article thirteen (13) of our Constitution be stricken from it.
"That a section be engendered in the Constitution declaring taxation shall be equal and uniform throughout the State.
"That the powers of the General Assembly be so restricted as to relieve that body of such local legislation as may properly be attended to by county governments.
"We hold that justice is not established unless the above principle of taxation is established—that wisdom and humanity require it—that the blessings of liberty are not acquired except the people know and maintain their rights, and, therefore, we give ourselves to the support of this cause.

Signed—J. Q. Elston, L. John-

Smith, C. T. Rice, J. W. Conner,

Chambers, S. Scott, J. J. Lanning.
Mr. Lanning has not answered the above letter, and he declines to commit himself to equal and uniform taxation; therefore, in the name of the above signers, to this principle of Democratic government is challenged, and appeal is made to the people.
Respectfully, ROBT. CHAMBERS.

The heated term seems fairly to have set in.
The mercury has registered 90° for several days past.
The "weather-wise" have already begun to predict a prolonged drouth, and some, not without reason, look on the dark side of things, are alarmed lest the "not feeling well," which is the universal complaint, will terminate in a fatal cholera, but we are no president, and hope for better things.

The commencement exercises of Mrs. F. Kirtley's school took place Friday evening, July 1st.
To say that the pupils acquitted themselves well, doing both themselves and their teacher credit, is but fairly expressing it. The school room was a model of neatness, and the crowd that assembled to do honor to the occasion, nor was there stage room for the numerous performers, yet all passed off pleasantly. Notably among the discussors of the subject is one who
we do not understand it. He was not in the convention claiming
any special consideration because of his official position in the State
—he was there simply as a delegate,
and recognized that every other
delegate was entitled to the same rights that he claimed. His official position cannot disfranchise him—
neither should it preclude him from doing what he could to assist a friend in the time of need. There was not one of the censors but who would have applauded Governor
Bryan had his gallant efforts been made in behalf of his favorite candidate. Put the shoe on the other foot, gentlemen.

The Rev. D. M. Sweet, who is now fairly embarked as pastor of the Presbyterian church during the summer months, will preach on the fifth Sunday in this month (next Sunday) at the Court House, morning and evening. All are invited to attend.

There are many accidents and dis-

This is July—next Friday is the glorious Fourth. Don't forget the picnic at Big Bone.

It will take a tremendous amount of capital to sustain the boom now prevailing in this State.

The Constitutional Convention will cost the State $100,000, but it will be a good investment.

BILLY PATTERSON has been struck again. He was knocked down and robbed in Louisville the other night.

The press gang were royally entertained at Winchester last week. The next meeting will be in Paducah in 1891.

SEVERAL of the Congressional districts in Ohio and Indiana have named their candidates for this fall's contest.

The heated term and harvest walked in together this season, and the farmers gathered the golden sheaves beneath the sun's parching rays.

There is no longer to be denied that Secretary Blaine has some few trade privileges, and that they conflict with McKinley's tariff bill. Which will prevail, Mr. or the Secretary?

SOME of the counties that were instructed for Hon. L. W. Robertson in the Superior Court Convention that failed to nominate, instructed against him last Saturday.

The county of Owen has five candidates for the Democratic nomination for delegate to the Constitutional convention. There is nothing equal to having an abundance of statements ready to be commanded on such an occasion as is now confronting Kentucky.

This question: "When will the convention to nominate a candidate to be voted for by Congress this fall, be held?" is now being asked very often. It seems that the people have an admiration for that kind of political amusement, and are anxious to have another Congressional bout.

CINCINNATI has learned that politics and whisky go together very well, but that there is no affinity between politics and water, politics having almost robbed the city of its water works and now the people are fearing a break-down in the machinery that will be followed by a water famine.

Tax "Jayhawkers" State is having considerable trouble since the "original package" decision, and not being able to convict the whisky dealers in the courts, some propose to tax and feather every fellow opening up an original package house and ship him from the State, with the label, "original package" on his back.

When the iron horse goes prancing over the new road from Covington to Louisville, Florence, Union, Big Bone, Warsaw, Carrollton, and Millton, will inaugurate boom the like of which is unknown. If Carrollton does not at once develop into a city of considerable magnitude, natural advantages can not be depended on to contribute to a town's growth. A railroad is now Carrollton's principal need.

THE NEW SOUTH is the name of a new passenger steamer that has recently entered the Cincinnati and Louisville trade, and the fare between the two points has been reduced to a nominal amount. But the new line long—the Mall Line Company—will soon be master of the trade again, and over the New South steamer to seek a new and profitable field, at least for the time being.

Next Friday is the glorious fourth of July. Are you ready to indulge a regular star-spangled-banner day, giving full vent to your patriotism?

The monument erected to the memory of Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, was unveiled in Indianapolis yesterday, in the presence of many of the leading men of the country, and who took part in the ceremonies. The people of Indiana, regardless of politics, love to honor the name of Thomas A. Hendricks. His political views were pronounced, but honestly and manly positions won for him the admiration of the entire State, and his name will be handed down with respect from one generation to another until the end of time.

NEARLY all the large cities are charging that the census as being taken is a badly botched job. St. Louis claims that at least one hundred thousand of her citizens have not been enrolled, while there are other towns that have been claiming a rapid increase in population for the last decade the enumeration in which gives them a smaller population than the census of 1880 shows they had. There may be such a protest as will cause a retaking of the census. The census is taken once every ten years, and it is very important that it should be properly done. The time in which the work is done is so short that it requires an immense army of enumerators, consequently a great many incompetents are appointed. All the trouble could certainly be remedied, and a reliable census taken.

According to the New Orleans Times-Democrat the census returns from some parishes in Louisiana indicate that the whites are increasing in a greater ratio than the blacks in the State. In Red River parish, for instance, the increase in the last decade, has been: Whites, 44.2 per cent.; negroes, 27.3 per cent. It is a matter of serious regret that the census of 1890 is not in more competent hands. Properly taken, it would determine with some positiveness the relative growth of the two races in a settled society subject to no widespread social, political or industrial disturbances.

The census of 1870 was confessedly inaccurate; hence it is impossible to base any definite conclusions on it, when compared with the returns of 1880.

In 1880 the increase in population in the South was a disagreeable surprise to the Republican leaders, and at once they raised the cry of fraud. In response Gen. Walker subjected the returns to the most careful tests, scientific and practical, the result being a perfect vindication of the work done.

There was nothing in the character, nothing in the career of Mr. Robt. Porter to justify his selection as Chief of the Census Bureau. He has in its administration shown no adequate conception of the work, and to-day the lack of public confidence in the returns is painfully evident.

The increase of population in the Southern States will be large. There has been a movement Southward from the Eastern and Northern States little noted, and not recorded in the books of any immigration bureau. Furthermore the South has grown in wealth, has increased its crops, and prosperous times are usually marked by an increase in population.

What men of science, what statesmen and philanthropists desire to know, is whether under these favorable circumstances the white man holds his own with the negro, whether the white race increases at a rate sufficiently great to insure the solution in time of the so-called race problem. The census furnishes no more important matter, and it is seriously regretted that the bureau was not so organized as to command public confidence in advance. But scientific inquiry must give way to party necessity.—Courier-Journal.

Gen Longstreet, in a talk the other day in Richmond with a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.), said of the negro: "He is getting along quite well, and would do much better if it was not for the politicians. It does not follow because a man is black that he is a Republican. A negro is like most any other man, he will vote to the advancement of his own interests. He will vote against a negro who has gone to the front simply as a politician in favor of a respectable Southern white man any time. He will vote for a Southern white man that he knows against a politician from the North every time. Schools are working out the problem of the colored man in the South. The development of the country is giving him new avenues of employment. What he is gradually getting is better wages, and what he needs is less politics and meddling from politicians."

When the correspondent suggested to him that he "was beginning to talk like a Democrat," he said: "No, I talk as I always did, like a friend to the South."—Ex.

Next Friday is the glorious fourth of July. Are you ready to indulge a regular star-spangled-banner day, giving full vent to your patriotism?

The Oldham Index, published at Large, rejoices at the spirit of improvement that has overtaken that town, and particularly at follows:

We have begun to cast off the Rip Van Winkle lethargy that has held us so long, and a day of improvement is dawning. A good sound jail is in course of erection to take the place of the old, dilapidated affair. A jailer's residence is also being constructed.

Col. A. S. Berry, of Newport, attended the Criminal Judge convention held at Falmouth a few days ago, and being called on, he made a rattling speech, in the course of which he said:

I remember of forty-seven Democratic votes that were cast in a total of thirteen hundred in Newport, and I was one of the forty-seven. From that time to the present I have supported the Democratic party. I am not a Democrat because I hate the Republicans, but because I am convinced that Democracy represents the true principles of American Government—of a government opposed to centralization—a government which respects the rights of the States and of local self-government. If to do this and to believe this is not to be a Democrat, then God only knows what I am. I favored the Blair Educational Bill only when it was upheld by Garland, Lamar, Voorhees and Blackburn, Cleveland's most trusted advisers, who believed at the time that there was some measure of relief in it for the South. With these known facts before the people, it did feel unpleasant that men should attempt to distort them into an impeachment of my Democracy.

The Falmouth Guides sharpening its sweet tooth, as we believe from the following item:

The outlook for a large honey crop is encouraging.

The Guide then declares as follows:

There isn't a county in the State better adapted to sheep husbandry than Falmouth. The farmers, too, would realize greater profits from their now obtain of tobacco, and at the same time they could be building up their farms.

The Crittenden Press is not encouraged over the outlook for some of the crops in that county, and it says:

We have yet to hear of a wheat crop that is turning out to the average. While the wheat and oat crops are failures the hay crop is excellent.

The Benton County (Ark.) Democrat is much pleased at Mr. Blaine's attitude toward McKinley's Tariff Bill. It says:

Secretary Blaine is getting to be as good a Democrat as anybody. He not only speaks in favor of the tariff, but he openly against the force bill, but denounces the McKinley Tariff Bill as an outrageous measure, and wishes that he was in the Senate to fight it.

The Warsaw Independent speaks thus glowingly of the wheat and hay crops in Gallatin county:

From the present indications there will be excellent crops of small grain and hay. O. P. Krutz has a wheat field on Mrs. John Gibbons' farm that he says exceeds anything in that crop line that he ever raised or noticed. The growth is regular, and there is not a handful of foreign substance in the field and it will make 1,000 bushels. The grain is full, plump and of No. 1 quality. He anticipates saving the crop for seed purposes. Some fields of late wheat were injured by the house, but the damage, comparatively speaking, is very slight, and the crop is very good, in quality, yield and average. The wheat crop is exceedingly fine, with few exceptions. A sample of wheat from the crop of Esq. T. C. Jack, below town, measures six feet in length, while the head measures to be very large and the quality of the best, as the weather has been just the kind for the curing and maturing of the crop. Prices for such crop promise to be better than last year's quotations.

The Three Forks Enterprise anticipates a splendid future for Eastern Kentucky. It says:

The indications for Eastern Kentucky are that she can produce more coal and iron than twice the same area in any other part of the United States.

Major Mat Adams has become a puzzling question in Kentucky politics, and it is difficult to dispose of him properly and satisfactorily.

The Lancaster Record and other papers are declaring for Major G. Mat Adams for Governor, while still others think he ought to be made Auditor. The gentleman is capable of holding any office in the gift of the people and is deserving of any honor they can bestow upon him.

The Danville Advocate is in ecstasies over the prospects of plenty to live on until the perdition crop arrives, and speaks thus cheerfully to its people:

The prospect was never better than at present for a large crop of blackberries. This is a matter of great concern to certain localities, as it goes a long way toward supplying in the time between new and the perdition season. Of late years the luscious blackberry has become a considerable article of commerce, and in the upper section

GOVERNOR BUCKNER'S loan of money to the State she may not suspend the payment of demands against her, has been both commended and criticized. On the subject of the loan, the Owensboro Messenger says:

GOVERNOR BUCKNER'S unexpected loan of money to the State from his private fortune to bridge over a deficit in the Treasury, is remarkable and unprecedented. Gov. Buckner is a rich man, but rich men do not often commit such acts of generosity to this. Through his kindness hundreds of people in the State will be enabled to collect money due them, which they otherwise would, or discount their claims. Take him all in all—Kentucky never had a better friend.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

SENATOR HAWLEY has reported favorably to the Committee on Military

The amendment proposed to sundry civil bill, (making an apportion of $250,000 for the enlargement of the military post near New-Orleans, La.

The Senate Republican Central Committee met in Danville a few days ago for the purpose of considering the interests of the party in the State.
 Many prominent Republicans were present. The object of the meeting was to lay the candidacy of Judge Taylor, of Barboursville, for clerk of court of appeals.

The subject was the nature of J. C.
 Barrett to the Senate, as postmaster at Louisville.

ARTHUR GORDON, aged eight, was killed

The Comptroller of the Currency authorized the First National Bank of Greenville, capital $25,000, to merge business.

A fierce wagon containing two or three men was struck by a loaded Southern train at the Frezza street railroad crossing, Louisville, 25 Oct., to the night of the 26th, and the people are now dead or dying. It is the party where Dr. Niemöller, sister, wife and nine children; L. Holler, William Vance, Saddle Vance, 1 Steudle, Mary Grims, William A. A. Hagston, Mrs. J. A. Hagston, Will Cooke, 12th Avenue, where the car, four miles from Louisville washed. The railroad track the straight five miles, but those in wagon were laughing and singing none noticed the light of train No. which was two hours late and sing at sixth speed. Just as the train came near the station, a man leaped to her feet and cried my God, stop! but this was the warning, and it was too late. Just of the front wheels the looms struck the wagon. It was torn to and the remnants, with most of the time, sent crashing through a rail twenty feet away. How fatal the crash was could hardly be imagined when the wreckage lay about the dead car victims, mangled lives there and there position their clothes shredded their backs, covered with blood and unconscious. Ben Nolasame lay with his right arm torn from the elbow and missing. The mangled body of a youngest child hung across the driver's rod of the locomotive. Earl W. Smith was shot, but not hurt badly. In and around the train, the dead and others are fatally hurt. Cooke and two others of the Women's children are also hurt beyond recovery. Not one escaped without fearful cuts and bruises, and the list of fatalities is almost sure to be larger.

The Secretary of War has appointed at the West Point Military Academy, James W. McFarlin, Frank J. Smith, and

 many, Louisville, the largest sour-distillery in the world, burned to ground at an early hour the other morning. Nearly 60,000 gallons of whisky were lost in the process. The explosion followed at 3 o'clock in the morning. Five men reported for duty, when a mass of blue fire was seen, and a terrific explosion followed. The flames leaped to the air, immediately igniting or blowing a dozen tanks with reports of severe detonating. The whisky soon ran over the entire building, and in a few minutes the buildings were a mass of flames. Beyond the buildings is the department. The Allen-Bradley company carries its insurance at Fraternity and in New York. It insured its buildings for $750,000 insurance.

loss will certainly reach $100,000,000. The one was immediately killed by the other. But it is nearly certain that three boys who were walking along the beach when the vapor exploded were killed from the effects of the terrible blast received.

A TWO-HOUR downpour of rain at Lexington, a few days ago, caused considerable damage to property. The rain was accompanied with wind.

DURING A SEVERE storm at Vancouver the other night, Jerry Scaries, a young man, his wife and child out in a rowing boat were struck by the tree and the Scaries were instantly killed.

The early days of the war (1918) Ford bought a farm near Prestons for a few hundred dollars. Recently Mrs. Garfield sold the tract to the State, receiving $7,500 for it.

The papers of the State are circulating a statement that the Ford & Ford Company are to succeed in their effort to have the State's contract labor to the State Jail appear to have been forgotten in the offer of the lessees to do this was accepted by the State.

OFFICIAL returns from all the counties

The total vote cast in the election for all candidates was 73,764. In the previous election Carlisle received 12,387 and Hamilton 12,887.

Monk charges have been brought against Sheriff John Boyd, of Grant County, whose accounts are being investigated by the auditor's office. Boyd is charged with misappropriation on the settlement of 1887. They were copied in the sheriff's office and with making incorrect entries of the amount of taxes to be paid.

curious, and after their removal people began digging in the ground for others. By this process some of the largest were discovered that were ever found on the springs, and the "business has been prosecuted," says the writer, "as zealously by men as others are wont to dig for hidden treasure." There were exhumed teeth of three large animals, that weighed, in many instances, ten pounds each, and the surface on which the food was chewed was seven inches long and four inches broad. This seems almost incredible, but the truth of it is attested by the best of historical facts. A writer upon the subject stated that he himself saw a lot of bones exhumed at one time, consisting of several tusks and ribs, thigh bones, one skull, &c. Two of these tusks which he said belonged to different animals were eleven feet in length, and at the largest ends were seven inches in diameter. The ribs were so long that a chord drawn from one end to the other was from one to four feet long, and the ribs themselves were from three to four inches broad. Mr. Douglass, mentioned above as visiting the place in 1773, stated that he found ribs there eleven feet long and used them for tent poles. These ribs are the only place, says a writer, where these gigantic remains have been found in such large quantities and deserves to be called "the graveyard of the mammoth."

The interest attached to Big Bone Lick and the large bones found there are thus described: The first collection of these fossil remains was made by Dr. Gifford in 1838, and in 1836 was intrusted by him to the English traveler, Thomas Ashe, to exhibit in Europe, who, when he arrived in England, sold the collection and pocketed the money. The purchaser afterward transferred parts of this collection to the Royal College of Surgeons, in London, to Dr. Blake, of Dublin, and to Prof. Monroe, of Edinburgh, and a part was sold at auction. The next collection was made by Mr. Jefferson while he was president of the American Philosophical Society, about the year 1860, and was divided between the society and M. Cuvier, the distinguished French naturalist. A third collection was made by Mr. Fennell, who was first sold to Mr. Graves for $2,000, and taken by him to the Eastern States and there sold for $5,000. In 1840 Mr. Cooper, of New York, estimated the bones of one hundred mastodons and twenty elephants, besides those of other animals, had been collected at Big Bone Lick.

Thus Kentucky excels in many things, particularly in natural wonders and philosophical features. The finest springs flowing out of the ground are found in great numbers, the most gigantic caverns ever seen by mortal eyes are within her borders, and not the least of her wonders is Big Bone Lick.—Wm. Henry Perrin in Calhoun Constitution.

UNION, Ky., July 10, 1890.

The letter which appeared in the Recorder of recent date, addressed to Hon. L. W. Lassing, with the view of his committing himself to favor the adoption of certain clauses in the new constitution of Kentucky as set forth in a petition which followed the letter in publication, and which petition was signed by us, was not published at our instance; nor did we intend to urge upon Mr. Lassing a public declaration in advocacy of the principles set forth in that petition; and much less did we intend to challenge his loyalty to the principles of the Democratic party, to make an appeal to the people that he is not imbued with the true and solid principles of Democracy. Such was our intention for we regard Mr. Lassing as a man especially fitted to represent us in the Constitutional Convention by his ability, his integrity and his superior knowledge of, and his soundness upon questions pertaining to Democratic government render him a man in whom Democrats may place implicit confidence and not be deceived. In private conversation with Mr. Lassing upon the different sections of the new constitution, we find his views fully in accord with ours, and we desire to correct any impression to the contrary that may have gone out to the people of this county. The writer of that "Challenge and Appeal" in the "Recorder," says that Mr. Lassing "declines to commit himself to equal and uniform taxation," therefore the appeal. Now, while Mr. Lassing favors equal and uniform taxation from a Democratic standpoint, he does not concur with Mr. Chambers in his peculiar ideas of taxation, which are neither Democratic nor Republican—but peculiar and uncertain in the extreme upon which to base the continuance of a wise and good government.

We regard this explanation due to the people of the county in justice to Mr. Lassing as a reason why our names appeared in that article as signed to that petition favoring the changes suggested therein; but the "Challenge and Appeal" was made without our knowledge or consent, and further investigation as to what Mr. Chambers means by "equal and uniform taxation" we do not believe is in accordance with our ideas of good government, and would not be approved by the people of this county, either Democrats or Repub-

During the month of March there was a severe freeze, which apparently killed the blades, but the season being favorable for a while afterwards, it was thought the damage would be slight. The seeds of the blight and disaster it seems were sown during this period, and the excessive rains which followed have jointly conspired to reduce materially the total product as compared with last year. Recent advice from important wheat conditions in Western Kentucky, where farmers have threshed their crops, show from 50 to 65 per cent. of last year, with the statement that some crops show a good plump grain; the majority indicate a shriveled grain which would indicate light weight and a poor yield of flour. The crop has nearly all been harvested and shocked in good condition. In Western Kentucky the threshers are busy, and the crop is being sold generally from the threshers. There is a good deal of complaint of smut, cheat and cockle, but it is not general. At this time last year, the acreage compared with the previous year was 77, and the condition 75. The condition this year is 78, and the acreage 100 as compared with the previous year. The loss in condition indicates a very material change in the total of the crop yield.

WHEAT.
This crop was planted two or three weeks later than usual, but is doing fairly well. The cultivation was, to a great extent, neglected on account of wheat and meadow harvest, and only the most progressive farmers have given it proper attention. At this date last year the acreage was 105 and condition, 100. This year the acreage is about 10 per cent. less and the condition 10 per cent. worse than last year. Last year was possibly the best corn year the State has ever had. The planting was all made in good time and the season was almost perfect to promote its growth. This year the acreage has been reduced by reason of low prices and the lateness of planting on account of the rainy season. The stalk, however, is vigorous, with a good stand and with a favorable season will make a fine crop.

WHEAT.
There never was in the history of this important cereal a better outlook than in the early stages of this crop. It was sown in good time and sprouted well. All during the fall and winter the prospect was flattering, as the stalk was large and deeply rooted, with strong roots.

Now and then a farmer reports a fair crop, but in all of the history of crops in Kentucky for many years there has not been a more complete failure of any crop than the oat crop of this year. It is accounted for in various ways, but

The RECORDER is now beneath its own vine and fig tree. It moved into its new office on the southeast corner of Jefferson and Union streets last Wednesday. Its new building is not a monument to the wealth of its publication has amassed, but it is due to a necessity that overtook it, viz: Either to build a new office or quit business, and as between the two it chose the former.

It had been a renter for nearly fifteen years, but, fortunately, during the most of that time, and especially for the last seven years, it occupied very pleasant quarters, but it is at home now, and feels as independent as the little boy with his first pair of pants. The latching string hangs on the outside, and to those who have business with it, or desire to take a peep at its new quarters, it says come, in there is room and to spare.

The change of location does not imply any change in the paper, but it will continue to do the best it can with the material at its command. Now is the time to subscribe.

This is the first line of type set in our new office.

The Calhoun Constitution is now a semi-weekly. Bro. May is giving his people a double dose of a good thing. May success be his.

OWIN to the promptness with which W. J. Rice had our office erected, we are occupying a well constructed, commodious room.

Gov. BECKNER's letter accepting the Hart county Democratic nomination as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, was read, but to the point.

THE Lawrenceburg Press has changed its form to a folio and is a very handsome sheet. Another change might be suggested that would improve the paper.

ALL this hurrah about defeating Wood Longmoor for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, is only wind, and those stirring it are only fanning an indifferent quality of chaff.

SEVERAL of the neighborhoods in this county were visited by a fine shower last Sunday, but at Burlington a very light shower fell, refreshing vegetation considerably.

If your paper is not as well printed as usual, this week, it is because of having to take our power presses to pieces to move it last week, and we have not got it properly regulated, which, by the way, is particularly neat work.

At a citizens' meeting held in Covington last Saturday, a full ticket of county officers to be voted for at the August election, was nominated. Kenton county will have one of the liveliest campaigns from now until the close of the polls on the first Monday in August that she ever experienced. The summer element is in its glory, and will gather in the shekels and the drunks by day and by night. It is likely that it will develop that to the victors belong the longest purses.

The chairman of the Lexington Judicial Convention decided that where a county has contesting delegations that the delegations whose credentials are certified by the chairman of the county executive committee, are entitled to participate in the temporary organization. As temporary chairman of the Carrollton Convention, Judge Cram, of Grant, ruled that contesting delegations could not take part in the organization of the convention, and that they must present their respective claims to the committee on credentials for adjustment. We now have a recent ruling on each side of this important question, and granting that one is as much entitled to respect as the other—and it is—the question stands undisposed of and should be forever settled by the next State convention.

concerning the status of the Eddyville Penitentiary. A Standard reporter, while in Frankfort recently, learned that the Governor, Auditor had a short time before visited Eddyville and found the prison would be ready for the reception of 400 prisoners within sixty or ninety days. All prisoners will be carried to Frankfort, when the youngest and least hardened criminals will be separated and sent to Eddyville, it being the purpose to make it a reformatory institution.—Paducah Standard.

Representative Taylor, of Chicago, is the one Member who dared to say in the debate on the Federal election bill that elections in his district were corrupt; that the State of Illinois, assisted by the Federal supervisors' law, was unable to protect the purity of the ballot box, and that he wanted the Davenport bill applied in his own district. We are not surprised that the people of Chicago are indignant at this. They say since the new election law went into effect the elections in that city have been fair, and there is no demand for a Federal election law there. The district Abner Taylor misrepresents always gives Republican majorities, and if, as he says, the elections are corrupt that may explain the fact.—Nat. Democrat.

(Barkville, Ky., Herald (Rep.)). The negro question in no portion of the country is of greater magnitude than at Barkville. It is possible and not wholly improbable, if they are permitted to continue doing as they are now, that the whites will have to resort to the shot-gun policy, as the people down South sometimes have to do. While we have some very intelligent, law-abiding and respectable negroes in our midst, for whom we have due respect, we have a hundred fold their number who should be hung higher than Haman. Hell doubtly distilled would be too good for them. Torture with fire, kept alive by the sulphurous breath of the devil, and kindled with every combustible that would intensify the warmth, would not render unto them their dues. Their daily and nightly drunken carousals, their blaspheming and blackguarding on the streets should be stopped. Such conduct not only disturbs the peace, but is a disgrace to our town, and we appeal to the law to put a stop to it.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The first public results of the wasteful scattering of the public money, which has been a policy of the Republicans in Congress, are soon seen here in this city where appropriations have been piled one upon another until a deficiency will be created in the District revenues. In other words, Congress has gone ahead in the direction of reckless expenditures until the revenues of the District will not meet the projected disbursements by several hundred thousand dollars.

Although the Treasury was left pretty full by the Cleveland administration it will not be so very long if the present rate is kept up, before the National Treasury will be in the condition of the District finances—an insufficient annual revenue to cover increased expenditures, or else a resort must be had to additional taxation to meet the demands of their extravagance. The Republicans have literally made the surplus walk.

The Senate afforded an evidence of the weakness of the McKinley Tariff Bill as a party measure even as modified by the Senate Finance Committee, by failing to secure a full vote of the Republicans present in favor of making it a special order for immediate consideration. Such Republicans as Plumb, of Kansas, and Teller, of Colorado, and other Western men, refused to vote to consider the tariff to the prejudice of other legislation like the Silver Bill, annual appropriation measures and other measures of importance. There is not a doubt that many Republicans, under the lead of Edmunds, of Vermont, are seeking to stop the extravagant appropriations of the present administration, and they will, if they can, go so far as to throttle the River and Harbor Bill, which is known as many friends. As a first step, they wanted to give the Tariff Bill the right of way, thus side-tracking all other legislation, but, as stated, the scheme failed.

The truth is, many Republican politicians, both in and out of the Senate, have about reached the conclusion that the McKinley Bill would prove a very unsafe issue with which to appeal to the people, when it does not secure the favorable and united endorsement of the entire Republican Congress, they reason that it is not probable that the people at large will be responsive to its charms. To use Mr. Cleveland's words, the Republican Senators now realize that "it is a condition and not a theory," which confronts them, and they think it is better to theorize a while longer, and not rush to meet the "condition" until after the fall elections. Another point in favor of this course is that a Tariff Bill still pending will prove a more efficient argument to the people than the passage of such a measure as Read and McKinley rushed through the House at almost lightning speed, for it is the Republican idea in legislation that the more important the measure the more desperate must be the hurry in its consideration. For these reasons it is not so unlikely that the Republican Senators will let the Tariff Bill go until next session, after what lengthy discussion of its merits gives a sufficient pretext to shelve it on the plea that a final vote cannot be reached within any respectable time this summer.

Of all the great men who served in the war, not one has a monument built with money belonging to the government. And no wonder, for it took the United States nearly a hundred years to honor the name of the immortal Washington by building the Washington monument which is now the most conspicuous mark in this city. This failure, too, in the matter of prompt remembrance of conspicuous deeds, is a source of many personal heart-burnings, as well as a blot on the National Government. Grant's tomb is neglected and unmarked by any noteworthy monument to the disgrace of our greatest and noblest citizen. Sheridan and Thomas were furnished burial plots by the government they served so well, and that is all, the one at Arlington and the other at West Point, for without family remembrance, their graves would be without the recognition of even the private soldiers they commanded, a wooden head-board containing the military history of the fallen. Logan and Frank Blair, the most eminent volunteer generals of the war, are forgotten, at least by the country, the first still without a permanent burial place, and that of the other almost unknown to all except his surviving relatives. And so the list might be extended. With this national record, yet does harsh criticism come up when any Southern community honors itself by doing honor to those heroes on their side, who can expect no perpetuation of their fame by the government. Rather should they be praised because they not only perform their own but they teach those of the North their duty.

FROM EXCHANGES.

Coming from as well edited a paper as the Calhoun Constitution, the following compliment is appreciated:

The Burlington Recorder improves with every issue. It is now one of the best local papers in the State.

According to the Democrat the people in Gallatin county are in a high state of agitation over the new railroad that contemplates passing through the county. It says:

Our people are again listening for the whistle of the locomotive, and the whistle of the steam thrasher has almost set some of the most excitable wild.

The following from the Gallatin Democrat can be read, profitably, by one or more members of every community, for there is scarcely a neighborhood in all this land where the tongue of the vile and contemptible slanderer is not dreaded more than the sting of the adder:

The slanderer has always been regarded as the most detestable character, and the person who commits this iniquitous act is the most detestable of all. Few would care in this respect if they would consider that they provoke the same conduct in others which they exhibit themselves. No man is so unapproachable as not to afford to fling a stone at his neighbor. Indulgence in scandal of any kind is a disgraceful occupation of time, and tends in no small degree to vitiate the heart and weaken the understanding. It is the pastime of the idle and corrupt, and no virtuous man or woman will stoop to the indignity. Based on falsehood, calumny and envy, it exposes those who pursue it to similar treatment at the hands of those who should be alluding to ladies, mouth-to-mouth of those whom they have detracted, and by and by it is a contest between the two parties as to who shall be the cleverest and most ready inventor or most unblushing defector.

In the Lexington Transcript of the 10th inst, was the following editorial announcement which justifies the conclusion that the Carrollton Democrat does not have a very exaggerated opinion of the Tribune Democrats. Of the six delegates from this county to the Carrollton Con-tion, only two were deemed relevant by him. Messrs. Peck and Peak are patrons of the Democrat, and we believe the only ones in the delegation. Did that fact have any bearing with the editor when he was penning that sweet little comment? Anyhow he owes the delegation an apology, and ought to get down on his knees when he offers it. Skipping not more than one, the delegates from this county to the Carrollton Convention, were the poets, in every way, of any delegation, remove the slavery clause, and adopt a clause by which amendments can be made to the Constitution, and adjourn sine die.

No doubt but that the above suggestion is a good one; for the quantity of wisdom that the convention will bring together will be too great to be concentrated on any single proposition. The convention will be but little if any better than the average General Assembly. Of course there will be several able and distinguished gentlemen in the convention, but there will also be many who are not in that category.

The Frankfort Argus says: It has been suggested that the very best thing the Constitutional Convention can do is to meet, organize, remove the slavery clause, and adopt a clause by which amendments can be made to the Constitution, and adjourn sine die.

No doubt but that the above suggestion is a good one; for the quantity of wisdom that the convention will bring together will be too great to be concentrated on any single proposition. The convention will be but little if any better than the average General Assembly. Of course there will be several able and distinguished gentlemen in the convention, but there will also be many who are not in that category.

When Gov. Hill of New York was visiting Mrs. Hendricks last week, in the course of conversation she said: "If you let Mr. Cleveland beat you for the nomination, Governor, I don't want you ever to come to my house again."

The above was clipped from the Rising Sun Recorder, but, nevertheless, that Mrs. Hendricks never made that speech to Governor Hill, we will bet four bits to a canceled postage stamp of any denomination.

The eloquent Jack Hendrick is a candidate for Attorney-General, and according to the Flemingsburg Gazette, his home paper, his friends have figured him into a nomination at this early date. It says:

Jack Hendrick's friends figure out his record as follows: 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and the biggest part of 11th Congressional Districts. Rhea and J. K. Hendrick 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th districts; Settle, 7th, and part of 8th. This makes Jack an easy winner after a few convention compliments to local giddings, and there is some Northeastern Kentucky money to back their figures.

of a variety of plants, both wild and tame, and the insects are confined to the single crop injured. As it is also more difficult to fight them than to get their food by eating them, there is no reason why the tree-copper combines both of these characteristics, so that from the very nature of its respect to the individual insect to overcome.

It seems to me that the insects might be destroyed just after hatching from the eggs, by spraying with arsenic emulsion. With this and in the infested trees should be examined for eggs, and if found, the trees are infested by bark lice, as well as present past the same spraying. By the presence of the eggs is by destroying the progeny of the eggs is by spraying of egg-laying specimens will be reduced, but it will not necessarily prevent the insects from coming in boring localities from invading crops to deposit eggs.

It is a suggestion of the founders of the agency of egg deposition by free-living of the tree, also seems very of trial.

U. S. DAIRY.

W. K. from cows in good health and contentment only should be given a summary of Professor Robert's excellent bulletin on "Milk for the Sick."

A.—Milk should be strained immediately it is drawn.

B.—It should be kept with dry hands and only after the udders have been dried or brushed clean.

C.—If cold water should be allowed in the bucket, it is the cow's try and desire to drink.

D.—An abundant supply of clean, succulent, green, leafy, wholesome, nutritious food should be provided.

F.—Pure, clean, honest milk should be obtained. Any deviation from that is always be unpunished.

G.—The milk should be kept to the temperature of the atmosphere. It has been aired but not been.

H.—It should be used for the milk of animals which stands should be constructed to run from the sun the cows or vessels to the milk.

General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada, and General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada, and General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Had the weather been made to order for the occasion, it could hardly have been more favorable for the G. A. R. demonstration yesterday. The sun was entirely obscured, while a brisk autumnal wind held the flags straight out from their masts. As early as six o'clock the veterans were already about the streets and crowds of people had begun to arrive in town and to appear on the thoroughfares in holding forth.

Every hour of humanity wishes for the least suffering and discomfort of the necessitous. Those who are afflicted are civilized who desire this, whose work contributes to its attainment. It is not the least of our duties to relieve the suffering. It is not the least of our duties to relieve the suffering. It is not the least of our duties to relieve the suffering.

At the afternoon session officers were elected, the principal position going to the Hon. Charles C. Smith, of New York. The session was held in the evening at the Hotel Hamilton, where the delegates from the various states were gathered. Shortly before eleven o'clock General Alger and staff, escorted by Cavalry Post 15, Massachusetts, who were preceded by mounted police, entered Newbury street after a short trip over a portion of the route of the parade. At 11:40 they reached Arlington street and the parade started.

The Ohio division was led by Department Commander Dowling, who received many cheers as he passed down a avenue. Next came the Connecticut post bearing arms was much applauded.

Farragut Association of naval veterans paraded in the rear of the Rhode Island division. The Kansas division and drum corps, of Portsmouth, headed the New Hampshire people, who came in two sections. At 8:30 the States have passed and the marching down were greeted with the distant sound of the returning drums of their comrades from New York and Ohio, but half of the veterans had yet fallen into line and the announcement that there were 10,000 Massachusetts men standing on the Common was the signal for considerable straggling.

As early as nine a. m. the space in the vicinity of Copple Square was densely crowded and the possessors of tickets of admission to the grand stand at that point were early in their seats. Seats reserved for the Presidential party were built on a curve, giving the best view of the line of march. A number of carriages drove up and a couple of gentlemen alighted and ascended the steps, taking seats in front row.

The fall of the two was General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada, and General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada, and General Sherman O. Young, of Vermont, Minister to Canada.

POLITICAL TRUTH.

Senator Plumb on Republicanism Versus Democracy.

Senator Plumb of Kansas has taken hold on the central truth of modern political economy, and if he has the courage and the intellect to make himself its exponent it will make him a reputation second to that of no statesman in America. He has done this by putting with truth and relying on the force of reasoning, as Mr. Blaine is doing, he has gone straight to the root of the whole matter. The Cape May Mass. was given to the wife of the President as a present. It is a beautiful and the Cape May Mass. was given to the wife of the President as a present.

It was sought for that purpose by Mr. William J. McKean, with money contributed by a sum of well-known gentlemen, and the purpose was carried out. DRIFT OF OPINION.

It is a pity that Wainwright can't see the drift of opinion. There is no state at which he can stop except the bottom. When he falls the whole country will be in utter ruin. These are interesting times.

This is fall, the saddest season of the year.

Well, McCarthy was caught, and the Bellevue boys are entitled to the credit of capturing him.

It does seem that the viva voce plan of voting has about had its day in this State if the Constitution makers held vox populi.

It will be but a few days before our new assessor, R. A. Brady, will be on duty, taking an inventory of the wealth of this county.

That fitful in the Lower House of Congress last week, was conducted solely by the Republicans. It was very amusing to the Democrats.

The McKinleyites and the Blaine followers in Congress are still at war the tariff, with Blaine and his reciprocity (free trade) notions in the lead.

That barbecue at Osceola Park on the 13th inst., will be a rouser, and everybody in ten counties will be there, and Democratic gospel will be preached most eloquently.

Longwood's majority in the State continued to grow as long as the returns came in. When it reached 50,000 it was considered immense, but it continued to climb until it reached 55,000, which is a crusher.

Judge Lilly and the soldiers have done some good in Perry county. Some of the outlaws have been tried and convicted, and others captured and sent to jail to await the inevitable if justice is done.

Mr. CARLISLE made a speech in the Senate, a few days ago, on the tariff that the high tariff advocates are fighting shy of. He was armed with figures and facts that knocked all the sand from under his opponents.

DEMOCRATS read the instructions concerning the selection of your County Executive Committee, published in this impression, and make it a point to be on hand next Saturday and take part in the selection of your representative on that committee.

In this issue we announce Judge James O'Hara as a Candidate for Congress. The Judge was in Burlington Monday mixing with the yeomanry of Boone, among whom he found many friends. The Judge is too well and favorably known to the people of this county to require any introduction.

The account of the capture of Ed McCarthy, the Cincinnati murderer, as appears in another column of this impression, is the only strictly correct account that has appeared in print, and to say that the accounts that first appeared in the Enquirer and the Commercial Gazette were composed mainly of falsehoods, is speaking very mildly of the fabrications. regard to the election of County Committee. All Democratic papers in the State are requested to copy it.

Office of the Democratic State Central Committee, Louisville August 21.—To the Democrats of Kentucky—Precinct Committee: The Democratic State Central Committee has adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the election of precinct committees by a mass convention be at 2 o'clock p. m., except in the cities of Newport and Covington, where the same shall be at 8 p. m. The mass conventions shall be held at the present voting places in said precincts, and notice of said meetings published in a newspaper having general circulation in or near said precinct at least three days before said convention, or by posters at public places near voting places.

"From the foregoing you will observe that the Democrats of each precinct are made responsible for the selection of a faithful committee to represent them in their respective county committees.

"Manner of Choosing Precinct Committees: You are requested, therefore, to assemble promptly at 2 o'clock p. m., on the 4th of September next, at your respective voting precincts and elect a Chairman and Secretary, and when thus organized, elect, by fair count, a sound Democrat as precinct committee man. It will be the duty of such Chairman and Secretary to immediately advise the Chairman of the State Central Committee, by letter, of the result of said organization and election.

"Who to Elect: It is very important to the interests of the party throughout the State, and to the interests of every county, that you elect reputable, staunch, uncompromising Democrats, men faithful to their party and true to their business and personal obligations. It is important that you should not elect any one who holds political office, because you want disinterested committee men; but you are expected to choose men who will understand that their duties are to a certain extent judicial, and that it is unworthy and dishonorable to lend the service of the committee to promote the interests of rival candidates in the party.

"The precinct committee men thus chosen are ordered to assemble themselves together at their respective county seats (not by proxy but in person) on Saturday, the 15th of September at 2 o'clock p. m., and elect from their number a temporary Chairman and Secretary, and proceed then to elect a permanent Chairman of the county committee and a permanent Secretary of said committee. The temporary Chairman and Secretary, as above intimated, are requested, by the succeeding mail, to report to the State Central Committee the result of said organization, and to send at the same time a list of each precinct committee man throughout his county. Wherever omissions in any case occur, the Central Committee will supply by appointment.

"You will bear in mind that all Democrats, whether going under the name of 'Wheeler,' 'Farmers' Alliance,' or under any organization whereby the general principles of Democracy are sought to be enforced, are as much entitled as Democrats belonging to any other club or organization to be represented in these Committees.

"It is the purpose of the Democratic party to encourage organization in every proper way, and the men who, either as Democratic leagues, clubs, Wheelers or Farmers' Alliance, unite in contending for the principles which are Democratic and essential to the interests of the common country are expected to act on a common basis within Democratic lines in rebuking National legislation which is calculated to disturb the business and harmony of the whole country. To these organizations everywhere in the State, by uniting as Democrats, is due the credit of great victory you have achieved in the recent State election, and your Central Committee comes now to ask for a further united effort to bring about organization which will be reputable, permanent and harmonious."

every day. They will be as many candidates before the next convention as there were at Carrollton, but the fight will be hot one, if indications are reliable.

Hallam seems to be looking up in the country, and Mr. Dickerson will have considerable trouble to keep his fences in repair in the country. And then there is Judge O'Hara, who has considerable strength in this and some other counties, and will make it interesting for some of the boys. If Mr. Dickerson can keep the country arrayed against the cities, and keep up the Hallam-O'Hara wrangle in Kenton county, his prospects for securing the nomination will be very bright, but then that is to be seen.

Professor calls himself agnostic. He's a great big little jackass. That is a scriptural animal, too. Hell is selfishness on fire. It is a wonder that some of you don't go to hell by spontaneous combustion.

Laying up money for Sally and the babies, you old coddle! Before you have been in hell two years some old fellow will have married your widow and be sitting on your front porch bragging about marrying the Kurnel's widow and getting the Kurnel's money. I told my wife if she wished to get married after I died, to do so, but to keep the old hound off the front porch.

It is said that the Rev. Sam's receipts on that day were $598.

Monday night after 11 some shots were heard across the river, accompanied by some screams and cries of murder. Soon after a skiff with two young men and a woman came over, entered a shantyboat at the lower end of town. They were questioned about the shots and cries, and their answers created suspicion of foul play. They have been closely watched, and the officers hope to unravel the mystery.—Lawrenceburg Press.

One day last week a drowned man, supposed to have been murdered by the above parties, was discovered floating in the river at W. W. Grimsley's landing at the mouth of Big Bone creek. The body was perfectly new, a bullet hole in the breast, the throat cut from ear to ear and skull stove in. It was a ghastly sight.

"Esq. G. W. Baker held the inquest, and the body was buried on Mr. Grimsley's farm. It is believed that the murdered man's name was Ruskard that he belonged in Cincinnati.

The Farmers' Alliance are taking a hand in the selection of candidates for Congress in several of the districts in this State. So far they have swung into line with the Democrats, and the present indications are that on State and National issues the Alliance will affiliate with the Democrats, the party that has constantly demanded and contended for the principles set forth by the Alliance. For years the Democratic party has claimed that the farming element of this country is almost entirely ignored in the halls of legislation, and the Alliance and other organizations of the farmers are proofs that farmers all over the country are realizing that Democrats have not been lying to them all this time. The growth of the Alliance has been wonderful, and that it is going to cut a considerable figure in politics in this country is, we believe, assured.

The Republicans are much exercised over the political prospects of their two leaders, Reed and McKinley. The defeat of McKinley is accepted as a foregone conclusion and Reed is not as safe as he might be. The Democrats are making a quiet fight in the first Main district and it would not be surprising to see the bulky form of the speaker tumbling down from its lofty height.

As in recognition of this some of the best Republican newspapers in the House are to be hanged into Reed's district as soon as congressional adjourns. There will be a few good Democratic speakers sent there too, and the district in times past has been close enough to be fair fighting ground. The manufacturers are relied upon to carry McKinley through "fat" in return for the tariff bill. Should Reed be defeated—McKinley is almost sure to be—Republicans will be badly hurt for leaders in the next congress. But, worth of Ohio goes out and Burrows of Michigan, has not a certainty in his pocket. But the Democrats say, they will have no necessity for leaders as there will be precious little rank and file to lead.

Lexington Transcript:—A Mississippi editor has a plan for a new constitution in a nutshell. It is this: "Disfranchise for petty larceny and build the iron road low." A clause of that kind might be a good thing for Kentucky.

Louisville Times:—So far as heard from the majority in the Kentucky Constitutional Convention for a clause prohibiting "local legislation" is overwhelming. It is a gigantic evil, and it is cheering to contemplate that its day is over in Kentucky.

Every column in a newspaper contains from twelve to twenty thousand distinct pieces of metal, displacement of any one of which causes a blunder, a typographical error. And yet some people say that if they can discover an error in a newspaper.

Owensboro Inquirer: It is questionable if it is a good plan to hold so many elections. We have just passed through the agonies of a vigorous campaign and election with its consequent inattention to business, and are in the midst of a Congressional canvass with the election three months away. The new Constitution should provide for holding the State and county elections in November, when Congressmen are elected.

Madisonville Hustler: In one month the Constitutional Convention will assemble and begin the work of altering, amending or repealing our present Constitution. The only suggestion that we wish to make is that our system of voting be changed to the Australian method, or something of the kind, so that the members of the body keep sober, do the work carefully and systematically, get through with the job and come home with clean hands and good records.

"The death of S. T. Bayes at three o'clock on election day leaves the County Clerkship Johnson county in a tangle that perhaps the Courts will have to straighten out. Bayes received a large majority (probably 500 or 600) of the votes cast; but died before the polls closed. E. F. Howe, his opponent, will doubtless claim the certificate of election on the grounds that a dead man could not be elected to the office. The comparing Board can do nothing but count the votes as cast and certify the result, and the question as to who gets the office will be a matter for the Courts to settle.—Painville Paragraph.

Murray News: The Constitutional Convention meets in Frankfort the first Monday in next month to revise and remodel the Constitution from "start to finish." There are a great many needed changes, and the delegates elected may now put on their "thinking caps." The State can save thousands of dollars by placing all private and local matters in the hands of the county judges, and the Legislature to look after nothing but general laws and session limited to forty or fifty days and to meet as it now does.

The election laws of the State ought to be changed to vote by ballot instead of the present method. A majority of the people like the live voice way but for one thing, and that is each man's strength can be ascertained from the poll-book at any time during the day of election thereby causing many a good man to be defeated for office that otherwise would be elected, in all probability. And there are a great many other needed changes that we might speak of here, but the above in particular we believe the people want and demand.

Glasgow Banner: When the delegates to the Constitutional Convention meet to frame the new Constitution for Kentucky, that provision in the present Constitution making the Governor ineligible to election twice in succession should be stricken out. There is no sense in it, and we do not see why it was ever inserted. Let the Governor be elected for four years, and put a limit to the number he may serve. Ours is a Republican government, and the people ought to have the right to say whether or not the Governor shall serve one or more terms. If they see fit to elect him once, twice or three times they ought to have the supreme right to do so. These smart men who favor the one term idea know as little about statesmanship as a Hindoo does about philosophy.

Owensboro Inquirer: The important thing with the people is, what will the convention do? It has already been suggested by the Inquirer that the new Constitution should contain a provision requiring that all State, county and municipal, school board, and other elections for public officers shall be conducted by ballot. This proposition meets with general favor, and it is probable that the convention will recommend the adoption of

We are authorized to announce that W. W. Dickerson is a candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Judge James O'Hara, of Covington, as a candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Mr. Points, editor of the Williamson Courier, was in town Tuesday.

Quincy Kennedy is being guarded and a lauder. Order your guns, gentlemen.

SPEAKER REND's district received him to Congress by a largely increased majority, Monday.

The North Bend Baptist Association begins its annual meeting at the East Bend Baptist church today.

The race for Congress in this district will now commence moving with some system, and will become quite interesting in the next few weeks.

The candidates for Congress and other good speakers will attend the barbecue next Saturday, and politically the day will be exceedingly refreshing.

The State Journal says the reason McCarthy became so popular here was a red handkerchief he wore when he arrived at Bellevue. A good many took him to be an "Old Roman Democrat."

NEXT Saturday everybody will attend the big Democratic barbecue at Oceola Park. It will take an immense amount of provisions to feed the people, and the committee requests all who can, to bring baskets of provisions.

GEN. KENNEDY handled Senator Quay without gloves, the other day, charging him with having sold out the Republican party. He even went so far as to criticize the Senator for remaining silent as to the charges against him while Treasurer of Pennsylvania.

At the third annual session of the Boone County Sunday School Union, held with the Hopeful Lutheran church, Rev. H. M. Lentz, of Florence, was elected President, and Revs. T. L. Utz and E. G. Mann, Vice Presidents; B. L. Johnson, of Verona, Secretary.

So far as we have heard members of the County Democratic Executive Committee were chosen as follows, last Saturday: Burlington, Dr. J. G. Furnish; Bullittsville, Clinton Gaines; Carleton, Ben Wilson; Hamilton, J. W. Kennedy; Union, L. H. Voshell; Walton, Sam Lind, Jr.

The Constitutional Convention is now in session at Frankfort. Much is expected of this convention, and there is danger of its doing too much. If the convention attempts to enact a code of laws instead of simply framing a Constitution, it will go beyond its sphere and spoil all the good work it ought to do. It should not surprise any one if the Christmas turkey is well high ripe before the convention adjourns finally.

The Democratic Executive Committee for this Congressional District have selected the 16th of October as the time and place for the election to nominate a candidate for Congress. The manner of selecting delegates is left to the counties. This will necessitate a meeting of our county committee to determine whether our eleven delegates shall be chosen by a mass convention, district conventions or a primary election.

For a while it looked as though the grand jury at Hazard did not intend to return any indictments, and the Commonwealth's Attorney went into their room and gave them a lecture, telling them that they had testified enough before them to hang twenty men, and if they did not return the indictments that he would have them discharged and another jury summoned. Seeing that the attorney meant business the jury went to work and ground out a good list, and it is believed that Judge Lilly's last term of court at Hazard is the beginning of the end of the reign of the Perry county outlaws.

"Whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad." The Republicans are now expending the full force of this quotation. Only a little while ago they settled their personal difference by the exchange of epithets that would make a fisherwoman blush, followed by a general "veto" on the floor of Congress, and now one of the leading Ohio Republicans denounces the Republican Senate as a "colossal aggregation" as Barnum would say, of "ignorant and arrogant millionaires," who have bought their Senatorial seats as they would any other merchandise. More than this, he intimated that respectable and intelligent Democrats were sitting in the same chamber with these political parasites, and he declared that such men as Webster and Calhoun would have shuddered at contact with men who had nothing to recommend them but their ignorance and money. So much for generalization.

If his assault upon the Senate was bitter, and bitter because everybody knows it is true, Kennedy fairly danced when he trailed his fingers upon the great Republican leader, Boss Quay. How he did thunder out the charge that he is an unconvicted felon except at the bar of public opinion, and that he is the monster of corruption the Democrats have so long pictured him. This man to whom all the Republicans have bowed down is now denounced by one of his own followers as Judas Iscariot.

And the end is not yet. Thus far Kennedy refused to apologize and will not consent to the expunging of his remarkable speech from the Record. He says that what he said is true and he sees no reason for eating his own words. Meantime the Republicans are using all their persuasion to patch up the little family row.

In the Senate matters are more equally. Senators talk under their breath and declare that the dignity of the body must be asserted and maintained. But one man is hopeless. Quay, beyond a doubt, fears an investigation into his past political life. He cares little for any campaign irregularities, but dreads and inquisitorial raking-over of his management of Pennsylvania finances. Many of his associates declare that he must demand an investigation both from personal and political reasons, but he poor man, feels that what he advises as a necessary course for his good name, will prove his undoing. No unhappy man, therefore, stands in the Senate today than Matthew Stanley Quay, only yesterday a political God, but now arraigned by one of his own party as an escaped criminal and a Judas.

In one instance, at least, Republicans in the Senate have the monopolists to look out for themselves, and clasp hands with the Democrats to relieve the tariff-burdened people. This was done by a sufficient number of Western Republican senators combining with the Democratic Senators to put binding twine on the free list. Be not deceived though, ye agriculturists! The House, under McKinley's lead, will most assuredly put it back in the bill at its original tax figures, and when the tariff comes to conference the Senate will yield to the House for the same old reason "to save the bill." Thus will the tax on binding twine be restored and the twine monopoly be protected.

Cannon, of Illinois, has secured an unenviable distinction through his pointed reference to those delinquent members who left the House to defeat the tariff bill. No man but one wanting in the higher instincts would have favored such a resolution. Even Blaine, aggressive or no, would not make the memorable remark when the Democrats refused to vote on the force bill, that "you can lead a horse to water but you cannot make it drink." The last man to apply the lash to Cannon's thick hide was Amos Cummins, the newspaper man who also holds a seat in the House. As usual when Cannon got so uncomfortable he could not stand it any longer he had Cummins "choked off," but not before the newspaper man had time to tell him that if silenced in the House he could make his pen talk to the people and thus have justice.

Headman Clarkson, late of the Postoffice Department, is going to divide his time between running an electric railroad and helping the Republican Congressional Committee in the fall campaign. It is believed that Quay takes any further interest in the election of Republican Congressmen. They are of two classes he thinks, the first of which charges him with horrid things, while the other sits by and listens if they do not applaud. Clarkson is frank and admits that the Republicans have little or no prospects of securing control of the next House, or as he puts it, there is only a fighting chance. Nevertheless, he is willing as long as the Republican Committee has any money to spend, to help to spend it.

It is nice to handle other people's money you know, particularly when there is plenty of it. The manufacturers, whose victims have increased wonderfully by reason of the McKinley bill, are expected to put up enough to save the men who have made them. As yet, though, I am informed that contributions come in slowly. The year waiting to see how much of a prize the McKinley bill will be. Hence Quay's anxiety to settle tariff matters his way.

In his speech in the House the other day, Gen. Kennedy, a staunch Republican from Ohio, made the following very friendly allusions to Senator Mat Quay, of Pennsylvania: "I don't know," he charges made against the Chairman of the National Republican Committee are true or false, but I do know that they have been made by journals of character and standing again and again, and I do know that in the face of these charges Mat Quay has remained silent and has neither sought nor attempted to seek opportunity to vindicate himself of them. I do know that as a Republican leader he owed it to the great party at whose head he was either to brand them as infamies or to prove their falsity, or he owed it to that party to stand aside from its leadership. He has not done either, and for this I denounce him. The Republican party can not afford to follow the lead of a branded criminal. He has failed to justify himself, and though opportunity and ample time are given him, he remains silent. His silence under such circumstances is the confession of guilt. An honorable man does not long delay when his honor is assailed. He has delayed too long to justify the belief in his innocence; and he stands a convicted criminal before the bar of public opinion. Under such circumstances he should be driven from the head of the party whose very life his presence imperils. The Republican party has done enough for its pretended leader. Let him be relegated to the rear. It is no longer a question of his vindication; it is now a question of the life of the party itself."

Kennedy is mad with Quay because he gave the Lodge election bill the cold shoulder.

HON. L. W. LASSING.

Last Saturday's Courier-Journal contained the portraits and short biographical sketches of nearly all the members of the Constitutional Convention. The following is its biography of Hon. L. W. Lassing, Boone county's member:

Hon. L. W. Lassing, the representative from Boone in the Constitutional Convention, was born on the 17th day of December, 1839, in Boone county, and has resided in his native county and State all his life. In youth he attended the best schools in his county; but, upon approaching manhood, he was carrying on the farm, and was engaged in the coal business, and was a member of the Boone county High School, at Oxford, where his education was completed. In early manhood Mr. Lassing learned law, but never entered the profession as a practitioner. He preferred farming, and has been engaged in that vocation on an extensive scale, and owns and occupies one of the finest farms in his county. It is located in a section known as the Richmond neighborhood, a section of country that can not be surpassed in the State. When Kentucky was at flood in the Kentucky, and was carrying everything by storm, Mr. Lassing, though a young man, was nominated by the Democrats of his county as their candidate for County Representative. He was elected, and in the discharge of his duties, he was, in every way, exposing the rottenness of the principles of the Know-nothing party, as to nearly secure his election. Though defeated at the polls his career was a triumph. Mr. Lassing has been a Democrat all his life, holding to a strict construction of the Constitution, State and National. He represented his native county in the General Assembly of 1874-75. Mr. Lassing has a well versed in history, politics and literature, and is posted on all the questions of the day. He is a deliberate and logical in debate; is abreast of the times, and will advocate what he believes best to advance the interests of the people. He has the learning and ability to make himself felt in the Convention, and to impress upon the Constitution his strong, practical common-sense views of organic law.

A Baptist deacon, who went to the house of Mrs. Selby, near Gainesville, Texas, and began to make love to her in the absence of her husband, was very nearly killed by the infuriated woman.

The Democratic Committee in the Seventh District, has decided to declare W. C. P. Leckie a candidate for Congress, provided there is no other candidate announced by the 15th inst.

James Jefferson, of Harrell county, who has thirty miles apiece of boys, has nineteen children, including seven pairs of twins. His ten brothers, and the eleven brothers have thirty-seven pairs of twins.

"Brethren," said an old negro preacher, "I've got a three dollar sermon, and I've got a two dollar sermon, and I've got a dollar and a half sermon; I want this indelicate audience to take up a collection, and then I will know which to give you."

A dog, feared to have been mad, ran a muck in the Boyd creek country last Saturday evening. A daughter of Jake Loden, a son of Perry, two children of Jim Stout and Jim Stout himself, and a child of Bill May, were all bitten before the animal was killed. Most of those bitten have already gone to a madhouse.—Glasgow Times.

At Grayson, this State, the Farmers' Alliance, or Farmers' and Laborers' Union, of the Ninth Congressional District, met at the court house, with nearly three hundred members, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress to occupy the seat now held by Hon. T. H. Paynter, Democrat of Greenup county. The convention indorsed Mr. Paynter and then adjourned.

The Louisville central police station has a new rinkle. It is a sobering room, and is run by electricity. If a man is dead drunk he does not have to be told to get up from the floor. The walls, chairs and everything in the apartment are heavily charged, and the poor wretch is compelled to dance a Highland fling until sober, when a poor man without a family, he is sent home. One application generally satisfies them.

The Atlanta Constitution wants a duty on meteoric stones because they contain iron, and the Boston Globe says the infant toy industry should have protection by putting a heavy tax on the toys that come down from the Arctic ocean. The cyclone and the earthquake's business is in its infancy in this country and if the Republican party will just put up a big tariff to keep out foreign competition another American infant industry will be protected. Those South American earthquakes ought not to be allowed to range heaving along through Mexico and across the line without paying a duty of at least sixty per cent. a quake.—Xington Transcript.

Bro. BOWEN, Sept. 5, 1890.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

"Little Zion" Baptist Church, (colored) near Big Bone, has been presented with an elegant Bible, by Mrs. Mary K. Tousey, of Cincinnati, O., for which we are very thankful, for we have never had a Bible, although the Church was organized many years ago. We want to thank her through the columns of your paper, for such a much wanted gift. You will oblige the colored congregation of this Church by inserting this in your paper. Very truly yours,

Geo. EWALT, Deacon.

Ed Botta, of Bellevue, was in these parts last Sunday.

Miss Mary Corn has a handsome new piano. She knows how to use it too.

Miss Margaret Kirtley, of Covington, was the popular guest of M. T. Graves and family last Saturday and Sunday.

Clint Gaines was chosen last Saturday to represent this precinct on the next County Democratic Executive Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kirtley entertained very pleasantly last Sunday in honor of their guest Miss Pilcher, of Cincinnati.

Presumptive to the call of the District Committee of the Sixth Congressional District, the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee met on Saturday, September 13, 1890, to determine the manner of selecting and instructing Boone's eleven delegates who will attend the Democratic Congressional Convention to be held in Falmouth, Pendleton county, on October 16, 1890, and passed the following resolutions:

Hartford Herald: There is a practical unanimity of opinion that the Constitutional Convention will be a success in this jurisdiction, more so than in any other, and that the success will be due to the fact that the delegates will be selected from the people.

Bardwell Star: If the Constitution is not changed in any other way, we hope it will give us a secret ballot system of voting—a system that will give every man a right to vote entirely away from the crowd while he prepares his ballot.

Hazel Green Herald: The Constitutional Convention ought to do something towards cutting down the number of elections. There is nothing in this day and time more corrupting than our elections, and the fewer of them we have the better it will be for the people.

Elizabethtown News: It is to be hoped that the Constitutional convention will adopt an educational qualification for voters, with the restriction that no one now entitled to vote shall be disfranchised. The efficacy of the Australian system of balloting depends largely upon the ability of the voter to read his ticket, and there ought to be no question that this much education should be required of the voter.

Hart County News: It has been suggested that the Circuit Court be abolished, and we think the suggestion a good one. A court having jurisdiction that the Circuit and Quarterly courts now have could be established in every county, with a continuous session of court like the cities have, and thus dispense with delay which necessarily follows our present mode of semi-annual sessions.

Lane County Herald: There is no doubt but that the delegates-elect are men of experience, good judgment and acquainted with the changes necessary to be made in our present code of laws. The delegates to the county institutes by that aggregation of wisdom. The institute in this county treated it with the utmost respect, and it is a safe to say that the State Board of Education will stand still lower in the estimation of the public. Mr. Pickett & Co. are great in assumption if in nothing else. We are sorry that his earnest and laborious efforts in behalf of public education during the past many years have not been rewarded with greater success, but that he is at last compelled to appeal to the county pedagogues to inform him how to elevate Kentucky children in the affections of their parents.

Mr. Blaine has accepted an invitation to visit the Northwest. Of course he will have to mix some politics with pleasure.

How to induce Kentucky parents to take as much interest in their children as they take in their horses and cattle. The above is a problem that is harassing the brilliant minds that compose the Board of Education, and it was placed upon the program sent out to the county institutes by that aggregation of wisdom. The institute in this county treated it with the utmost respect, and it is a safe to say that the State Board of Education will stand still lower in the estimation of the public. Mr. Pickett & Co. are great in assumption if in nothing else. We are sorry that his earnest and laborious efforts in behalf of public education during the past many years have not been rewarded with greater success, but that he is at last compelled to appeal to the county pedagogues to inform him how to elevate Kentucky children in the affections of their parents.

Mr. Reed is back at Washington and flying high on account of his reelection to Congress. It is said he now thinks that the next Congress will be Republican. This belief he bases on the fact that the worst pill in the box was indorsed by the Maine Republicans.

The farmers are a little uneasy for fear that the damp weather will keep their tobacco growing and too green to cut until the frost catches it. The crop has come out pretty well in the last few weeks, and had the stand been a good one there would have been at least half a crop.

The Miami Baptist Association which was held with the Mount Pleasant church last week was well attended. On Friday and Saturday the meeting was held at the Harvest Home grounds, and the attendance was very large, and especially was this so on Sunday.

Last Monday Charles Jenkins, of Lawrenceburg, came over and had O. P. Tanner apply his machine to a dog bite which he feared might produce hydrophobia. The stone did not stick. No bite to which the Tanner machine has been applied has ever produced hydrophobia.

The chairman of the Constitutional Convention will report his committee to-day, and then the Convention will go to work in earnest. The location of the capital is likely to create considerable interest during the session, and will keep Frankfort people on the uneasy seat during its pendency.

The Newport reporter for the Covington Commonwealth shot and killed the city engineer of Newport last Sunday. The engineer was offended by an article which he thought the reporter had written about the new public school building now being constructed in Newport, and when he met the reporter he assaulted him and was fatally shot.

The Constitutional Convention has a large field before it, and if it covers it will be in session for quite a while. So far it looks very much like the judiciary of the State will receive a general shaking up. The election system will come in for consideration, and it, too, may be greatly reformed, as there is a unanimity in the demand for a change in the manner of voting.

Why not give the County Courts jurisdiction of all the civil business and then establish Criminal Courts with circuits so small that each county can have at least four terms of Criminal Court every year? The civil and criminal business ought to be separated, and by this means they would be, and the trial of all cases would be expedited by the courts, and litigations brought to a close in a much shorter time, thereby saving much cost, time and expense to litigants.

George Washington wrote a No. 11 book, and his law was so big that his gloves had to be made especially for him.

The expenses of the Government for the year were estimated by Mr. Plumb Monday at $450,000,000 and its revenues at $400,000,000. The Kansas Senator predicted a deficit as sure as the rising of the sun.

Sam Sellers, who was found guilty of manslaughter at the last term of the Scott county circuit court and punishment fixed for 21 years, has just attained his majority.

The Fulton Graphic says "the Louisville Times has it straight that last winter's legislative aggression will be called together again this fall." The Frankfort Capital has it straight that it will not. You pay your money and you take your choice—Capital.

Mr. James G. Blaine, jr., has rather a heroic operation performed for rheumatism, a few days ago. The surgeons broke her right arm near the elbow, and this week they will break her right leg near the knee, with the hope, also, of straightening that member.

Verified returns from the Vermont election put the Republican candidate for Governor, in a majority of 12,883, which is 14,594 less than that of his predecessor, Dillingham, in 1888. The Republicans have a reduced majority in both branches of the Legislature.

The failure of the Kansas crop has called the farmers' thoughts to the wheat crop again, and not only last year's wheat fields, but the corn fields and oat fields and newly broken places in many parts of the State are being prepared for wheat. It is predicted that the acreage will far exceed that of previous years.

After 203 ballots had been taken the late John Wick Kendall, of West Liberty, was nominated by the Democratic Convention of the Tenth Congressional district of Ky., at Jackson. C. R. Brooks went into the convention with the largest instructed vote, but the three-cornered fight resulted in the nomination of Mr. Kendall.

The Lexington colleges are rejoicing over a largely increased patronage this year, and the Courier-Journal remarks:

The public officials who recently indulged in a sneer at Kentucky's partiality for her fine horses over her children, are invited to note that this state of case exists in a city which is at once the center of stock-raising and the principal seat of education in Kentucky.

considered and laid over. The bill to amend the contract labor law was discussed and amended. Also, the Land Court bill. A brief executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—A resolution was adopted for the appointment of five members of the Ways and Means Committee, to report progress at the next session. A resolution was adopted to designate the House Postmaster. A number of calendar bills were passed, principally for branch post offices. The conference report was presented, and after discussion, the House adjourned until recess. A resolution was offered by Mr. McKelvey for the adjournment of Congress until the 1st of September.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—SENATE—A bill was introduced to forfeit certain lands of the Northern Pacific railroad. The House on Monday passed a bill to amend the act of 1874 relating to the contract-labor bill. The U. S. Land Court bill was also introduced. The eight-hour claims bill was also introduced. After a short executive session, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—The McKinley tariff bill was passed by the House today, through the tion of the conference report, by a vote of 187, a majority of 91. This big majority is entirely Republican. The only deviation from a strict party vote was the part of Mr. Coleman, Calverton and Kelly, who sided with the Democrats in the negative. Mr. Kinley then reported from Committee on Means a resolution providing for the adjournment on Tuesday next, and it was passed without division, and the House adjourned. The House Committee on Accounts today began an investigation of the charges preferred against Postmaster Wheat of the House resolution introduced by Mr. Ealoe.

THE CONVENTION HAS GONE TO WORK with a speed that looks like business. There are some of its members who yet hold fast to the old idea of having things done on the cheap order, which is really saving at the expense of losing at the bung.

The resolutions offered by ex-Governor Knott and Gov. Buckner, have so far, drawn more attention to them than all others before the Convention, partly because of the subjects but chiefly by reason of their authorship.

Ex-Gov. Knott's resolutions cover the entire field of the State Judiciary, and propose some radical changes in the present system.

The first resolution provides that the judicial power of the State shall be vested in a Supreme Court, Circuit Court, County Court, and such inferior courts as may, from time to time, be established by law.

The second resolution proposes that the Supreme Court shall consist of five judges, four to be elected by the State at large and one to be the chief justice to be appointed by the Governor with the approval of the Senate.

We believe that the idea embodied in this resolution will not be adopted by the convention, as it is an attempt to blend two antagonistic principles in one system. It means that the people are competent to elect four judges of the court, but that at that point their ability to choose stops. That the Chief Justice is above their reach, and that they are not fit to have a voice in his selection, except in an indirect way through the Senate.

The people are sufficiently enlightened and able to elect the judges, or they are not. The new system to be offered for their approval, we think, must be centered on one or the other side of the question. Many of our best men think the judges should be appointed, but they go upon the idea that the people, though able to elect proper men, will nevertheless permit themselves to be led aside and, for one reason or another, cast their votes for the man they or their friends like best on account of his social qualities, his cleverness or his prominence in politics, instead of looking out for the best jurist and the one best fitted for the duties of the office.

This appointing a part and electing a part is a double-edged machine—too much of a mixture in its parts for the plain, practical business sense of our people. We don't think it will do.

The third resolution proposes that the judges shall hold twelve years, &c., and that any one that has been elected to the full term shall, thereafter, be ineligible. This is a rather strange doctrine to a man of common understanding, and it is a direct conflict with general opinion. It will be an uphill labor to convince the mass of our people that a judge should be discharged by reason of the fact that he has been a judge of our higher court for a period of twelve years. On the contrary, we are apt to regard experience as an additional reason for continuing a good judge upon the bench. It is true that twelve years is a long time to hold office under one election by the people, but we can see no reason why that fact should create a disqualification; but its effect would seem to point in the opposite direction. The present length of the term as fixed by the Constitution seems about right. We have heard no complaint about it, why not let it remain? Eight years is a good long time to hold a position, without a reelection.

By this resolution no one is eligible to an election to a seat on the Supreme bench if past the age of fifty years. Here, again, the community will not understand the disqualification. At fifty years most men are in their prime, and if ever fitted for the bench, are then.

The seventh resolution proposes to give the judges of the court the power to appoint its clerk. This office has been and is now the most lucrative in the State, and it is reasonable to suppose that it will so continue. The duties of this office have, under the present system, been no demand from the people to be relieved of the power of electing the officer, and we believe they are not ready to give it up.

The proposition that Circuit Judges should be elected by district, and then assigned to service in such districts as the Chief Justice of the State may determine, will not take with the people. The voters will still cling to the old plan of electing the man they wish to serve them, and will not consent to a system that provides for a foreign election of any of their officers. The voters of this district do not court elected for them by any other parties. They believe they are yet able to elect for themselves and will contend for that right.

If we are to be deprived of the elective system in its effect, then let us go back to the appointive in its simplicity.

PURSUANT TO THE CALL OF THE DISTRICT COMMITTEE OF THE SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT, THE BOONE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE met on Saturday, September 13, 1890, to determine the manner of selecting and instructing Boone's eleven delegates who will attend the Democratic Congressional Convention to be held in Falmouth, Pendleton county, on October 16, 1890, and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1st. That on Saturday, October 11, 1890, a primary election be held in each voting precinct in the county, between the hours of 7 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock p. m.

2d. That the candidate receiving the largest number of votes in each precinct will be entitled to the vote of the delegate of that precinct so long as he is before the convention, and is not dropped or withdrawn from the candidate receiving the next largest vote to be entitled to the vote of the delegate from that precinct, and so on.

3d. The delegates to be selected by the officers of the election, and the poll books together with a copy of these resolutions shall be the credentials of the delegates when so chosen.

4th. Bullittsville and Taylorsport are together entitled to one vote, and the poll books of these two places are to be considered as one.

5th. The names of the officers of the election will be furnished later. J. G. FURMAN, Ch'm. Boone Co. Dem. Ex. Com.

The Tobacco Warehouse Combination.

[Farmers Home Journal.]

The opinion seems to prevail among those supposed to know, that the proposed combination of all the tobacco warehouses of Cincinnati and Louisville is about ready to be consummated. It is with profound regret that the Farmers Home Journal has watched the negotiation and development of this deal.

When the matter was first rumored, some months ago, we did not believe the Louisville warehousemen would go into it, and so stated. Some of the warehousemen, when questioned by us on the subject, disclaimed any knowledge of any such deal. We have regarded the Louisville warehousemen as the farmers' friends. Their position, as the farmers' commission merchants, naturally made them so. To them the farmers entrusted their shipments, often with full authority to sell or hold as they might think best. To them they look for protection against combinations and encroachments of manufacturers and buyers. Prompted by this idea the Farmers Home Journal has bought side by side with the warehousemen trying to build up the Louisville market. We have done this sometimes at the expense of severe criticism from some of our readers. We thought they were right, and that their measures would result in benefitting farmers, and frankly said so. But now, when they propose to unite with eastern money kings in a gigantic trust company, by which all tobacco both in buying and selling to be practically abolished, thus depriving themselves of the opportunity or ability to represent the farmer, it seems to us, that we may regret it, much as we must separate.

Until now we have said very little on the subject, hoping that something would happen to prevent the consummation of the deal, but as it is publicly announced that it is practically consummated, we cannot afford to remain longer silent. In our judgment it is a combination fraught with the utmost danger to grower and shipper of tobacco. The plan, as heretofore stated, is simply this: All the warehousemen of Louisville and Cincinnati have formed a joint stock company, trust or pool—it matters little by what name it is called. The capital is to be five million dollars. About one-third of this stock is to be taken by the several warehousemen of the two cities, the remainder is to be sold on the market. The whole management of the sale of leaf tobacco in the two cities is to be controlled by one board of directors to be elected by the stockholders. Among these stockholders will be manufacturers and buyers, who know that their class will own most of the stock and elect the managers? Then who will they represent, the poor farmer, struggling under a burden already too heavy, or the millionaire manufacturer or foreign syndicate buyer? Some of this stock, they say, will be offered to farmers. Yes, but are farmers now in position to buy it? We see nothing in this movement but oppression for the grower of tobacco. No matter what bait may be thrown out at first, he will suffer in the end. The trust, for such it is, is simply to make more money out of the business. There is but one class out of which it can be made. Whose? That of a trust company, which did not equalize the law in its power? They profess that, under the new management, lower fees may be charged. When the buyers, through this trust, can what do they care about that? They may own the stock in the trust, but if they get their tobacco at their own prices the trust becomes merely a trust. They may abolish all free trade and make millions where they make thousands now.

This movement will give the Wheeler a chance now to assert themselves. There is work for the organized farmers, such as they have never had before. They have thousands of friends in the business world and if they determine to fight this monopoly, capital can be had also. A state meeting should be called to consider what may be done.

FROM EXCHANGES.

The Glasgow Free Press, in a leading piece of information on the pending question:

Before Christmas, this Government will have enrolled more than a million pensioners. Annually, we pay more pensions than Germany expends on her standing army, and the list is swelling like a forest fire. The surplus of the treasury will soon be a tradition, and the treasury itself as empty as a last year's bird's nest. This is a glorious Government and the Republicans are running it.

The Calhoun Constitution and the Henderson Gleaner have formed a subscription society. The following from the Constitution is a sample of the expressions of brotherly love that is passing between these two journals:

The emaculate tomb of the Henderson Gleaner calls us an ass, and we are not in the least offended at him for this very complimentary allusion to us. He says we have dirt on us, which, even were it true places us at a decided advantage over the Gleaner, which has both flies and fleas on him. We are just the kind of a mule he says we are, and we can kick a bigger lump of trashery out of any Democracy info, his consoling carcase in a minute than the lump of butter that a boy could stuff into a wildcat with a hot awl in a fortnight. That's the kind of mule we are. If the Gleaner wants to meet one of his own species, he must find one of the long-eared, loud-braying kind. That's the kind of a mule he is.

The following from the Commonwealth is directly to the point and timely:

What constitutional question is presented by the location or removal of the capital? The Convention was called to extend or control the power of the government, to frame an instrument to be binding in the province of which all powers must be exercised; to make the organic law of the State for a generation—but not to determine where the seat of government shall be.

The blackberry crop having failed to produce the usual amount of revenue in Trimble county this season, the citizens resort to other means to raise the wind, and the Milton Press relates the following unique scheme proposed by one gentleman:

Will Caplinger has hit upon the following novel plan to make money fast. He has a brother who wears No. 12 boots (his name is "wait" either) and proposes to him that if he would suffer himself to be boxed up with his feet projecting over the county, he will best on his weight and divide profits.

The State Capital racket causes the Argus published at Frankfort to give Lexington the following gentle reminder:

The City of Lexington says she is entitled to the Capital of Kentucky. She said she was entitled to the status of Gen. Breckinridge also, and through the organization of the Monumental Association secured an appropriation of $10,000 from the State Treasury. Lexington's is a successful addition to the sum was $5,300, and for this liberal donation she demanded that the statue should be erected on Cheap street in that city, and it was done.

The Western Argus calls attention to the violation of a contract that interests all who have children in the public schools. It says:

There is considerable kicking about Smith's History of Kentucky, which has been added to the new large edition of the pupils' school. The State Board of Education adopted this book under contract that it should be sold at 60 cents. So far it has been sold at 80 cts. It is at 60 cents and could be sold at 40 cents. Then produce a large profit to the publishers. The State Board of Education should insist on its contract, or let it go.

The following paradox is from the Rising Sun Recorder:

During the twelve years the Republicans have had control of Congress they have wiped out $242,000,000 of the annual taxes, and by the new tariff bill will wipe out $70,000,000 more.

The last issue of the Warrick Independent contained the following railroad news:

There is hardly a question now but what the river route railroad between Covington and Louisville will be built, and that in a very short time. A prominent gentleman, while talking to Col. Bonney Young and C. P. Huntington at Louisville, last week, stated to us that Mr. Huntington said to Mr. Young that he intended to build the road referred to, and which is now under survey, at the earliest moment possible, and that there was a fund of three million dollars set apart for the building of the road. He is much displeased with the L. & N. railroad's treatment of him in the transportation of freight and other business over their road, and from his manner it is evident that he intends to build the river railroad to make the necessary link to his Kentucky Central and C. & O. system. It is authoritatively stated that the river railroad will be in full operation in less than three years.

If "firing" Democratic members who were elected, is the business referred to in the following from a Republican exchange, then we fully concur in the statement:

In spite of all manner of Democratic obstruction, opposition and abuse, the lower House of Congress has gone on and done more business than has been done by any other House of Representatives since the foundation of the government.

Wonder how many of the members of the Constitutional Convention propose to do likewise. The Carrollton Democrat says:

Judge Cox proposes to send to the members of the bar and to the county officers, the daily proceedings of the convention. He suggests that they preserve them, so that when the convention is over they will have the full proceedings, and may have them bound in order to put them in convenient form. A clever act and a good suggestion.

Jury trials in Kenton county last year cost the State about four thousand dollars.

It appears that the Constitutional Convention favors a secret ballot system, but there is a division of opinion as to the best plan. It is believed that the plan that will win the vote beyond the control of the pro-one of those who are to the poll, is about what is to be decided.

JUDIE FENLEY was defeated for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Eleventh District, by John Henry Wilson. Fenley in withdrawing his name and leaving the convention said, "that he was robbed of the nomination by treachery, ingratitude, and the use of boodles." There is a decided agitation in the bosom of the g. o. p. up in the eleven.

COL. WEDDEN O'NEAL, the Republican nominee for Congress in this district, made a speech in the court house Monday, to a fair sized audience of Democrats interspersed with a few Republicans. The Colonel made a very good speech, for his side. He could make a pretty good speech if he were on the other side where it is not so difficult to secure the ammunition.

ALTHOUGH the Senate passed a customary resolution, offered by a Democrat, thanking the presiding officers of that body for the fair and courteous treatment accorded to all, not even the Republicans dared propose such a resolution in Speaker Reed's behalf, and the House adjourned without even a conventional kind word for the insolent bully who has filled the Speaker's chair during the session.

Don't forget that next Saturday is the day set apart by the Democratic Executive Committee of this Congressional District for the voters to select and instruct delegates to the Congressional Convention which meets at Falmouth on the 16th inst. The order under which the election is to be held appears in another column. Let every Democrat in the county turn out and express his choice for Congress on that day.

THE Democrats were pretty badly lown in the Covington city election last Saturday, the majorities against them running as high as two hundred or more. The election was held under the Australian system, and many irregular ballots were thrown out, and the Democrats down there are doing "right smart cussin'" now. In Newport the entire Democratic ticket was elected by majorities ranging from thirty nine to nine hundred and thirty eight.

The iniquities of the McKinley tariff bill are known even in the remotest parts of ex-President R. H. Hayes' poultry-yard, and he at the chickens long enough to express himself as follows in regard thereto:

"I can not find words to express my regret at the passage of the measure. It is ruinous to our best interests, and it will do an infinite amount of harm. I can not understand how public men can be so blind to the interests of the country at large as to pass such a bill. It is the most terrible blow that has been struck at the Republican party during its existence."

The contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district is the most spirited for many years. The candidates have canvassed the district pretty closely, and have worked up considerable interest among the voters, and the friends of each candidate in this county are claiming a liberal proportion of Boone's delegation, but nothing satisfactory can be learned until after next Saturday's proceedings. But there is one thing very certain, and that is: each of the several candidates have a good following in this county, and the vote polled by either candidate depends upon the industry and earnestness of his friends next Saturday.

THERE was a pretty good crowd in town Monday, and the contest for the Democratic nomination for congress was receiving considerable attention, and the friends of some of the candidates were quite active, and were much encouraged at the prospects of their favorites. The Democratic Executive Committee held a meeting, added some new provisions to the call under which the election is to be held next Saturday, and appointed the officers of election. The order complete will be found in another column, and it will be well for the officers at each voting place to preserve a copy for reference at the polls.

Col. Landrum discussed the resolution offered by Judge Tiller, stating that it was an effort to shut him out as a delegate from his home county. He spoke of his war services and he had fought for the freedom of the colored people. That in his position as Collector of the Sixth Kentucky Revenue District he had endeavored to appoint all the officers within his power, but that he could not appoint everybody, and then spoke of his adherence to the Republican party, and following with the charge that Judge L. L. Tiller, who was opposing him as a delegate, had voted at the last Congressional election for Hon. W. W. Dickerson, the Democratic candidate for Congress, instead of Mr. Rardin the Republican; that Mr. Comingo was not a candidate for congress, and that while he, Col. Landrum, was out on the battlefield shedding his blood for his country, that Comingo was a government contractor.

Judge Tiller in answer to the charge said he had voted for Mr. Dickerson the Democratic candidate in preference to Mr. Rardin, the Republican candidate, because the latter had been selected as a candidate by a few self appointed bosses, instead of by the Republican party of the district; and his vote was a rebuke to such proceedings. Judge Tiller then turned the tables and charged Col. Landrum with voting for D. K. Hon a prohibitionist, candidate for the Legislature, over Thos. H. Kirby, the regular Republican nominee.

Col. Landrum replied stating that his vote for Mr. Hon had been for the purpose of dividing the Democratic party.

Mr. Wallace arose to a point of order and stated that the question before the house was the amendment as offered by Judge Tiller. The chair ruled the point well taken, whereupon Col. Landrum, moved to lay the amendment on the table and the vote being taken a standing vote, by which each Republican was counted, the motion was declared lost. Col. Landrum then moved to amend the amendment by inserting the name of Col. Wedden O'neal in place of Hon. D. N. Comingo and it was lost.

CALL FOR A PRIMARY ELECTION.

Pursuant to the call of the District Committee of the Sixth Congressional District, the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee met on Saturday, September 13, 1890, to determine the manner of selecting and instructing Boone's eleven delegates who will attend the Democratic Congressional Convention to be held in Falmouth, Pendleton county, on October 16, 1890, and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1st. That on Saturday October 11, 1890, a primary election be held in each voting precinct in the county, between the hours of 7 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock p. m., at which the various candidates for Congress are to be voted for.

2d. That candidate receiving the largest number of votes in each precinct will be entitled to the vote of the delegate of that precinct so long as he is before the convention, and when he is dropped or withdrawn then the candidate receiving the next largest vote to be entitled to the vote of the delegate from that precinct, and so on.

3d. The delegates to be selected by the officers of the election, and the poll books together with a copy of these resolutions shall be the credentials of the delegates when so chosen.

4th. Bullittsville and Taylorsport are together entitled to one vote, and the poll books of these two places are to be considered one.

5th. The names of the officers of the election will be furnished later. J. G. FURNESS, Ch'm. Boone Co. Dem. Ex. Com.

Any person already identified with the Democratic party, or any person wishing to identify themselves with said party and pledging to support the nominee may be allowed to vote, and any person, who by reason of age, never having voted, who will be a legal voter at the November election, may be allowed to vote without question.

The officers of election will prepare their own poll books.

Should any of the following officers, who are hereby appointed to conduct the election, fail or refuse to serve, some other good Democrat may be selected by either the officers or the committeeman of the precinct in which said failure occurs. The committeeman, if he is present, shall make the appointment, otherwise, the officers present.

Abstract

[illegible]

THE effort of a verdict in the court at Newport, in that Mayor Ben Dayton, who has occupied that seat two years, was not qualified for the citizenship.

A SUIT has been entered at Lewistown against the Supreme Lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor by a number of members of Jewett Lodge of that place, who suffered so terribly by the action.

IT is to recover $3,840 subscribers of the Order for the relief of the Lodge, but returned to the Supreme Lodge by Supreme Protector Miller, who holds that it was not needed.

ABOUT 11 o'clock the other night broke out in the composing room of the department of the Inquirer Publishing Company, Owensboro. The loss been estimated, but it will be considerable, all the job stock and a deal of job and newspaper material being ruined. Several job presses and machinery are considerably damaged. The origin of the fire is a mystery, it seeming to have started in a room adjoining the job-stock department.

In Kentucky quail may be killed between October 15 and February 1, and on other time, lawfully.

PATENTS for Kentucky issued to Henry M. Goodman, assignor of 1/4 to J. S. Bell and F. A. Baker, Louisville, self-offering car-trunk; Madeleine A. Swiate, assignor of one-third to J. W. Paduch, type-writing machine; and W. Keisef, jr., assignor to Mac-

SENATOR BLACKBURN, while en route from Lexington to Versailles the other morning, was thrown from his buggy and severely injured. His arm was broken and one shoulder crushed. During a portion of the day and the evening he was delirious, but last afternoon he was reading better.

JUDGE ROBERT A. THOMAS died yesterday, at Franklin, of pneumonia. He was sixty-two years of age and county judge of Franklin for five successive terms, or a period of years preceding the last one in August. He entered the Confederate army in 1861, and served until the end of the war as Lieutenant and quartermaster of the Fourth Kentucky.

Longfellow, dam La Syphide.

JOHN KRAUSHAAR, a well-known citizen of Louisville, fell while sitting at the supper paralysis of the heart.

THOS. MITCHELL, in jail at under a life sentence for the murder of the peddler Levine, last summer, whose case has just been confirmed by the Court of Appeals, made his attempt to break jail the other night and might have succeeded but for the faller Roby suspected and was vain. He had started a fire in the cell and intended to burn his way out. He had no chance, however, for the effort to secure a pardon for him had already been made by some of the citizens who were in doubt as to his guilt, and now probably that no further effort will be taken in the matter.

MASQUERADING in boy's dress seems to be the latest fad among the student class of strong-minded Democrats about Fulton. The Fulton Argonaut reports another case of a sixteen-

And find, too late, that pants have What art can hide from anybody
Her gentle sex by night or day."

THE announcement is made that Theresa Stewart, eldest daughter of Senator Stewart, will be united in marriage on the 11th of November to Captain Wm. P. Hale, of the Fifth Army, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal Church in Washington.

ALFRED KNOX, seventy-five years of age, was killed by a train near Erie Station.

JOHN GOODMAN, aged 105 years, died at his home.

HON. CASSIUS M. CLAY passed his eightieth birthday a few days ago.

The burning of Mrs. Pearly Clay's residence in Bourbon County a few days ago was the destruction of a local famous monument of the "good old times" and a noted center of white supremacy, culture, and the house itself a good one in many respects. Everywhere it is said to have been made by a blacksmith, and every foot of the place was sawed by hand with a rip saw.

It is reported that Captain J. W. Hooper, of Ballard County, has sold the Louisville syndicate, for $108,000, the place known as the Old Fort Jefferson property, including the site of a new manufacturing town, known as Dupont, lying nine miles below Cairo on the Illinois Central railroad and the Mississippi.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Savate.—Among the bills introduced in the House on the following: To establish a relief and pension office for the disabled soldiers of the late war, and for the advancement of the interests of the merchant marine. The resolution relative to the relief and pension office was passed by a majority of 133 yeas to 100 nays in third action. The Senate is taking up this bill in the afternoon. The bill to amend the act of March 3, 1878, relating to the election of members of the House of Representatives, was taken up in opposition to it, after which the Senate adjourned.

NOTES.—Notice was given that the appointments of the members of the committee on the bill will be called up next Tuesday. A bill to amend the act of March 3, 1878, relating to the establishment of a merchant marine. A memorial was presented to Congress urging the passage of the bill.

REPORT.—The report of the committee on the bill to relate to the commercial interests of the United States.

NEWS ITEMS.

The bill making annual appropriations for fortifications and other works of the defense was adopted by the House by a vote of 191 yeas to 100 nays. The bill estimates $4,488,700, or $5,000,000 less than the estimates.

REPRESENTATIVE SPRONG, of New York, introduced in the House a bill recommending the new tariff bill by inserting in Schedule N—dried—after paragraph 3, 44, the following provision, to wit: "And that the duty on such goods shall be 15 per cent. ad valorem; when made into articles of clothing 35 per cent. ad valorem."

REPORT.—The committee on Rivers and Harbors has formally decided not to prepare a river and harbor appropriation bill during this session of Congress.

REPORT.—The committee on the bill to amend the act of March 3, 1878, relating to the election of members of the House of Representatives, has reported a bill to amend the act of March 3, 1878, relating to the election of members of the House of Representatives, on the plea of economy.

The Representative composing the House contingent of the Joint Congression- al Commission to investigate the immigration agreed upon a bill to regulate immigration.

SEN. BLISS, was introduced by Representative BLISS, of Missouri, providing that the tax of two per cent. heretofore imposed on the importation of foreign goods, and all provisions of law imposing or restricting the importation or exportation of goods from the territory of the State is hereby repealed.

RESERVATIVE STOCKING, from the Committee on Commerce, was introduced by Representative BLISS, providing that the importation of live cattle, hogs, sheep, and all other animals, and the importation of a whole other than such that the animals may be slaughtered or used for food.

He offered for sale, from Mr. Haka's piano to Korman's rocking-horse. The stranger outbid every one, and was soon sold possession.

He even became the owner of the farm and stock, the only active bidder against him being the representative of Mr. Brown for the field adjoining his common.

Mr. Brown had not expected to meet with any opposition, and so had set the limit his representative was to pay for the moderate fees. The man, however, indignantly outbid, and so secured the whole.

It was at this juncture the auctioneer announced the sale. Mr. Brown's name was called and he pointed around him, as he presumed as soon as he could see every thing considered of.

"And Tom mortgaged that land to save my old home," thought Mr. Romala, "and now I am going to leave it to the man that the check I sent from England did not get to him in time. In fact, I am going to leave it to the children penniless, and I am writing at the letter again, 'a legacy to me!'"

"An auction almost at Christmas eve! Why, it seems fairly barbarous," thought Mr. Romala, indignantly, as he thought of the children, who were some of his friend Tom, and was so home to feel desolate under the hands of an auctioneer.

It was early the day, but already the home was filled with neighbors who had come from miles around to attend the auction. The children were among them; their ears were constantly greeted with remarks on the foolishness of "signing for people."

"What a day!" cried the little

"I find Mr. Brown hurried this sale to secure the money to pay his claim. It is very unfortunate for the children," said the auctioneer, rising.

"And now, my dear friend, to mortgage me this home, and to leave it to the children, is a happy Christmas, but with the children penniless, it is a sad Christmas!"

"Very sincerely your friend, as I am your husband."

"JOHN ROMALA."

"A father to the fatherless, and a husband to the widow." Once again the words fell from the lips of the weeping woman who for the second time that day knelt by the bedside of her husband.

Then clasping her children in her arms, she cried:

"I shall be with you my darling, when I have a home once more."

"And is de Romala clear gone away mamma?" Romala asked, anxiously.

"Yes, my dear treasure, everly by the way, thank God!"

PARTY OF EXTRANEAL were which were flung the Nation
 the State.

The Republican party, true to the tradition of its ancestor, the Whig party, has been the party of reform toward economy and retrenchment when in power. The party is so personified with that restless spirit, inherited from the Whig organizers, and because so accustomed to public opinion during the reconstruction period, that it has been the party of reform to-day almost synonymous from the National Congress down to the most insignificant municipal corporation. A party which has organized its efforts to abolish a useless office or to reduce the salary of an officer whose duties are no longer honored by the creation of more.

It was with such a party that we were which swept the Republicans out of the popular end of the Capitol was

 State and the Nation.

They and the local agents will be out the local habit of setting their local authority without the consent of the people.

Mr. Harrison's plan of returning boards "tops just short of effectiveness." No doubt the election might have been won by the party which when the attempt was made the second time the local voters might emphasize the fact that the party which was protest against the District of Columbia returning boards.

In theory the returning board system is a way for the District of Columbia tax-consumers to perpetuate themselves in office, regardless of the fact that these men local voters have a will of their own and are showing it, regardless of what a returning board certifies. So the only logic of the system is that Mr. Harrison

has a population of nearly 100,000 people. It is a mining country and recovers the waste of public funds. Since that "ideal" time, the people of Montana have been taxed to support a government that has been notorious for corruption and extravagance that ten weeks after the first session had adjourned a Democratic majority. The next session was a five majority. Two years ago the Republicans carried the House by ten majority, and three weeks ago they carried it by a three majority. The evidence in the Republican party so completely that, had not the party leadership been so weak, they would have Montana Senators and create States out of mining camps, the party of socialists would have been annihilated.

The Progressive majority by the last session of Congress are so enormous that if I voted directly upon the people every person enumerated in the last census to raise the money to carry them out. Although the service in general is being cut, the service in the department is decreasing—for instance, in the general land office, the bureau of land and mineral affairs, the bureau of the internal revenue department—1,161 new offices were created and $1,338,000 was appropriated for their support. The total appropriation for the department increased $135,000. When the surplus had been exhausted and a pension deficiency of $75,000,000 was next met by the Republican during the last days of the long session authorized contracts to be made for the purchase of 100,000 tons of coal for a sum amounting to $3,775,000 and also authorized the construction of heavy war vessels which, with armament, would cost $10,000,000. The total only $5,675,000 was appropriated and the remainder was saddled on the next Congress.

to be erected which will cost $711,639.54 when completed, but only $10,876.00 was directly appropriated. The secretary of the American Seaman and Harbor Improvement, the Secretary of War was authorized to construct other works amounting to $14,023,000, of which $3,000,000 was directly appropriated.

The fallacy of protection has had its effect on the American people. The Republican party with this mania for extravagance. The leaders, having taught the people to think that the government should own and file that the consumer does not pay for the goods, and that the millions stored in the Treasury vaults, derived from taxes on imports and income taxes, should be plundered for the improvement of foreign markets, and use them accordingly. A tariff and an extravagant appropriation of money.

The Republican party, as at present composed, has been taught to look upon the tariff as a means of increasing the cost of our manufactured products and thereby leave us out in the cold with the rest of the world. The European traders. Should the people exercise the power of retaliation given him by the McKinley act, they would be destroying the only profitable foreign trade we have. The other American countries would be absolutely shut out from the United States, for they would retain all the imports they need from European homes. The Pan-American countries would be shut out from the United States upon the plain principles of trade. The countries represented in that conference will continue to buy where they can get the goods at the lowest price, and prevents us from offering them much advantage. It is a very simple question, and one that should be very recently decided.—Albany Argus.

OPTIMISTIC PRETENSES

The President asserts in his message that the "general trade and industry of our country during the year have improved." The President is either unfamiliar with the condition of the country or he has received a communication which came into his message. The message was prepared when the outlook in the country marked was of the gloomiest description; when thousands of manufacturers were anticipating that there was to follow; when thousands of workmen were unemployed and compelled to face the possibility of losing their place through the failure of their employers.

It is true as Mr. Harrison says that the legislation of the last session of Congress promises "larger and better markets for our products and professions both at home and abroad."

cast the votes in the first place. In his message Mr. Harrison openly takes issue with the voters' great responsibility. "We must not be trusted with 'certification,'" he says. "We are to certify the votes. He is willing to let the local voters vote, but he is not willing to let the voters press the great responsibility upon him. The decision should be done by the agents of the District of Columbia office-holders, whom the people are likely to wish to see certify the votes. He is willing that these local voters certify their votes through their 'local authorities' and that the person whom they have chosen to certify the votes should certify Congress 'a prima facie right' to take seats.

Mr. Harrison's view, in the law in the American system, and he decided that it must be attended by the forceful bit on his way. His way of attending to the matter is to let the voters have the power to certify their vote through their 'local authorities,' so that it may be a 'prima facie right' to take seats.

One of the worst of many ills made miserable by the blood is that of scrofula. Scrofula is more especially than any other a hereditary disease, and for this simple reason. Arising from impure and insalubrious blood, the disease (known itself in the transmissible, when one is diseased, while disease; there is a period of local life when the whole body consists of white sinners, and there are the various solid is especially susceptible to the hereditary disease. Takes 1000 people to buy Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, at 50 cents a bottle, to make up $500.

Its makers profess to cure "cold in the head," and even chronic catarrh, and if they fail they pay $500 for their over-confidence,—

Not in newspaper words but in hard cash! Think of what confidence I take to put that in the papers—and mean it.

After all, the mild agencies are the best. Perhaps they work more slowly, but they work surely. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an active and mild. They're sugar-coated, easy to take, never shock nor derange the system and half their power is in the mild way in which their work is done. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. One a dose. Twenty-five cents a trial. Of all druggists.

"For years I have been afflicted with bad Digestive System, constipation and I have tried all the medicines I could get hands on, but to no avail. I have been unable to eat and do not relieve my constipation. In the summer of 1906 I was advised to take 'Tutt's Liver Pills' and my appetite came back. At that time, and my wife and I moved to Chicago and we have been taking 'Tutt's Liver Pills' ever since. They have worked wonderfully. They have brought back my appetite and I am now eating my food. I am now in good health and I have had these pills five years ago they would have saved me a great deal of trouble and my life. Let the afflicted everywhere know their value and the value of 'Tutt's Liver Pills'."

business in this country could have withstood such a condition of adversity during so prolonged a period; and it is equally certain that had it been practicable for the farmers of the country to withdraw their capital from this time of industry their loss is now almost totally reduced, even in the case of the agribusiness.

It is, however, "If we stop to reflect, easy to discern that if the chief business of a country is being done at sea, and yet that the country as a whole is becoming rich, there must be some significant error in the industrial system that produces such a result."

the fact that the Nation's wealth is being constantly increased; that it is largely derived from its agricultural resources and that those engaged in that industry are transacting business at a loss instead of a profit, is it difficult to understand that those who produce the greater part of the Nation's wealth do not enjoy it?

We can easily see that if a dozen men were engaged in as many different pursuits, and eleven of them were compelled to give up to the twelfth the entire profits they earned, the aggregate wealth of the twelve might be great.

If we extend the example it is equally apparent that if the great body of men engaged in industrial pursuits in any nation are compelled by law or otherwise to surrender to a few the profits of their labor, the Nation as such may grow rich, but its wealth will be concentrated in the hands of its favored few, while the many, robbed of their share of the wealth which the labor of all has produced, must of necessity remain poor.

I do not hesitate to say there is no possible justification for a system of laws that produces such a result.

No plea for the Nation's prosperity, however eloquent that plea may become, can smother the indefensible wrong that takes a single dollar from the earnings of one class of the citizens and bestows it as a bounty upon those of another.

I will not stop now to question whether the industries of a nation may or may not become so adjusted and equalized that a protective

It is enough to know that they are not so equalized in the United States.

If the farmers and laborers of this country are required to contribute from their earnings to build up lines of industry in which they are not engaged, it is absolutely certain that those who give must become poorer thereby, while those who receive will grow rich from the avails of labor they do not perform, and it requires no stretch of the imagination to foresee the social and national ills about to be caused.

to divide them a year or so in this the proudest Republic on the globe, as the human family is already divided in the most aristocratic monarchy of the old world.

It is infinitely better that this Nation should remain poor with its property, such as it has, distributed among all its citizens, than become the richest on the globe with its wealth concentrated in the hands of a few.

We dream of a theorist could conceive of a condition more perfect than one which would divide and could maintain, with equal effort on the part of individuals, an equal distribution of a nation's wealth among all its citizens. This is impracticable, but what can be said in favor of a system that strikes the very root of this equality; that side by artificial means in preventing the nearest approach to such equality that the human family is capable of attaining? Certainly nothing if men are just. If this is the result of a protective tariff the argument is ended. Let us consider further its effect upon the farmers of his country.

It is a self-evident proposition that a tariff levied upon products which a nation produces largely in excess of its own wants, which it is constantly sending abroad because its own markets will not take or use them, can have no possible effect upon the price of such commodities, and hence it follows that so long as we are producing annually hundreds of millions in value of agricultural products in excess of our own wants, no tariff levied upon these products can benefit the farmer.

Legislators may spread such laws upon the

It is equally apparent, we have been demonstrated so many times, that a tariff upon manufactured goods increases their cost and the cost of like goods produced at home, because of such goods we produce less than we use and hence must supply our wants in part by importations from other countries.

Latin. He must save a market for his surplus productions in foreign lands. Unlike the manufacturer he produces largely more for the home market will take. The most important question therefore for him to consider is how to extend the markets for his products. Nothing is more plain than the fact that if we sell to foreign nations we must pay for them. The situation could long pay in gold in any considerable amount of imports and escape bankruptcy. It follows irresistibly that 'tariff' that hampers the products of any foreign nation out of our price is a very undesirable view from

I have spoken of the condition of agricultural industries in my own State. I have called attention to the fact that for years these industries have been prosecuted at a loss instead of a profit, and I affirm without fear of contradiction that there is no State in this Union where the great staples of agriculture, the productions

I want now to say to the business men of this Nation, and to politicians as well, that some plan must be devised to get this industry on a different basis, or this Nation must prepare for a storm, the consequences of which—in both a political and economical sense—no man can measure.

I want to say further that this men engaged in this industry are not going to wait for a home market to grow up around them that is

Recalling the sentiment of my toast, "What our farmers have a right to demand," permit me to add they represent an industry as old as at least as the civilization of man, as laborious as any that has ever fallen to his lot without the successful prosecution of which the whole human family would lapse into barbarism and ease in decay. A business that forms the base Considered apart from their business they are the bone and sinew of this Nation. With their own calloused hands they have produced the bulk of its wealth; in times of war they have been its sturdy defenders, in times of peace the promoters of its welfare.

They have a right to demand that in the future policy of this Government no discrimination be made in favor of other industries at the expense of their own; that the power of the Government to levy taxes be limited to the single purpose of raising necessary revenues to be economically expended; that all property bear its just portion of that burden; that markets be broad enough to absorb the products of their labor and capital and compensatory prices be established at once and everywhere.

be as strictly forced upon the producers of labor and those that consume the productions of labor and capital employed in other lines of business. They may also demand that a currency which is good enough for one man shall be made good enough for all others and plenty enough to have a just equality but would be enough to value the value of the products of labor in all legitimate kinds of business. That both the Nation and the State shall exercise every line of transportation a reasonable and just control to the end that their products, the most bulky consumed to their value of any other.

It is because the Republican party in a succession but was broken in the latter century has favored their position because in all that time but one place has called attention to the trial of their waste, and then value of a Democratic President, was his party in the election, the reason we are assembled to celebrate.
